147 JOBS AFFECTED

Major Shakeup Of Gov't Buses

The provincial government Tuesday merged its two money-losing bus systems and said it will sell off its charter and sightseeing wings.

Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Hugh Curtis said 147 jobs will be affected although he said most will be found other work.

About 77 employees, mostly with PSL will, in Curtis' words, become redundant, but the minister said Hydro promised they will all be absorbed into other Hydro operations.

In the special sevices — charters and sightseeing areas — about 70 will lose their jobs.

Curtis said the Public Service Commission will endeavor to find other work for them.

He said the number who will lose their jobs altogether will be minimal.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines and Pacific Stage Lines becomes Pacific Coach Lines with headquarters in Victoria effective immediately.

Jack Thomas, current general manager of VICL was named general manager of the new operation.

Curtis said VICL, the B.C. Hydro-operated PSL and their sightseeing, tour and charter services are losing in excess of $8 million a year.

The merger of the bus services will end a duplication of

Sithole's Offices Bombed

SALISBURY (Reuter) — A hand grenade was thrown at the headquarters of black nationalist leader Ndabaningi Sithole's party in central Salisbury Monday night, military headquarters said today.

There were no casualties and only slight damage, a communique said.

The offices were empty at the time.

DNA Insulin From Lab

DUARTE, Calif. (UPI) — In a major genetic engineering feat, scientists at the City of Hope Medical Centre today announced the first production of human insulin in bacteria "tricked" by the insertion of artificial genes.

Laboratory manufacture of the hormone means that human insulin can soon be made available for the first time to diabetics whose lives depend on daily injections.

The insulin now being used is extracted from the pancreas of slaughtered cattle and pigs, and the supply is diminishing each year, the researchers said.

They said they produced only a few grams of insulin from bacteria in the laboratory, more than enough to prove the validity of the experiment.

About 300 units, or 3 cubic centimetres of insulin, are produced from a slaughtered cow or pig, a spokesman said. The average diabetic insulin user requires about 40 units or four-tenths of a cubic centimetre, each day.

The development, combining some of the most advanced techniques in the rapidly expanding field of genetic manipulation, was announced by the 10 collaborating scientists from the City of Hope and Genentech Inc., a research and development laboratory in South San Francisco which funded the work.

"We've managed to trick E. coli bacteria into making human insulin," Dr. Arthur Riggs of the City of Hope said in an interview.

"It took a year, beginning last September until the final product. That was on Aug. 9."

The work on insulin began shortly after the same team of researchers chemically synthesized the hormone somatostatin in the first demonstrated practical benefit from recombinant DNA technology in which scientists are able to combine segments of hereditary material from organisms of different species to create life forms with new chacteristics.

Dr. Keiichi Itakura, one of the City of Hope researchers, said about 10 to 20 per cent of all diabetics are allergic to animal insulin and while the human population is increasing rapidly with an associated increase in diabetics of about 6 per cent per year, the animal population is decreasing.

"The insulin shortage becomes more severe every year," he said. "There are about 6 million known diabetics in the United States alone and about 1 million are insulin users."

Posties Waiting

OTTAWA (CP) — Letter carriers are in a legal strike position today.

But whether the 18,000 members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada will withdraw services will not be known until later in the week when results of a strike vote are in, union spokesmen said.

Union president Robert McGarry says if members authorize a strike, the union will be ready to walk out at the end of the month.

Main disagreement with the post office is over a cost-of-living formula. A mediation panel recommended an 18-month contract with a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase retroactive to July 1 and a further 30-cents-an-hour increase effective July 1, 1978. The last contract expired June 30.

The Sokalskis...since bombing they live in deadly fear for lives

'Terror' Attack On Old Couple

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

An elderly Victoria couple said today they fear for their lives in the wake of a firebomb attack on their home over the weekend.

Artem Sokalski, 77, and his wife Mary, 71, her nose and chin bearing scars of a terrorist-style attack in which a home-made Molotov cocktail was hurled through their bedroom window early Sunday, said other neighbors are also fearful.

The firebomb, which burned Mrs. Sokalski's face and caused about $2,000 damage to the couple's duplex at 1136 Empress, was tossed through their window at about 5 a.m.

"It was an attempt to murder us," Sokalski said.

Sokalski said he believes the bomb, a gasoline-filled pop bottle with a rag attached, was a reprisal for numerous calls the couple has made to police over the past six months about noisy parties.

"Everyone in the neighborhood . . . they get no sleep either, and phone police. But they (the noisemakers) put all the blame on me."

Sokalski said he has lost count of the number of times he has complained. One night he called police four times because of loud noise and shouting.

"I've written to city council, talked to the chief of police, pleaded for help," he said.

"The police come and the noise stops for a time. But everyone fears retaliation."

He said that three weeks ago an unidentified caller warned him if he called police again the caller would "fix" him.

The following week there was another party and Sokalski contacted police. Twelve officers in five cars arrived and quelled the disturbance.

Early last Sunday, Sokalski said, he and his wife were in bed when they heard noise.

"My wife — she was still awake — woke me and said they were starting a party again. But a few minutes later the noise stopped. I looked out the window but couldn't see anyone. The light was on in the veranda."

He said he returned to bed. Suddenly there was a loud explosion and the room filled with flames.

Mrs. Sokalski face was burned when she grabbed window drapes and tried to smother the flames.

"If we'd hesitated just one second we'd have been dead," he said. "The flames, they were all over."

A team of city police detectives and arson investigators are continuing their investigation. As yet no charges have been laid.

But until they are and the culprits are caught, the Sokalskis will live in fear.

Judge Jaunt: $45,000

VANCOUVER — The cost of giving 29 senior Quebec judges a two-week English language training course at the Bayshore Inn in Vancouver — with teachers brought in from Ottawa — was around $45,000.

But almost twice as much tax money was spent during the same two-week period ending Sept. 1 for 50 senior federal judges from English Canada (including B.C.) to learn French while staying at the Chateau Bonne Entente in Quebec City.

English and French judges got the same deal: Economy-class airline tickets, two weeks' accommodation at a first-class hotel and a $25 daily stipend for expenses.

Sol Samuels, commissioner for federal judicial affairs, said in a telephone interview from Ottawa Tuesday that a language immersion program for judges — with a budget this year of $170,000 — has been operating several years.

Samuels said the decision to hold this year's English language training for Quebec judges in Vancouver — 3,125 miles (5,073 kilometres) from Quebec City — followed a suggestion from the Quebec judges that the program be held someplace "interesting."

When the program was offered at a resort in Northern Ontario, he said, only five applications had been received from francophone judges.

Samuels said he felt the $6,500 extra in air fares to hold the training in Vancouver rather than a place like Toronto was "money well invested in the over-all picture because the response was really great."

Air Woes Sept. 20?

MONTREAL (CP) — Another Air Canada shutdown could come as early as Sept. 20 if members of the Canadian Air Line Flight Attendants Association agree this week to give their union a strike mandate.

The airline's 2,700 flight attendants belonging to the union are currently taking a strike vote by mail and the vote results should be known by Sept. 15.

Summit Talks Begin

Times News Services

CAMP DAVID — President Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, secluded in an idyllic mountain setting, today began efforts to mediate peace in the Middle East.

Carter met with Sadat early today following an initial meeting with Begin Tuesday night. The first meeting of all three men is expected later today in talks that could last 10 days.

Hard-line Arab leaders, meanwhile, reacted to the summit today with gloom, predicting it would mean the end of Sadat's peace initiative and possibly point the Middle East toward war.

Syrian President Hafez Assad and Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat both suggested Sadat would get nothing at Camp David.

WACKY 78

KELOWNA (CP) — There will be no grand birthday party today for former premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Instead, he is spending his 78th birthday quietly at home with his family, says wife May Bennett.

Mrs. Bennett said her husband has an ulcer and is on a strict liquid diet. She said he requires almost round-the-clock care.

Liberals Widening Lead In Gallup Poll

TORONTO (CP) — The federal Liberals in the first week of August widened their lead over the Progressive Conservatives and were supported by 45 per cent of the decided voters, according to a Gallup poll released today.

Thirty-three per cent of those questioned were undecided.

The poll shows the Conservatives were supported by 35 per cent of the decided voters and the New Democratic Party by 15 per cent. The remainder of the decided voters supported other parties.

Poll results are based on 1,015 personal interviews with eligible voters, 18 years and over, across Canada.

The question asked was: "If a federal election were held today, which party's candidate do you think you would favor?"

The poll was taken four days after Prime Minister Trudeau made a speech on television in which he pledged to reduce government spending by $2 billion, reduce the size of the public service and convert the post office to a Crown corporation.

In July, the Liberals had 42 per cent of the decided voters, the Conservatives 34 per cent, the NDP 19 per cent and other parties had five per cent.

Opposition Leader Joe Clark said in Vancouver today that he hoped the latest Gallup poll results would give Prime Minister Trudeau the courage to call an election.

Clark said he would be delighted if an election was called and said he was confident he could win.

The results indicated the Conservatives were ahead in nine provinces and behind in

CANADIAN DOLLAR TOUCHES LOWEST

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian dollar set another 45-year low on New York money markets Tuesday after the Bank of Canada released figures showing it intervened heavily in August to support the sagging currency.

The dollar closed at 86.77 U.S. cents on the inter-bank wholesale market, down 11-50 of a cent from Friday's closing of 86.99 cents.

By noon today, it was down even further at 86.66 U.S. cents.

The last 45-year low was recorded only last Wednesday, with the dollar slipping to 86.86 cents before recovering slightly by week's end. Currency markets were closed Monday for the Labor Day holiday.

One trader said continued negative market reaction to the figures, released in Ottawa Tuesday, could push the dollar further down for the rest of the week.

In the last two months, Ottawa has spent nearly $1.1 billion of its U.S. dollar holdings to support the dollar, which has been losing confidence among market participants because of Canada's economic situation.

Port Pickets Idle Shipping

VANCOUVER (CP) — Container facilities at the Port of Vancouver were idled Tuesday as 136 striking National Harbors Board employees increased picket action.

The clerical and maintenance workers, represented by the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, local 517, went on strike 10 days ago in a contract dispute.

They had been picketing harbors board offices and maintenance sheds, but Tuesday they set up outside three other NHB facilities—Vanterm, Centennial Pier and Lynnterm. About 750 longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines.

Bulk exports such as coal, wheat and lumber, were still being handled by private terminals.

Fred Spoke, port general manager, said in a news release that several vessels were being directed to other terminals in port, while Canadian container cargo is being off-loaded in Seattle.

A spokesman for Casco Terminals Ltd., the stevedoring operation at Centennial Pier, said the company is losing several thousand dollars a day.

Union spokesmen said the picketing would continue 24 hours a day in an effort to get the NHB back to the bargaining table. The workers are seeking an 80-cent-an-hour wage increase to reach parity with dockworkers employed by private companies. The current base rate is $8.33 an hour.

Spoke said the harbors board offered to meet with the union if it would be flexible in its demands.

"The union, however, is apparently not prepared to depart from their position, which has not changed on the basic issues since the negotiations were started several months ago," he said.

City CBC Station Chopped

It's official — the CBC has indefinitely suspended plans for its new Victoria station originally scheduled to start broadcasting Nov. 30.

CBC president Al Johnson said station CBUVT on Channel 10 will be delayed as a result of a $71 million budget cutback ordered by the federal government.

But CBC regional director Len Lauk said today construction will continue on the Blanshard Street site and the $2 million building will be finished on schedule.

Broadcasting equipment worth about $5 million will not be installed for at least a couple of years, Lauk said.

He said CBC executives plan to meet with Victoria council to discuss proposals for use of the building.

Johnson said CBC expects CHEK-TV to remain an affiliate and continue providing national service to Victoria and surrounding areas.

CHEK planned to join CTV after CBC Victoria opened. The Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission has already approved the move.

CHEK-TV news director Tony Cox said station heads are discussing the effects of the CBC decision.

A spokesman for Victoria Cablevision said today he is sad the new station will not be operating this year.

"I'm sad about it, because Victoria had a lot to gain," said Len Charlish. "The station would have provided about 55 jobs."

As a result of the decision, Charlish said Victoria Cablevision will continue broadcasting on Channel 10.

Victoria viewers would not have lost KING-TV, Seattle, Channel 5, if CBC had constructed its local transmitter and started broadcasting, Charlish said.

The cablevision service planned to put community programming on Channel 11 and move 11 to midband.

In Vancouver, the CBC's announcement was immediately applauded by Garth Pither, chairman of the Association of Lower Mainland Cablevision Operators.

"We're definitely enthused because we had written to the CRTC suggesting it would be a good plan to shelf Channel 10 until such time that it develops substantially-different programming than Channel 2, Vancouver," said Pither in an interview.

Harbor Congestion 'Hazard'

Increasing air and boat traffic in the city's Inner Harbor is reaching hazardous proportions, two civic officials warned today.

Ald. Robin Blencoe called on the Ministry of Transport (MoT) to undertake an examination of the flow of traffic in both the Inner Harbor and Vancouver's Coal Harbor.

Coal Harbor is the site of Saturday's AirWest disaster which took the lives of 11 people.

Blencoe said he has had concern about safety standards in the Inner Harbor long before the AirWest crash.

Blencoe said he is worried about the interactions of boat and air traffic and about the way float planes approach the Inner Harbor.

Float planes often approach from the northeast, angling down sharply over the buildings along Wharf Street.

He said an investigation is needed for three reasons. Firstly the pilot who died in the AirWest accident was quoted only hours before the crash as saying that marine traffic and surface debris in Coal Harbor makes landing difficult.

Second, that AirWest has been refuelling with its engines still running and passengers aboard.

And third because, "there is the wider, continuing concern of Victoria residents about the operation of frequent airline flights over downtown buildings into a harbor containing many fish boats, pleasure craft, ferries and private aircraft operating on an unscheduled basis."

Acting Mayor Bill Tindall said he too is concerend about Inner Harbor traffic congestion and suggested a control tower in the area might be a solution.

Tindall said he has instructed city hall staff to gather data on traffic flows in the harbor and will go to council in a few weeks with some recommendations.

Meanwhile the union which represents workers at AirWest Airlines renewed its call Tuesday for an independent assessment of the airline's Twin Otter fleet.

"The pilots have certain fears," said Teamsters' Local 213 business agent Ken Steele. "People don't want to fly if the planes are unsafe."

Crash investigators continued to sift through the wreckage Tuesday in which nine Japanese tourists and two crew members were killed.

Darrell Smith, regional controller of civil aviation, said he has received no request from the Teamsters for an investigation of the AirWest fleet. AirWest maintenance personnel, however, are licensed aircraft engineers and can certify a plane's condition, he added.

The two survivors of the crash remain in hospital. Masakatsu Fukuta, 32, of Nagoya, Japan, was in fair condition, while Yukio Ishii, 30, head of the Vancouver-based company which arranged the tour, was in good condition.

Pilot Mark Goostrey had told a reporter hours before the accident that he had previously encountered a number of close calls in the harbor.

In a taped interview with a freelance writer, Goostrey said that debris below the waterline and boaters in seaplanes' landing paths constituted serious hazards for pilots.

Company general manager Dick Laidman, said Tuesday the firm seems to have been targeted by the media.

"We've had maybe more growing pains than other companies," Laidman said in an interview. "But if you look back, somehow the press has singled this one out."

The crash is the airline's fourth since 1972 and each one has been put under the scrutiny of courts, government investigators and the media.

"I don't think this history is any more noteworthy than any other airline company," said the former president of Pacific Western Airlines who joined AirWest earlier this year. "And I think this is how this (crash) should be viewed."

TOURIST ALERT

The following are urged to contact the nearest detachment of the RCMP for an urgent personal message:

Thomas Fredrick Smith, Ottawa; Charles Stobbs, Chilliwack; Peter Walsh, Fairview, Alta.; Jack and Jean Walton, Arizona.

Air Beacon Wrecked

KELOWNA (CP) — Vandals destroyed about $25,000 worth of electronic navigational equipment used to aid pilots at the ministry of transport's Black Knight Mountain station in this Okanagan community, a ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

Carl Tynn said that while the damage will not affect air navigation, it has set back plans for improving air traffic directional systems at the municipal airport.

The station will be out of operation for at least a month, he said.

Millions Flee India Floods

CALCUTTA (Reuter) — India's worst monsoon flooding in years has driven an estimated two million people from their homes in the eastern state of West Bengal and forced the evacuation of hundreds of thousands in the area around the national capital of New Delhi.

The death toll was reported in the hundreds. And there was chaos.

At the Haur railway station in West Bengal on Tuesday, angry flood victims blocked the track and held up the Ispat express train from Calcutta demanding food and boats to rescue their families from treetops and roofs.

They told a reporter aboard the train that they had been without food for at least three days and no rescue boats had been sent.

"Since the government is not taking any action to supply us food, we have been forced to adopt this measure for drawing its attention," one victim said.

One woman from a submerged village, Kiran Bala, told reporters: "For the last two days I have been looking for my family. My daughter and her children are still missing."

Officials said it is impossible to give a definite death toll or damage estimate, but newspapers and news agencies have placed the number of dead at several hundred.

Major Shakeup Of Bus Systems

services and increase efficiency, the minister said.

The sale of the sightseeing services will net an immediate saving of $1.7 million annually because of the losses in this area.

"Contrary to public opinion, all components of these companies incur losses," Curtis said.

Some union members said earlier those services are the cream of the company and it would be foolish to get rid of them.

But Curtis insists that a correct cost analysis shows they are money-losers.

The decision to merge was based on a task force report set up in April to find ways to reduce the deficits of the two companies.

Thomas was one of the co-chairmen of the task force. Larry Wight, general manager of B.C. Hydro's transit division was the other co-chairman.

Curtis said a board of directors and president of the new company will be named as soon as possible — perhaps as soon as next week.

Regular services on Vancouver Island currently offered by VICL between Victoria and Port Hardy will remain unchanged.

But the Grayline sightseeing franchise based in Victoria will be offered for sale immediately. Grayline runs several of the double decker buses in the Capital city.

And escorted tours outside Western Canada will be halted, although all previous commitments will be honored.

Both VICL and PSL operated charters to the U.S., especially to Reno and Seattle.

A private operator might be able to make a profit where PSL and VICL couldn't if he can combine charters and sightseeing services with operations he is already undertaking, Curtis said.

In some cases — such as the bus service to Victoria's airport — the employees themselves may want to take over the service, he said.

Style Solons Give PM Dressing-Down

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau of Canada "regards clothes as a source of cheerfulness, but is inclined to be a bit too boyishly exuberant at times," says a critique by two British clothing organizations. "Begging for votes does not mean that a would-be premier must be garbed in the outfit of a mendicant."

Politicians the world over got a dressing down today from the Clothing Manufacturers Federation and the Shirt, Collar and Tie Manufacturers' Federation.

Only President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France and Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany rated real praise from the tailors, who placed Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa at the bottom of their list.

Vorster, said the report, "displays a complete and utter disregard for clothes — a classic example of how a political leader ought not to look."

Giscard d'Estaing, on the other hand, "has a superb sense of style and knows exactly what suits him."

"He doesn't put on the first thing that reaches his hand each morning."

And Schmidt is a "good stylist and a complete contrast to the dull and ordinary way many German men dress."

U.S. President Carter's clothes are "surprisingly dull" says the report. They advised Carter to "try to make his clothes as cheerful as his smile."

President Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet Union "may have abandoned the awful Stalin style, but ought to have learned that a touch of elegance is not a sign of bourgeois decadence."

'Boyish exuberance?'

QUE. CUTS SMOKERS

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has outlined a program to reduce the number of smokers in the province, a spokesman for the department of social affairs said Tuesday.

Bertrand Veilleux said in a telephone interview the 18 recommendations in the policy include a ban on advertising of tobacco as of Jan. 1, 1982; no smoking in public places such as elevators, theatres, restaurants and hospitals; and a new 12-per-cent tax on cigarettes.

Gulp Goes the Bicycle!

QUEBEC (CP) — A French stuntman with a stomach of steel has almost doubled his own world record by eating more than 15 pounds of bicycle in 12 days.

As sidedishes, Monsieur Mangetout (Mr. Eat-it-All), also ate 100 razor blades, two plates and a glass, washing it all down with about 10 bottles of mineral oil and 25 gallons of water.

Mangetout, whose real name is Michel Lotito, set the previous record of eight pounds of bicycle in 15 days last year in Evry, France. It has been included in the Guinness Book of Records.

"When I was young, I had a complex — I was too thin," he said. "When I was 16, I ate my first piece of glass in a swimming pool."

"Then I ate plates, nails and bottles — all to win bets."

Mangetout, an attraction at a 12-day fair which ended here Monday, swallowed the bicycle parts after they were cut into pieces one or two cubic centimetres big. He was paid $5,000 for the feat.

He did not eat the rear wheel or such "inedible" parts as the pedal, the crank-gear or the handle-bar. His favorite bicycle part is the chain, because "it has taste."

Mangetout, who wants to tackle a small plane next spring, bent coins with his teeth during the fair and submitted to having his arm squeezed in a gigantic pair of pliers held by eight men.

After several days of relaxation, he is to return to France, but will be back in Quebec later this fall — to eat a television set, as a promotion for a Montreal radio station.

That's nothing new for Mangetout — he has already eaten two TV sets — black-and-white, 19-inch models—this year.

Venezuela Lashed By Angry Somoza

Washington Post

MANAGUA — An irate President Anastasio Somoza accused Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez Tuesday of trying to "provoke a bloodbath in my country."

Somoza, whose country's economy has been badly damaged by a strong and sometimes violent opposition movement, said his government "reserves the right to defend itself with all the constitutional resources" at its command.

Perez has strongly criticized alleged violations of human rights here and has urged the United Nations and the Organization of American States to intervene.

"I call on all member states of the OAS not to allow themselves to be used for these manoeuvres," Somoza said. Asked if Nicaragua would break relations with Venezuela, Somoza said, "It's a possibility."

Somoza met with foreign reporters as a nationwide general strike called by opposition politician and supported by business and labor went into its 12th day. The strike's goal is to force Somoza, whose family has ruled Nicaragua for more than 44 years, out of office.

A diplomatic source estimated that 95 per cent of the large stores in Managua and 79 per cent of the factories were closed Tuesday.

The source said the industries that remained open were owned by the Somoza family or the president's supporters. The strike is generally thought to be stronger in the provinces than in the capital.

While businessmen worked to keep the strike going, supporters of the leftist Sandinista guerrillas continued to erect barricades in the slums and throw small bombs during the night.

National Guard troops, the country's combined army and police force, patrolled slum areas during the night and residents reported hearing sporadic gunfire.

Beirut Guns Blazing

BEIRUT (AP) — Three persons were killed and 16 wounded in a three-hour exchange of fire Tuesday night between Syrian troops and Christian militiamen in Beirut, a police spokesman reported.

The heavy barrages of rockets, mortars and artillery shells caused several fires and did extensive property damage in the Christian districts of Ein Rummaneh and Hadath, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, at the United Nations, Lebanese Ambassador Ghassan Tueni said in a letter Tuesday to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim that the Security Council should consider changing the mandate of the UN Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) to bolster Lebanese authority in the country's southern region.

The six-month term of UNIFIL comes up for renewal Sept. 19. The council sent the force last March to take over from Israeli troops.

It's All Symbolic

In the past couple of weeks Canadians have heard much from Prime Minister Trudeau and members of his cabinet about a new program of restraint in federal spending.

The announcements have been greeted with considerable skepticism from the Canadian people — skepticism that seems to have been more than justified when a series of just-released figures from the first half of 1978 is taken into account.

The figures deal with the amount of government spending, not in absolute dollars but taken as a proportion of the country's total output, its gross national product. And they show that the percentage of spending by government — all levels of government taken together — was a full percentage point greater for the first six months of 1978 than for the same period of 1977. Moreover, the largest proportion of the increase came from the federal government, not from provincial or local government spending.

In the first half of the year, 41.8 per cent of the gross national product — that is 41.8 per cent of all the goods and services produced in this country — was spent by governments.

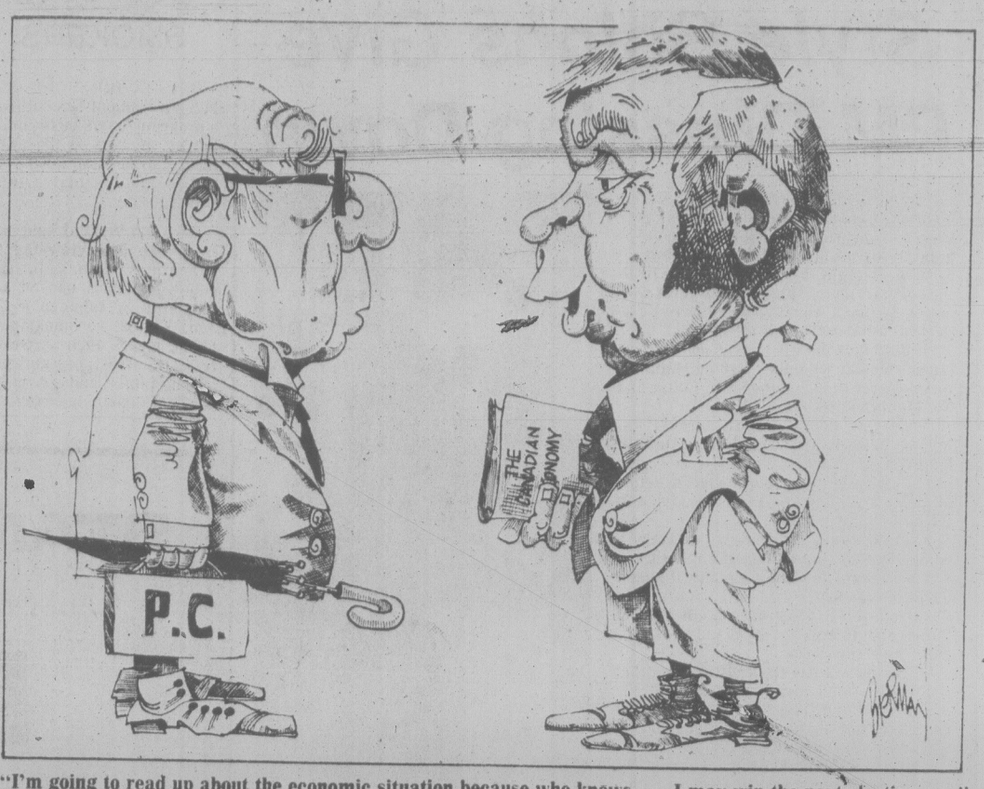
More than one-third of that 41.8 per cent — 16.6 per cent of the GNP to be precise — is spent by the federal government (not counting money it transfers to provincial or municipal governments). That 16.6 per cent figure is up from 16.1 per cent in 1977.

The increasing worry of many economic observers is that it is becoming close to impossible for governments, especially the federal government, to control their spending. More and more of their money — and especially more and more of the increases — is tied up in basic programs that are extremely difficult to curb. An example is the old age pension: the total costs of paying out the pension just keep on going up as more and more Canadians reach the magic age of 65. The only way to change the situation would be to make drastic cuts in the pension levels or eligibility criteria, something that would be politically difficult to do, to say the least.

The same problem occurs at the provincial level where a high proportion of money spent goes for the basic services of health, education and welfare. Interestingly, local government — the only level that does not have responsibility for these fundamental services — is the only level where spending has gone down as a proportion of the GNP.

The figures do not produce an answer for these difficult problems. They merely are symbolic of the difficulty in which our governments find themselves.

Regrettably, probably the latest federal spending cuts are also just symbolic — symbolic of a vain government intention to try to do a little something about a problem that it has no real idea how to cope with.



"I'm going to read up about the economic situation because who knows . . . I may win the next election . . ."

An Overreaction

In the wake of a tragedy such as the AirWest crash in Vancouver harbor last weekend, it is always easy to react too hastily and too emotionally. That is, at least, the most charitable explanation that can be given to the shrill calls by Vancouver Mayor Jack Volrich and Victoria Ald. Bill Tindall for an immediate shutdown of the airline.

The only good that can come from the calamity now is that lessons be learned from it to ensure, as much as possible, that such an occurrence does not happen again. Already procedures have been set in motion that those lessons may be learned: professional ministry of transport investigators are working to uncover the cause of the crash, a coroner's inquest will take place to let the public know what went wrong on the fatal flight.

These procedures may not be perfect; we have long suggested that an independent accident investigation body should be set up instead of using a branch of the regulatory ministry to do the job. But they are procedures that work better than adequately in the vast majority of cases, procedures that have built into them ways of dealing with any gross negligence that might be found.

Therefore, to suggest that Air West should be shut down until those procedures are completed is surely to over-react. Without wanting to sound hard-hearted, we must point out that earlier this year more than 40 persons died in the crash of a Pacific Western Airlines jet at Cranbrook, but no one suggested that all PWA's operations should be shut down for weeks. Many other airlines have had unfortunate tragedies in which hundreds of people have been killed, but no one has told them to stop operating.

Still less did anyone suggest after the Cranbrook crash that all 737s should be banned from flying until all investigations had been completed. Like 737s, Twin Otters have been flying safely for years, not only in B.C. but in many countries of the world.

It may well be that there are some serious difficulties involved in flying regularly into and out of harbors as busy as those of Victoria and Vancouver. If so, those difficulties should be brought out in some of the investigations into Saturday's crash.

If the mayors or councils of Vancouver or Victoria, want to look at the problems, there are also reasonable ways for them to do that. But their examination of the situation should be based on facts and logic brought out in a dispassionate atmosphere, not on an emotional response to a tragic incident.

BRUCE HUTCHISON

Memory Too Deep for Tears

The Cliffside station of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway is no longer a real station, only a wooden platform mouldering in the rain forest of Vancouver Island. But it is a notable spot in the nation's history. John A. Macdonald stopped there, in August, 1886, and drove the last spike (having missed the opening of the CPR's main line in the previous year.)

Cliffside has also become the symbol or testing ground of a current political controversy not as important, perhaps, as the autumnal agonies of the Canadian government but more interesting to the inhabitants of this obscure locality. For certain reasons the whole nation is involved in the dispute.

The oldest inhabitant was surprised, pleased and a little sad when, a few weeks ago, the modern generation of Islanders rediscovered Cliffside, organized an impressive ceremony around the forgotten stone cairn that commemorates Macdonald's brief visit and solemnly resolved that the E & N must not discontinue its passener service as planned.

Never Be Restored

Since Premier Bill Bennett is leading the protest movement it seems likely to succeed, despite the plans of the CPR, owner of the island line. But the oldest inhabitant realized that the early renown of Cliffside and the great days of railway travel could never be restored — not, at least, in his lifetime.

Two self-contained and efficient passenger cars, known as dayliners, were no substitute for the original trains of six spacious cars, pulled by a steam locomotive laboring, puffing and groaning up the steepest grade in Canada, whistling triumphantly when it crossed the summit.

That whistle once echoed and re-echoed from Atlantic to Pacific — the brave shout of Canada's youth, almost a human cry, as the steam locomotive was the only machine with a life, almost a soul, of its own. Doubtless the late Rudolf Diesel invented a more economic vehicle, fed with oil, but it lacks something intangible, a quality familiar and haunting to old Canadians, a sense of their mastery over half a continent, of man and machine in partnership.

A steam whistle, like nothing else, declared and verified the unwritten contract. The synthetic contemporary whistle, another cunning invention, is good enough for practical purposes but it does not deceive the Canadian who remembers the original authentic midnight voice rousing the sleeper to assure him that the nation never ceased its work in daylight or darkness, that it was a single organism, unified not merely by steel tracks but by an idea and a trust held in common. Such was the message and he now heard none.

The main-line transcontinental train gave the passenger a Canadian education that the airplane cannot offer because it moves too fast. It leaves no time for serious reflection. It conveys no sense of the nation's size, variety and grandeur when he sees only small patches of mountain or plain through the clouds.

Besides he is probably watching a motion picture filmed in Hollywood to relieve his boredom, eating an inedible lunch or drinking an expensive beverage. The train was a completely different thing, physical and psychological.

Its smoking room for gentlemen (ladies forbidden to disturb the male chauvinist pigs) became the focal point and exchange market of information, the incubator of politics, the sure guide to election results, the hub of the democratic process.

Here you would always encounter a stout, perspiring figure of mystery who brought the inside political gossip from Ottawa, controlled governments, chewed tobacco and made frequent but inaccurate use of the brass cuspidor; a salesman of underwear from Toronto who boasted of his goods and seductions; a bronzed grain grower from Saskatchewan who demonstrated at length that freight rates and tariffs were ruining the farm industry; a pioneer of Social Credit from Alberta who expounded the A plus B theorem in minute detail; and other persons of influence and distinction.

If you grew tired of argument, the dining car provided the finest menu in America, though the prices were high — three dollars for a dinner of five courses. Or if you could not afford them, the train stopped occasionally at some remote station that sold ham sandwiches tasting like cardboard but cheap, and apple pie with a crust of genuine leather. The railway supplied rich nourishment for body and mind.

Still better, it unrolled a portrait of Canada on a living, three-dimensional film, mile after mile — the gorges and pinnacles of the Rockies, the endless flat prairies, the towers of Winnipeg rising slowly above the taut horizon, the lakes innumerable of the Precambrian Shield, the Gothic spires of Ottawa and at last the foaming shore of the Maritimes.

Had Their Moments

A Hollywood movie on the airplane's screen may be worth a fee of two dollars to the impatient traveller but it does not compare with the reality flowing past a train's windows without extra charge.

The oldest inhabitant, observing the decayed platform of Cliffside, admitted to himself that the E & N trains, at their best, were a poor version of the transcontinental fliers, and yet they had their moments and their memories too deep for tears, much too deep for the young to understand.

Someday, however, the young would be old and then, the world's oil reserves depleted, the railway might return to coal and steam. The real whistle and its midnight message would be heard again echoing through the hills, telling Canada that it could sleep safe and sound, that the engineer knew exactly where he was going and how to get there.

Modern governments, with all their experts and computers, cannot make such a claim. They have never heard the whistle.

W.A. WILSON

Bitter Political Wine Ahead

OTTAWA — The political wine is likely to be more bitter this autumn and winter than the economic brew.

Economically, this year is not going to turn out to be anything to write home about but there are no signs that it will be worse than the most sober non-governmental forecasters have been telling us for months.

None of them see any possibility that we will achieve the five per cent of real growth (with inflation removed) that the government stubbornly keeps talking about. We were not headed towards that high a level and nothing in the August performance could have a quick economic effect to produce it.

The range of growth forecasts for some time has been between three per cent at the most conservative side of the bracket to 4.5 at the more optimistic side. Sober, reliable men with great economic experience now believe that we will be hardpressed to achieve four per cent real growth.

That is unfortunate, if not unexpected, because it means that unemployment must inevitably grow somewhat further and that we may not see any significant decline in it next year. Inflation should slow down during the next two or three months as autumn food prices come into play but some further rise, even if food alone remains the major factor, must be expected during the winter. It is certainly expected by the business community.

Uncertainty

The weakness of the dollar persists and it now seems apparent that, rather than producing a favorable effect in the financial markets, the government's most recent activities have caused some further uncertainty and loss of confidence. A dollar valued more or less at par with the American one was seriously overpriced given our financial position but it is now reaching an undesirable level.

Serious government and balance of payments deficits are contributing to this unduly low level of our currency. If the government's total deficit, or cash requirement were calculated on the same basis as a few years ago it is generally not accepted that it could be as low as the cabinet now insists. The ingredients have changed because some government agencies, which used to be provided with funds from the government, are now doing direct financing. When we come to consider this year's total deficit, or cash requirement, against those of three or four years ago it will be necessary to look carefully to make sure that a basis of comparability exists.

Economically then this is not a great period but neither is it worse, except for the likely size of the government's cash requirements, than many have foreseen most of this year. Politically, matters are much worse.

Last month's so-called economic measures were in fact a political program to rescue the sagging fortunes of the Liberal party and the Trudeau government. They were impulsive and lacking in coherence to an extent that caused one veteran of government affairs to commented that "I have never seen anything like this in the last 30 years — there was nothing comparable during the Diefenbaker years and we had some pretty lively days then."

PIERRE TRUDEAU
. . . sagging fortunes

So far as it is possible to judge at this time from the national capital, this program has not been much better received across the country than it has been here. At least in Ottawa, it has created a very high level of skepticism if not outright cynicism and reports from other parts of the country indicate that this reaction has been widespread.

If the government does not call a general election — and there are signs that it does not, at least at this moment, intend to do so — it must expect a very difficult final session of this Parliament. The mood of the House of Commons was already difficult late last spring, after the announcement that there would be no election in June.

As matters stand, 15 byelections scattered across the country will take place a couple of days after Parliament resumes. If the opposition does well in them, winning substantially in the non-Quebec seats at stake, the lust for political blood will be very strong indeed. Even with an indecisive over-all byelection result, the opposition is bound to view this government as vulnerable in the extreme and to seek to give it a bad time.

To add to the administration's woes it must now take this political program, presented in economic guise, and transform much of onto a legislative basis and that must then stand up at least fairly well in the House if the Trudeau fortunes are not to sag even further than they have.

There is real doubt that the senior officials who will be charged with that task can pull it off, since they were left either unconsulted or with minimum consultation in the first place. Indeed, there are persistent reports that their state of morale, especially at the critically important department of finance, is not high at the present time. There has been some informed tendency to wonder whether all of these key officials will stay and for how long.

Weak in Toronto

Reports persist as well that the latest opinion polls show the Liberals extremely weak in Metro Toronto, that other parts of Ontario are at least soft and that the situation for the government in British Columbia is grim. The last Gallup showed them with 42 per cent support nationally but traditional Liberal strength in Quebec distorts this national figure and it is more than likely that, if the Quebec figure were removed and the rest calculated separately we would see the Liberals somewhere around 33 to 35 per cent. That is not encouraging for a government on which time is rapidly running out and it is highly encouraging for the two main opposition parties.

New Democrat strength has been rising and that party's leader, Ed Broadbent, has been increasingly effective as an opposition figure. He is able to use daily access to the television cameras with good effect and, since he will not form the next government, he is somewhat less hampered than Conservative critics can risk being in what they say.

The next session of parliament may be interesting but there are no signs that it will be good for the country except as a preparation for an overdue election.

Two Sisters

In the Times Aug. 19, in the church section, you ran an article (Sisters on Mission) on the sister missionaries of the Mormon church in this area.

Your article was good but you have missed or your source has missed, out on a few facts. First, the sisters in question have been in the area for some time, one for the past few months while the other sister I have not yet met, so she must be new to the area.

Such sister missionaries have been in Greater Victoria before and the two pictured have now been joined by two new sisters in another part of the city. They and the elders can be seen going from door to door, travelling around the city, testifying of the gospel of Jesus Christ and his restored church. You may find it interesting to talk to them, and listen to their story.

In closing I would like to thank you for your willingness to cover church news and I appreciate your efforts. — Stewart A. McLeod, 635 Langford St., Victoria.

Accolades

An accolade to the Times editor responsible for placing the come-on "No future unless . . ." on page one of the Aug. 28 Times. Surely, even the most casual reader would be spurred on to page 25 to read Derek Sidenius' excellent compendium of the discussions of the three-day conference sponsored by the World Federalists of Canada.

I attended that conference. It is frightening to contemplate the issues that were raised. Yet comforting to know that a number of highly intelligent people are aware and sufficiently concerned about humanity to make an effort to arouse us from our apathy and direct us toward a means whereby the ever-escalating insanity of the arms race, its cost and dire consequences could be stemmed. That is, action on our part through our elected government representatives. Several European countries have succeeded. Why not Canada? — Dorothy Potts, 3395 Browning Street.

Distasteful Cartoon

I refuse to have cartoons as distasteful as those produced by Roschkov in my home. A few days ago (Times, Aug. 21) he savagely lampooed Her Majesty and for this reason please be informed that I am cancelling my subscription.

I am heartily sick of the apparently widespread attempt to discredit or demean what the royal family stands for and since you obviously support this campaign your paper is unacceptable. — K. I. Worral, 304 Beaumont Avenue.

Law Has Yet to Cope with Computer Errors

By MICHAEL SCHRAGE
Washington Post

NEW YORK — An air traffic controller, relying on information from his computer console, directs two Boeing 747s on to intersecting paths. The jets collide, burst into flame and all aboard perish.

—A hospital minicomputer, monitoring a patient recovering from surgery, fails to alert hospital staff that the patient is having a stroke. The patient dies.

—A company discovers that its computer has mangled valuable and sensitive information beyond recovery. The loss gravely weakens the company's market position.

In each instance, investigators trace the fault to errors in the computer programs that directed the operations.

"Those examples aren't fanciful," says Susan Nycum, a San Francisco attorney who serves as vice-chairman of the American Bar Association's computer law section and is a co-director of the Computer Law Association. "They illustrate the problem."

What Recourse?

The problem is whether people harmed as a result of computer error can recover damages.

By virtue of their increasing strength and sophistication, computers now touch nearly every facet of society. Computers regulate automated machinery, help coordinate railroad transportation and manipulate billions of dollars worth of information each day. Programming errors in these computers can cause significant personal injury, property damage, and financial loss.

"The computer is now so pervasive in both business and governmemt that it increasingly has a direct impact on people's lives. There is now greater exposure for personal harm and economic loss caused by computer," says Nycum.

Grey Areas

However, the legal framework to remedy such harms is uncertain. Questions of computer negligence and liability fall into the shadowy grey areas of the law and the judicial system has yet to come to grips with them.

"Determining the proper judicial course will be extremely difficult," asserts Nycum. "No fact patterns have emerged, no precedents have been set and the whole area is very complex.

"We really don't know the extent to which a software company can be held liable for harms their computer programs create."

Part of the difficulty arises from the cloudy status of computer programs and software in the eyes of the law. For tax purposes, computer programs are considered to be services. Yet many lawyers and computer industry people believe that computer programs should be considered products.

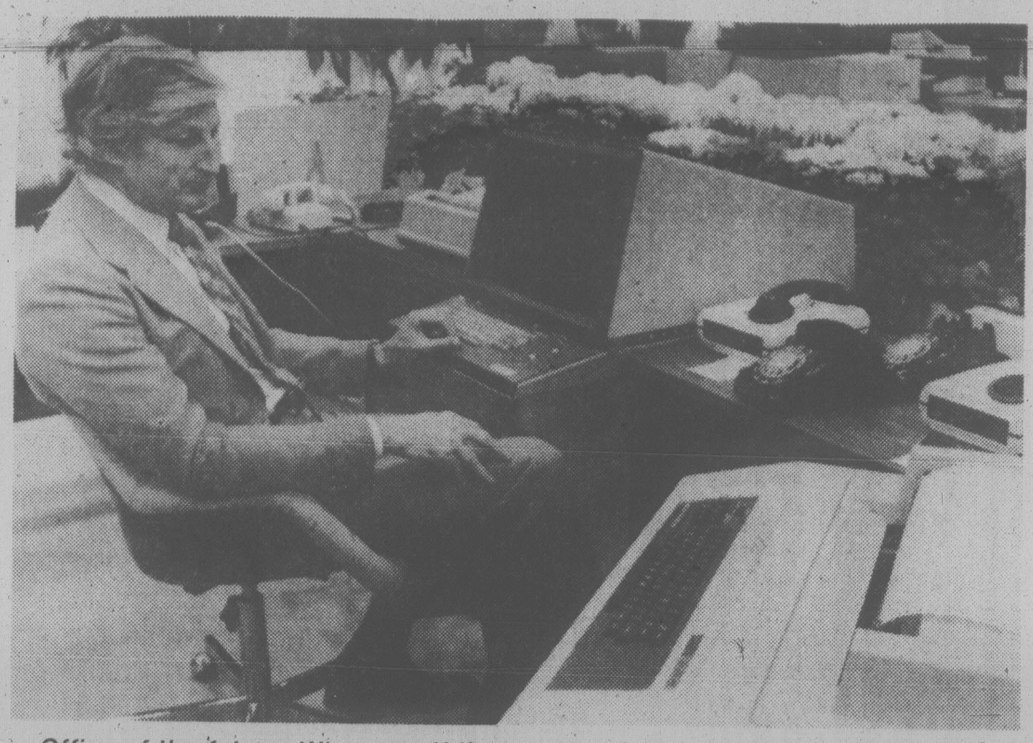
"It's difficult and unwise to classify software with one word (products) that's normally used in another context and put it into a common law pigeonhole," says Milton Wessel, a law professor at New York University.

The courts have not yet decided whether computer programs are goods or services. The distinction has a number of legal ramifications.

In the area of tort law, the question hinges on negligence.

Did the software company do or fail to do something that contributed to the resulting harm? If this can be established, the next question is whether the action or omission violated a standard of care owed to the customer using the computer program.

Nycum and others argue that computer programmers and software development companies should be held to professional standards. So far no professional standards exist for programmers and software companies — although computer industry people are trying to establish professional certification standards.



Office of the future: Who pays if those computers are poorly programmed?

Furthermore, this problem is exacerbated by the fact that it is next to impossible to establish the correctness of a given computer program.

Nycum and Wessel, among others, agree that it would be extraordinarily difficult to establish legal standards of care for computer programs because of their inherent complexity and their comparative newness. However, Nycum feels that many types of computer programs have been around long enough so that certain standards of care should be legally established.

Perhaps the critical aspects of liability arise in the case of third parties harmed by erroneously programmed computers.

Take the hypothetical example of an air traffic controller, who, solely because of computer error, mistakenly causes two planes to collide and their occupants to perish.

Would the families of the passengers and crew be entitled to sue the developers of the defective computer program?

Legal observers feel that the courts might accord computer programmers the same legal protection as accountants and thus effectively absolve them from negligence.

Trend of Law

Yet the trend of the law to protect the ultimate consumer is accelerating.

Clearly, the answer to the hypothetical question is shrouded in uncertainty.

But Professor Wessel does not see the question as so obscure. "I don't believe there's a difference between the liability for software and any other product," he says.

In fact, legal observers feel that if computer programs are held to be services then the protections provided by product liability would be analyzed into the service area.

But a spokesman for IBM says, "As with all our products, should an error occur, we are not responsible for consequential damage." IBM declined to comment whether it had ever settled out of court on a situation of this nature.

A major fear of the computer industry is, if the courts should hold software developers liable for harms caused by defective programs, program development in the U.S. would be seriously crippled.

One computer lawyer points to the time when he advised an Illinois software developer not to design an intensive-care-unit monitoring program because of the potential liability involved.

Another consideration is the possible effect on electronic funds transfer (EFT). Recent congressional action has limited bank customer losses to $50 in case of computer error.

However, it is left up to the bank and the systems designer to determine who bears the cost of the misplaced funds. If the software developer is held liable for the loss, this would discourage development of EFT technology as the risk of loss might be too great.

Richard Bernacchi, a Los Angeles lawyer who is the West Coast vice-president of the Computer Law association, asserts that "most software houses couldn't afford financially to put themselves in the position to assume liability."

Bernacchi feels that policy questions will enter into any decision handed down on the liability of computer programmers.

Courts Wary

"In cases such as these, the courts often look to who is best able to assume responsibility," says Bernacchi. "The courts will look very hard at the question before coming out with a negative opinion against software developers."

Already, computer software houses are taking out insurance to cover possible damages that their programs might cause and both Bernacchi and Nycum detect a greater awareness of the problems conjured up by liability when they negotiate contracts for computer companies.

Anti-Vietnamese Feelings Create Strange Bedfellows

By WARREN BROWN

NEW ORLEANS — The Vietnamese refugees who fled here from a falling country three years ago have been caught in the middle of a different war.

The conflict in this semi-tropical city and its nearby communities is not between Communist and non-Communist. It is the long-running battle between black and white Americans; but many of the combatants in both racial camps have come to regard the South Vietnamese as enemies.

It is a peculiar struggle in which groups that should be allies are seemingly cast as opponents, and those that have been historical opponents are seen in many quarters as allies.

For example, there is the Urban league of Greater New Orleans, long the local champion of equal rights. The mostly black league has caused a major controversy here by suggesting that the new minority of South Vietnamese is growing far too rapidly and without due regard to the economic impact it is having on the city's predominantly poor population of blacks.

The immediate target of the league's criticism is the Associated Catholic Charities (ACC), an influential, predominantly white organization dedicated to helping the poor and which directed a portion of the resettlement of Vietnamese refugees in the area. ACC, in the past, has been loyal to the ideals of the Urban League.

Then there is Chalin O. Perez, a powerful white official of nearby Plaquemines Parish (county), the scion of a wealthy family whose opposition to integration and "outsiders" is legend.

Perez, for once, agreed with blacks on something in accusing the federal government and the ACC of "dumping" South Vietnamese refugees into the area, with its French-Catholic culture and its fishing heritage.

Perez announced last month that he will take steps that could lead to the departure of Vietnamese fishermen from his parish.

But the conflict swirling around the Vietnamese, about 8,000 of whom are living here and in adjacent towns, involves more than a listing of major players. It is a highly emotional thing, one that is largely a matter of perceptions, of long-held frustrations, and of what local Vietnamese leader Vu Huu Chuong called "dangerous misunderstandings."

Since, May 1975, South Vietnamese refugees have flocked to the New Orleans area. An ACC official said his organization was directly responsible for bringing 2,100 refugees and that 5,100 other refugees came to the area on their own.

Many blacks here, like Dyan French Cole, a community activist, complained that the Vietnamese are being used by the whites to frustrate black ambitions for a better place in the local economic and social order.

"Every time you look around, somebody is coming here and being put ahead of the blacks who were born here," Cole said. "We were treated as property from the beginning, never as human beings. Now we are being told to step back and make room for the Vietnamese, just as we were told to step back and make room for the Cubans and everybody else the whites wanted to put ahead of us."

On the other hand, many whites complain that they have already "given in too much" to black demands. It is enough to have one minority group always knocking at your door without having to put up with another — in this case, the South Vietnamese refugees doing the same thing, disgruntled whites say.

The problems here, real and imagined, are plentiful, and they tend to obscure the voices of those people, black and white, who say they welcome the Vietnamese to this area with no strings attached.

New Orleans, for instance, has what urban planners call a "distressed economy." Indeed, New Orleans is said by its mayor, Ernest N. Morial, and other urban planners to have "the most distressed economy" of any city its size in the United States.

There are an estimated 586,000 persons residing here, about 51 per cent of them black. More than half the blacks, 56 per cent, live at or below the poverty level. The city has a 7.6 per cent overall unemployment rate. Unemployment in the black community is put at 22 per cent for all adults, and at 45 per cent for black teenagers.

It is this competition for scarce resources, against a historical background of black-white friction, that is generating much of the discontent about the movement of Vietnamese to this area.

Rev. Michael Haddad, executive director of the Associated Catholic Charities, which is considered the major force behind the South Vietnamese resettlement program here, said:

"The decision to admit more refugees is one that will affect only the poor in this country, and it won't affect the rich or the middle class. I know that's a problem, but the problem was here long before the Vietnamese came.

But there is a difference says Daniel C. Thompson, a local university vice-president and sociologist who also serves as president of the city's Co-Ordinating Council of Black Leadership:

"We have never seen blacks in this city so frustrated and mad as they are now about their economic position. There is a kind of reckless anger out there that wasn't there even in the 1960s, when, at least, there was some kind of hope."

Modern Cobbetts Needed?

By WILLIAM SAFIRE
New York Times

FARNHAM, England — A famous old inn, located about 90 minutes west of London, used to be called The Jolly Farmer. Now it is named The William Cobbett, after the angry and vituperative journalist born here in 1763.

I've been collecting Cobbett's works for years. One of journalism's first investigative commentators, his unpopular eruptions in print made him the only man to be chased first out of England and then out of America for printing what he saw to be the truth.

He began as a soldier in the service of George III, but after charging his officers with corruption in regimental accounts, Cobbett was forced to flee France and go to America. In the U.S., taking the prickly name of Peter Porcupine, he proceeded to infuriate most of his new neighbors by extolling the virtues of England, lacerating their founding fathers and even presuming to disagree with Noah Webster's English grammar.

When a Philadelphia judge fined Cobbett $5,000 (then an enormous sum) for libel, it broke the back of the Porcupine's Gazette and drove its editor back to England and a warm welcome from the Tory government.

That romance did not last long. By 1804, Cobbett's new paper, The Political Registar, turned on England's establishment and became the foremost radical organ of opinion. Essayist William Hazlitt coined the term "fourth estate" to describe Cobbett's influence. Soon the Tories had had enough of him, and a libel conviction landed the grammarian-farmer-editor in Newgate Prison for two years.

GEORGE III: Is press freedom ebbing 200 years later?

After serving his sentence, Cobbett continued his attacks, but when the government threatened to jail him again, he hurried back to America and pioneered in the study of agriculture.

The tumultuous life of this combative, good-natured, ill-tempered, often bigoted and unabashedly inconsistent man had a happy ending. But the government tried to jail him again, this time for sedition. Cobbett had a following the judges could not safely ignore. Instead of being imprisoned again, he was elected to Parliament, where he put some of his reformist ideas into effect.

Following the path of Cobbett's rural rides to the tavern bearing his name in Farnham, a visitor is struck by the similarity of the harassment, now as then, of the press by the state: Particularly by the judges.

No longer are libel and sedition the means by which judges nibble away at the very first protection against tyranny demanded by the men who signed the U.S. constitution. Under the banner of fair trial rights, the law is putting itself above the law.

Recently, judges in Washington decided that it serves justice best for police officers to have the right to rummage through newsmen's private notes. In New Jersey, a judge has decided that it serves justice best for a defendant to be able to try to force a reporter to reveal his confidential sources.

The reason the judges can get away with repealing the First Amendment is that the press has done nothing to stop the rise of judicial hubris. Who passed the social legislation of the Fifties and Sixties? Not the Congress, but the courts. Who struck down a president? Not Congress or the press, but primarily the courts. And who was leading the cheering as an unrestrained judiciary became the most powerful of once-equal branches of government? Most of the press, now paying for that poor judgment with its freedom.

At the very root of the U.S. system of law is the idea that no man shall be his own judge. Yet in the decisions about the extent of judicial power, the judges are their own judges.

A New York Times reporter sits in jail today for not telling who helped him expose an admitted failure of our law enforcers. How different is his case from the persecution, nearly two centuries ago, of William Cobbett?

Reader's Digest

The Reader's Digest Association (Canada) Ltd. reported net earnings of $1,401,129, or $1.44 a share, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1978, compared with last year's restated earnings of $1,654,078, or $1.70 a share.

The company blamed the decrease in net earnings on a 15.3-per-cent increase in operating expenses.

Scotia Bank

The Bank of Nova Scotia reported earnings after income taxes for the nine months ended July 31 amounted to $106.4 million, an increase of $10.8 millions or 11.3 per cent from the same period in 1977.

Earnings per share were $2.58, up 26 cents from last year.

Assets at July 31 reached $25 billions, compared with $21.3 billions on the same date a year ago.

C. E. Ritchie, chairman and president, said the Canadian currency interest was higher this year.

Hundson's Bay

Hudson's Bay Co., reported net earnings of $1.354 million for the half year ended July 31. That compares with net earnings of $4.098 million for the same period last year.

The company said in a news release that amounts to 31 cents a share as compared with 29 cents a share last year. The net earnings do not include an extraordinary gain of approximately $3.6 million from the disposal of an investment in Glenlivet Distillers Ltd., of Scotland.

Sales and revenue increased by 8.1 per cent to $691.4 million compared with $639.4 million for the same period in 1977.

The Bay said merchandising for the six months accounted for $8.6 million in earnings while real estate accounted for $6.4 million.

$50,000 Pay Approved By Cabinet

The Socred cabinet last week approved a $50,000 annual salary for Adam Little, chairman of the Workers Compensation Board.

The salary is retroactive to April 1, the start of the current fiscal year for the provincial government.

Vice-chairman Jerome Paradis earns $46,500 and commissioners Denis Davis and Sam Brown are each paid $42,000 annually.

Other cabinet decisions made public Tuesday include the approval of the core curriculum for French instructions to be used in provincial elementary schools.

Schools with a French program already underway will be obligated to follow the core curiculum.

Starting in Sept., 1979, all schools districts will be required to offer French core curriculum if there is sufficient demand by parents for French teaching in the elementary schools.

Cabinet also approved the appointment of a Vancouver Sun reporter, Jane Burns as a public information officer in Premier Bill Bennett's office at an annual salary of $16,500.

She replaces Dave Roach who will be returning to the education ministry.

Roach, a $20,000 a year information officer, was seconded from the education ministsry just over a year ago.

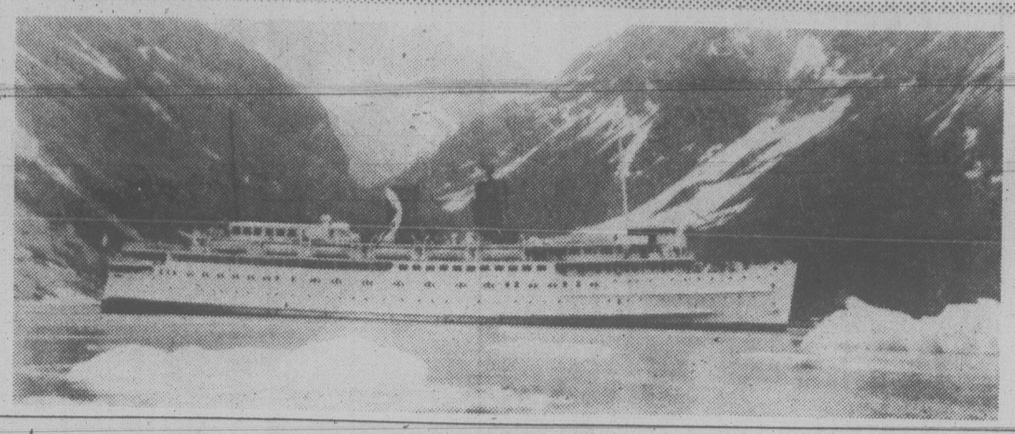
Burns will be resposible for assisting the premier's press secretary and will also be in charge of editing the monthly B.C. Government News — the provincial government's propaganda organ.

Other cabinet-approved appointments include Dr. George Curtis and John McEwen, both of Vancouver, to the corporate and financial services commission.

Dr. Curtis is a Rhodes Scholar and a Queen's Counsel lawyer, and one-time dean of law at the University of British Columbia.

He was named chairman succeeding Leon Getz.

The commission hears appeals arising from decisions made under a number of corporate acts administered by a ministry of consumer and corporate affairs, such as mortgage brokers, liquor regulations and travel agents.



Princess Pat Keeps Sailing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Increased passenger business has encouraged CP Rail to keep its 29-year-old ship Princess Patricia for another season of cruises between British Columbia and Alaska.

The 6,000-ton ship was to have been retired this fall.

Barry Margetts, CP's general manager of coastal marine operations, said Tuesday this year's program of 18 sailings has been fully booked, after two years of poor returns.

To continue operations beyond next year, however, would mean expensive modifications to the ship to meet new United States pollution rules prohibiting sewage discharge in U.S. coastal waters.

Pr. George Dispute Settled

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A tentative contract agreement was reached Tuesday between the Prince George school district and its 380 locked out non-teaching employees.

The custodians, clerks and cafeteria personnel, represented by the International Union of Operating Engineers, local 858, will return to work today, said school board chairman Bruce Strachan.

The employees were locked out Aug. 2.

The lockout had prevented more than 20,000 students from attending the first day of classes Tuesday. They will begin school Friday, Strachan said.

Details of the agreement were not released. The dispute involved pay and sick leave issues.

Trustees' Chairman Resigns

REVELSTOKE (CP) — A breakdown in negotiations between the provincial education ministry and the school board here has led to the resignation of the board's chairman.

Brian Matheson, a British Columbia Hydro manager working on construction of the Revelstoke Dam, said he resigned because he "clearly saw a conflict of interest" in negotiations.

The school board, the ministry and Hydro are trying to decide on allocation of school costs.

Matheson said the board is worried that an influx of school-age children brought into the school district by workers involved with the dam will raise school costs.

"So, Hydro is a third party here, and as I work for Hydro, I decided to pack it in," he said.

School trustees said Tuesday that if an agreement is not reached, the district will have to reduce educational services or place a heavier burden on the taxpayers.

The school board estimates it has already spent $140,000 in extra education costs.

$300,000 Grant Asked To Curb Deer Forays

KELOWNA (CP) — Okanagan fruit growers have asked the provincial government for a $330,000 grant to study ways of curbing foraging deer from ravaging trees and plants in Okanagan and the Kootenays.

Richard Bullock, president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers Association (BCFGA) said Tuesday farmers have had made several unsucessful attempts to keep deer away from farmlands and are reluctant to shoot them.

A delegation headed by Bullock recently went to Victoria to present their request to administrators of a $60 million fund under the joint federal-federal Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act in Victoria. The group, he said, comprises BCFGA representatives, provincial ministries of highways and lands and forests, plus fish and wildlife groups.

Bullock said the group has not yet received an answer.

He said some of the solutions that should be considered are various barriers, repellants and the rehabilitation of range land, which may have been overgrazed by deer.

Clark addresses Vancouver meeting of supporters

Clark Bares Action Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition Leader Joe Clark tried to beat the election starting gun Tuesday, announcing a six-month plan of action for his Progressive Conservative party should it triumph in a federal vote.

Clark, in a speech to about 2,000 supporters, pledged a tax-cutting budget, negotiation with the provinces on the constitution, parliamentary changes and the development of a national industrial strategy.

Most of what Clark said was not new, but he summarized it in the manner of a politician who is eager to get on with his election campaign. His speech came amid continuing speculation that Prime Minister Trudeau could soon call a federal election.

Clark, who termed the coming election the most important in 20 or 30 years, told the group that if he is elected he will choose a cabinet and "make changes in the senior public service that we have to make" in his first two months in office.

Then, he said, he would call a short session of Parliament to introduce a new budget and to amend parliamentary rules to "restore the reality of democracy" that he says has been lost under the Trudeau regime.

The budget, he said, would include permanent personal tax cuts for low and middle income earners of $300, costing a total of $2 billion, and tax incentives to business that would help stem the flow of investment out of Canada to the United States.

After the short session, Clark said his cabinet would be split into three groups. One would try to make practical changes to the constitution through negotiation with the provinces.

A second group of ministers would study in detail ways of identifying and chopping government waste and the third would examine the strengths and weaknesses of the economy.

Earlier Tuesday, Clark said a basic goal of his party is to make Canadian tax policy at least as attractive to investors as that of the U.S.

He told a meeting of the Men's Canadian Club of Vancouver, largely composed of businessmen and professionals, that the tax system must reward initiative and "free the creative energies of the Canadian people."

Studies show that Canadians pay more personal income tax than Americans.

Clark said that since the government of Prime Minister Trudeau took office a decade ago the flow of investment into Canada from the U.S. that began at the end of the Second World War has reversed.

Crawford

Crawford, Judge Clash

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. businessman Francis Crawford clashed briefly with the judge over a piece of evidence today on the second day of his trial on charges of buying rubles on the black market.

Crawford's Russian lawyer, Leonid Popov, told reporters he expected the trial to end today. Although Crawford might get eight years in prison, there was speculation he would get a light sentence and would be exchanged for two Russian employees of the United Nations who are charged by the U.S. goverment with espionage.

Following completion of prosecution testimony which Crawford said was "like a fairy tale," Judge Lev Mironov cross examined him for 45 minutes about how his employer transferred money in and out of the Soviet Union.

The cross examination appeared to be an attempt to understand the financial procedures used by U.S. businessmen.

The judge produced a customs declaration he said showed Crawford once entered the country with $1,600 and left with $2,700, suggesting that he might have acquired the difference illegally.

"You've got it backwards," Crawford told the judge, insisting he entered with the larger sum and left with the smaller one.

As Mironov grew more and more testy, Crawford left his seat, went to the bench and pointed out the spaces on the form marked "entry" and "exit" in Russian.

"Enough, sit down," said the judge, annoyed, and he broke off the line of questioning.

Just Too Hot For School

YANKTON, S. D. (AP) — Canadian students periodically get to stay home from school when weather conditions are too cold or when blizzard conditions prevail, but in at least 10 South Dakota cities Tuesday classes were cancelled because of 38-degree heat.

Gov't Warehouse Theft Set at $1M a Year In U.S.

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — More than a million dollars worth of merchandise each year is being stolen by General Services Administration employees from warehouses that stock office equipment and furniture for the agency, according to a consultant's study.

The study of theft at GSA's 20 warehouses across the country was made by Philip C. Baridon of Public Management Services Inc. in McLean, Va., for GSA's Federal Protective Services, which guards federal buildings. Baridon said he was told by GSA employees he interviewed that GSA officials were aware of the theft problem.

"I think they feel powerless to do anything about it," Baridon said, "partly because of a lack of resources and partly because they had an idea it was protected by officials of GSA."

GSA sources said the agency has been aware of the theft problem at the warehouses and has asked the FBI at various times to investigate. GSA now has an ex-convict working as an undercover agent in one warehouse where thousands of dollars worth of merchandise has been carted off in trucks each week, according to a source.

"They've been stealing for years," the source said. "They use legitimate trucking firms and put the contraband on the trucks along with legitimate merchandise. They take something they want and drop it from the inventory. It's checked out by people involved; and they have people on the loading docks."

William B. Foote, assistant GSA commissioner in charge of the warehouses, said his figures show only a $146,000-a-year shortage from thefts or errors in inventory records on the $800 million in merchandize that passes through the warehouses each year.

Baridon's study team compared records of shipments into the warehouses with records of shipments out and estimated the total annual losses at $1.3 million. They concluded that GSA's own estimates of losses were inadequate.

"We were told it takes God himself to declare a shortage a theft so they dump it (the shortages) in other categories in their records," Baridon said. At some warehouses, he said, GSA's records showed profits, which he said was "impossible."

Baridon said that he presented his findings on the warehouse theft problem in 1976 to Jack M. Eckerd, who was then GSA's administrator. Eckerd seemed disinterested and took no action, he said.

Walter J. Burns, who requested the study as head of operations of GSA's Federal Protective Service, said Eckerd appeared to accept contentions of those who run the warehouses that the study was not thorough enough and might suffer from errors.

"He said he was concerned about theft but didn't think it was that big a problem," said Burns, who retired from GSA earlier this year. "We felt it justified pursuing the matter more intensely, but he didn't."

Korchnoi Tries TM In Chess War

BAGUIO (UPI) — World Chess challenger and Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi has been taking lessons in transcendental meditation from two Americans convicted of attempted murder.

Sources close to the challenger said Tuesday the sessions calmed Korchnoi's nerves and helped him overcome difficulties in the 18th game to force Soviet champion Anatoly Karpov to ask for a draw.

In a move to break Korchnoi's momentum, Karpov requested postponement of the 19th game Tuesday.

Karpov leads the series 4-1 and needs two more victories to retain the crown he won by default from American genius Bobby Fischer in 1975 and pocket the $350,000 top prize.

Since his return from a four-day trip to Manila last week, Korchnoi has been taking lessons in meditation from Stephen Michael Dwyer, 31, and Victoria Sheppard, 32.

The two were convicted of stabbing an Indian diplomat in Manila last February. They were sentenced to a maximum term of 17 years but are out on bail while the case is on appeal.

The two belonged to the Ananda Marga — an Indian-based sociospiritual organization whose members carried out a wave of violence in other countries to press demands for the release of their leader, who was in jail in India. He has since been freed.

When Dwyer and Sheppard heard Korchnoi's complaints about a Soviet hypnotist trying to disturb his concentration, they offered their services to him.

"Meditation is for the balance of the mind," said an Ananda Marga member in Manila. He said a certain sound is given, such as, "love is all there is."

"Let that sound repeat in your mind so that as you think, that's what you become," he said.

Dead Girl's Baby Saved by MD

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A pregnant 15-year-old girl two weeks from scheduled delivery died with her three younger brothers and sisters in a house fire Tuesday, but quick work by an emergency room physician saved the life of her baby.

The 7-pound, 4-ounce boy was delivered by Dr. Arturo Apolinario in an emergency Cesarean section operation at St. Joseph's Hospital. The baby was later transferred to Hahnemann Hospital where it was listed in critical condition in the intensive care nursery unit.

The infant's teen-age mother, Earline Davis, was killed when she jumped from an upper floor of the three-story house to escape the flames.

Apolinario, 42, a Filipino who came to the U.S. nine years ago, said he had a "feeling of achieving something although the mother was a losing cause.

"It gives you mixed feelings," he said. "There is a tragedy of the mother's death and also a sense of gratitude that you we able to achieve something."

He said the boy's future mental development could still be in jeopardy because of the loss of oxygen the infant suffered when the mother died and her heart stopped beating.

"I'm just hoping that I got the baby out in time," he said.

Apolinario said that when he determined the mother was dead after she reached the emergency room. "I tried to check the baby's heart. I was able to hear a slow heart beat so I surmised the baby was still alive. Right then I decided to do an emergency Casarean."

Miss Davis' brothers and sisters died from smoke inhalation and burns, according to the medical examiner's office. They were identified as Metheno Davis, 8, Marcina Davis, 11, and Mohammed Everett-Bey, 13.

Four other children were taken to Hahnemann hospital suffering from burns and abrasions received when they also tried to jump to safety from the burning house, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

The children's mother, Josephine Everett-Bey, 36, was listed in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with a fractured femur and hip.

Police said the blaze may have been caused by a faulty electrical system but the fire marshal's office was investigating to determine the cause.

Goodbye to a Touch Of Olde England. . .

LONDON (CP) — The backbone of English tradition, quaint villages with their timbered pubs, rose-wreathed cottages and local school, are threatened with extinction, says a report by the Standing Conference of Rural Community Councils.

Thanks to planners, the report says, rural communities are struggling to survive.

As shops, schools and pubs — the essence of village life — are forced to close down, so the village begins to dwindle.

"The link between school closures and the death of a living village was built into the planning system," says the report.

Traditionally, the village school has always been the centre of activities.

Worst hit, says the report, are the communities with a population of less than 500. Once they teemed with life but now 70 per cent have no school, 50 per cent no post office, 30 per cent no shop, 61 per cent no pub and 68 per cent no garage.

And cuts in transport services leave housewives and retired people housebound.

Romania Purges Top Ministers

VIENNA (Reuter) — Romania's interior minister was fired Tuesday in a security crackdown following the defection to the United States of a high-ranking secret agent.

The outgoing minister, Teodor Coman, was stripped of office without explanation as rumors of a mounting purge continued six weeks after the disappearance of one of his deputies, Lt.-Gen. Ion Pacepa.

Coman, in charge of security services and police, was dismissed in a brief decree issued by President Nicolae Ceausescu. He was replaced by a little-known Communist party provincial official, George Homostean.

Last week, 12 senior army and security officers were reported under arrest in Bucharest as the president launched a searching official enquiry into Pacepa's disappearance in Cologne, Weet Germany, on July 29.

Pacepa, a state secretary (junior minister) in Coman's ministry, was later reported to have been flown to the United States for extensive debriefing by the CIA.

Coman was the second senior minister linked to the security services to be fired since Pacepa's defection.

Tourism Minister Nicolae Doicaru, a former deputy interior minister, was dismissed in mid-August without public explanation.

Neither man was assigned to a new post, and diplomats speculated they might be among those arrested or held for questioning in connection with the Pacepa defection. Some Bucharest sources said up to 100 people were possibly involved in the purge.

Bucharest's main radio station went off the air for several hours this morning and there was no explanation for the silence when normal broadcasting resumed. The Coman dismissal was reported by press and radio as a routine item.

Informed sources reached in Bucharest said a "very thorough and vigorous" investigation of the Pacepa affair is under way. Ceausescu called last week for closer Communist party control over the security services.

Amateur Finds Comet

TOKYO (AP) — A 69-year-old amateur astronomer who began scanning the skies with a small handmade telescope about a year ago has shared in the discovery of a new comet.

The Tokyo Astronomical Observatory said today that Toshio Haneda of Hara-Machi, about 200 kilometres northeast of Tokyo, was peering through his handmade 8.5-centimetre telescope last Friday night when he found a celestial body of the 10th magnitude shining dimly.

He checked the star chart and found no comet of that magnitude in that position. He also spotted the comet Saturday night and reported it to the observatory.

The Tokyo observatory passed word of the find to the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass. It informed Haneda his discovery had been confirmed and the new comet named the Haneda-Campos Comet, for him and for an Australian named Campos who reported the comet about the same time Haneda did.

Officials at the Tokyo observatory said they believe Haneda is the oldest person to discover a comet.

Competency Test Bid

NASHVILLE (AP) — A public defender representing a man police say confessed to 17 murders says his client will not co-operate with authorities until his mental competency is determined.

When Kenneth Taylor, 37, of the Youngston area of Ohio was stopped early Monday for driving with a broken auto tail-light, police say he confessed to the murder and $95 robbery of a Nashville man. Police said Taylor led them to the body of David Willie, 36, then told of murdering 16 other people in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

"This man is in need of immediate hospitalization," Taylor's lawyer, Mike Engel, said Tuesday.

Three Ohio policemen and two from Pennsylvania are in Nashville hoping to question Taylor.

Sheriff Dan King of Robertson County, Tenn., said Tuesday night he has closed an investigation into Taylor's allegation that he murdered someone at a highway rest stop.

No-Car Boston Gets Nod

BOSTON (AP) — In a city known for its free-spirited drivers, thousands of pedestrians spilled off the sidewalks as the city began a permanent ban on autos in the heart of the downtown shopping district.

"I just can't get used to walking in the street, I've been so terrified of the cars," one elderly woman said to another as they walked down the middle of Washington Street, one of the five notoriously congested streets closed to traffic when the city began the ban Tuesday.

People remarked on the absence of bus and car fumes, and casual strollers no longer had to dodge the drivers who rule city streets.

"It's much more pleasant," said Larry Kirkman, 49, a native Bostonian but now a free-lance writer in New York.

"I wish we had this in New York. The little triangular parks and the awnings over the sidewalks are fantastic. I like the old city of Boston and this is the way it should be."

The district is off-limits to all cars. Delivery trucks are allowed before 11 a.m. and after 7 p.m. The city is putting on extra bus runs from the suburbs to the walking district.

But while pedestrians had the heart of the shopping district to themselves, drivers were tangled in traffic jams in the maze of narrow, twisting streets surrounding the area.

Police said the surrounding streets were unable to handle the increase in traffic.

But for walkers, the ban was viewed as a success.

"I wouldn't have gone shopping today except I started walking around watching the people," said Donna Boylan, 25, of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. "This is a big issue on St. Thomas. They want to do the same there because of all the tourists."

Callaghan Vote Closer

BRIGHTON (Reuter) — Britain's powerful Trades Union Congress has overwhelmingly endorsed the governing Labor party for a coming general election but still plans to fight a major plank of the government's economic policies.

The TUC, an umbrella group for representing 11.5 million workers, voted at its annual conference Tuesday to work for a Labor victory in an election which Prime Minister James Callaghan is likely to call for October.

Today, however, the TUC is expected to reject the government's attempts for agreement on pay restraints.

The 1,100 TUC delegates mostly listened in silence when Callaghan argued Tuesday for a five-per-cent guideline on wage increases for the next 12 months and said that what happens to the cost of living in 1979 depends partly on the level of pay settlements.

Callaghan praised the unions for past co-operation on wage restraint, which he said has helped to reduce Britain's annual inflation rate in three years to 7.8 per cent from 26.9.

But he warned the delegates: "If you exert your muscle and secure wage settlements higher than five per cent, I say to the country quite frankly inflation itself will be higher than today."

In his address Tuesday, Callaghan made a campaign-style attack on the Conservative opposition led by Margaret Thatcher but gave no clues about the date he will call an election

Oct. 5 remains the favorite choice of delegates here. The current standing in the 635-seat House of Commons shows Labor and its allies hold 310 seats against 319 held by Conservatives and other opponents.

Blazing Cross Against Roots

NASHVILLE (AP) — A cross was set ablaze on the lawn of ABC-affiliate WNGE midway through Tuesday night's repeat telecast of Roots.

Police spotted the flaming, three-foot-high, cotton-wrapped cross on patrol and later found an empty bottle which may have contained gasoline.

Tom Smith, the station's spokesman, said following a showing of the first segment of the made-for-televison drama about the history of American slavery: "We don't know why it was put there unless someone objected to the showing of Roots."

Marines To Oust Nazi Duo

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI) — The Marine Corps plans to discharge two corporals who announced plans for a recruiting drive for the American Nazi Party and accused President Carter of treason.

Dominic Lewitzke, 19, and Dale McKissick, 20, will be discharged "due to substandard personal performance," Lt. Col. B.J. Speights, said Tuesday.

Lewitzke and McKissick were quoted in the Yuma Daily Sun as saying they had started a feeler campaign in Yuma to recruit local residents to the Nazi Party.

SECRETS TRIAL STIRS PROTESTS IN BRITAIN

LONDON (AP) — Two journalists and a former corporal in a British army intelligence unit went on trial Tuesday charged with offences under Britain's Official Secrets Act.

About 100 persons — including members of the National Union of Journalists — marched outside the Old Bailey with placards protesting the secrets legislation.

The prosecutor told the Old Bailey — London's central criminal court — that the former soldier, John Berry, disclosed to the reporters the existence of a top-secret government communications headquarters.

The journalists on trial are Duncan Campbell, 25, and John Crispin Aubrey, 32. Both worked for the leftist weekly magazine Time Out when they were arrested last year with Berry.

Berry, 34, served until 1970 in an army unit called Sigint, an acronym for "signal intelligence."

Prosecution testimony in a pre-trial hearing shows Sigint is engaged in "obtaining intelligence from electronic listening."

The Official Secrets Act, enacted in 1911 and amended in 1920, covers virtually any knowledge a government official or serviceman gathers in the course of his work.

Grits Widening Lead

one, which was Quebec, he pointed out.

He said the country needs an election now and the economy was suffering because the international community does not trust the Trudeau government.

In Ottawa, leading Liberals said they credit their increased support in public opinion polls to initiatives taken to revitalize the economy.

Although the Liberals said they believe they could handily win a federal election at this time, they did not anticipate Trudeau will call one.

"We're the greatest," chortled Urban Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet on his way to a cabinet meeting.

Senator Alasdair Graham, Liberal party president, said the polls augur well for the party in 15 federal byelections slated for Oct. 16.

Walter Baker, Conservative House leader and MP for the Ottawa area riding of Grenville-Carleton, said the Liberals should not be so optimistic.

"The (poll) results give comfort to no party," Baker said.

With 33 per cent of the electorate undecided about which party to support, the voters are in a volatile mood, he said.

Ed Broadbent, federal NDP leader, said today he hopes the latest Gallup poll results will encourage Prime Minister Trudeau to call a federal election immediately.

"I don't think those figures accurately reflect the feelings of the voters, but I hope the prime minister believes them," Broadbent said in an interview while touring a vineyard in St. Catherines, Ont.

Broadbent said his own party's figures show that Liberal support has dropped since the poll was taken.

He also noted a five-percent increase in the undecided vote, saying this signalled a further erosion of Liberal support.

Heward Grafftey (PC—Brome-Missisquoi) called Trudeau "gutless" and "a spoiled brat" for not calling an election immediately.

The Quebec MP said he has no idea how the Conservatives would fare in an election now but one should be called nevertheless because the nation wants and needs an election.

"The people of Canada want a chance to get rid of the worst government since Confederation,he declared."

'Gets Under the Gut When You Meet Bad Moments'

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Looking at her in the lobby of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, you'd never dream she's probably the best-known woman pilot in the world.

Sheila Scott, an unassuming and soft-spoken Londoner, was here for a quick view of Victoria after being the guest speaker at the Abbotsford Air Show's banquet.

Scott has toppled records in Europe and North Africa. She first began flying in 1959 and entered her first air race that year in an old modified Tiger Moth.

She broke her first record in 1965, going on to topple 15 records in 36 hours.

In 1966 she made her first around-the-world flight in a single-engine Piper Commanche, this time setting 96 records.

She made another trip around the world in 1968.

In 1971 she became the first man or woman to fly over the North Pole in a light plane, this time a Piper Aztec. She's careful to point out she wasn't the first to fly over the North Pole. That honor goes to Charlie Blair, who did it in a Mustang in 1948.

For her flying achievements she was awarded the Order of the British Empire.

She admits to having had moments of terror as well as elation.

"There are good moments and terrible moments," she says. "It does get under the gut when you meet the bad ones. Then there's sometimes the political thing when you land in countries to refuel. It's all part of the adventure."

★

Famed Pilot Has Been Breaking Records Since 1965

★

A bad car accident 2½ years ago forced Scott to sell her last plane in order to pay her heavy medical expenses but the plane is still flying. Scott says she sold the Piper Aztec to Contact Airways of Alberta and it is now being used in the Arctic.

"I left all three of my planes flying alive. They've done every thing in the world for me and it was important to leave them flying," she says.

While grounded, Scott has turned to writing and lecturing. She already has three books published — Barefoot in the Sky, I Must Fly and On Top of the World — and has four more in the making. One is a children's book, one is on aviation pioneers whom she considers have been overlooked, another is a novel and the fourth, called Sheila's Notebook, is a collection of age-old tips.

During her years of flying, Scott became a firm believer in ESP (extra sensory perception) and she still is.

She says that when she first experienced evidence of ESP while flying she put it down to being a woman and overtired.

"But it happened so often — it became almost a daily experience — that I became convinced," she recalls.

With one more bout of surgery to go, Scott is restless to be flying again.

She says when the next around-the-world race begins she will be there.

Parade Open to All

The excitement starts and ends in Gorge Park on Sunday.

In the morning a spontaneous parade will be organized and it will get under way promptly at noon, proceeding along Tillicum to Gorge Road and down to Craigflower Bridge on Admirals.

From there, at 1 p.m. the first of three Great Inner Tube races starts at 1 p.m. Women's doubles is first, followed 15 minutes later by mixed doubles and then men's doubles 15 minutes after that.

The racers keep to the left of four buoys in the Gorge giving spectators on the shore a close look at the action.

Best viewing spot for both the parade and the race is in the picnic area along Gorge Road.

Hot dogs, soft drinks and other refreshments will be available during the day's events.

No advance registration is required to join the parade. Anyone with a decorated vehicle may enter. In addition, the Victoria Vintage Car Club will put its vehicles on display in the parade.

Police departments are co-operating by blocking off traffic along the parade route of Tillicum and Gorge Road between noon and 1 p.m. Buses will be temporarily re-routed during those hours.

After the parade and race, the excitement will centre at Kinsmen's Gorge Park where trophies will be awarded.

Advance registration is required to enter the race — and there's still time. But bring the official entry form into the Times office or leave it at any participating sporting goods store. It's too late to mail them.

The eight locations where the forms can be left are: Ray's Sports Centre at 1692 Douglas and at 1918 Sooke in Colwood, LaPointe's Sporting Goods at 24 — 1153 Esquimalt and 3617 Douglas, Alexander's Sporting Goods at 2244 Sooke, Premier Sports and Cycle at 2965 Tillicum, Oak Bay Sporting Goods at 2077 Cadboro Bay and Kinney's World of Sports at 4450 West Saanich.

Hampton Park Hustlers will draw up the official list of competitors after picking up the forms from the Times and the sporting good goods stores at noon Friday.

Contestants already entered are reminded that nothing is to be added to the inner tube. They are to be propelled by paddling only — no sails or motors.

Costumes are welcome.

City's Economy In Good Shape To Face Winter

Victoria's economy is stronger now than at any time during the past three years, local Canada Employment Centre manager Stan Purdy said today.

"We are going into the winter in a better position than in the last two years," he said.

Winter will be tough but there are some bright prospects. He said a Victoria survey conducted by local information director Dan Bowes showed:

— The forest industry continues to prosper and employment should be at high levels during the winter.

— The tourist season has been exceptionally good and the city's second season, from mid-September to mid-October, is about to begin.

— Retail sales are strongly higher than at the same time last year, with the surge of back-to-school clothing sales yet to come.

— The construction industry improves month by month and real estate sales are higher.

Purdy said tourist revenues were up at least 11 per cent and could go higher. High-spending tourists without children are expected to arrive in numbers, starting next week. This late-summer boom normally runs to Thanksgiving Day (Oct. 9) at least.

Purdy said he hoped local tourist officials have something in mind to keep the industry going beyond that date.

He said stores are reporting a brisk sale of fall fashions, cosmetics and jewelry — especially B.C. jade items — and school supplies sold well at the end of August.

School clothing sales, however, normally do not get under way in earnest until mid-September.

"Students look around and see what other people are wearing and then they go out and buy."

The Canada Employment Centre held recruiting drives in August for both Eaton's and The Bay in anticipation of the fall season.

Jobs normally open up at this time of year to replace students heading back to school or university.

There will be a flurry of hiring until about mid-month when it will stop dramatically, he said.

Yarrows shipyard employed a peak of 480 during August, up from 450 in July, and employment will be stable this month due to a repair contract for the Taiwan Phoenix. Prospects are uncertain beyond that date.

The Oakland Industries cannery reported it maintained a dayshift of 175 during August but nightshift people were called in only when needed. Activity is expected to drop further this month as trolling activity declines and fall chum salmon have not yet appeared.

Real estate sales in August totalled $18.5 million on 288 units, up from $16.9 million on 262 units the previous August. There were 656 properties listed during the month, down from 800 in the same month one year ago.

Prime Time Awarded Another $99,622

The federal government has renewed a $99,622 grant to Prime Time, a Victoria research group developing programs for women in their middle years.

The three-year project, sponsored by the B.C. Association of Social Workers and the YM—YWCA, started in 1977.

Some of the programs already developed for middle-aged women are being put to use by the Y and Camosun College.

The federal grant is one of 77, totalling $3.5 million, for organizations across Canada.

The grants are designed to promote improvements and innovation in welfare services by providing financial assistance, consultation, information and advice to welfare agencies for short-term research.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Are there any statistics showing how many Canadians speak English and how many speak French? L.G.

A. According to the 1971 census 60 per cent of the population spoke English while 28.9 per cent were primarily French-speaking.

Enough U.S. Beer To Last a Month

Some government liquor outlets in the city have enough American beer stockpiled to keep Canadian brands off the shelves for another month, store managers said Tuesday.

The American beer was brought in during the three-month strike-lockout at B.C. breweries that ended last Thursday.

Provincial consumer and corporate affairs officials have warned outlets not to order Canadian beer until the stock of U.S. brew is reduced.

Tex Enemark, deputy minister of consumer and corporate affairs, refused to say exactly how much American beer remains, but he did say that half a million cases is not unreasonable.

★ ★ ★

Ten city liquor store operators contacted Tuesday reported they had enough American stock to last for several weeks, and some said they had a month's supply.

"There's an awful lot of American beer in the warehouse," said a spokesman at one store. "We've heard word that we're not to order any Canadian beer until its gone."

Enemark said: "It depends how quickly it sells. All kinds of licensees bought as much as they could when it was available. Now they are finding themselves all jammed up with American stock. Others were able to time it pretty well."

★ ★ ★

John Langley, spokesman for the 1,000-member brewery workers union, accused government officials of over-stocking the American beer.

Langley said the breweries have been forced to lay off about 30 workers.

"We're jammed full of Canadian beer ready to roll," he said.

Enemark denied there's any pile-up of Canadian beer. Brewery officials assured him it would take up to three weeks to get back to capacity, he said.

"Had we cut our (American) orders close we'd be without any beer," Enemark said, adding that cool temperatures have caused sales to wind down.

Cruiser Jumps Gun on Exercise

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

A multi-nation exercise begins Monday but the Royal Navy's helicopter cruiser HMS Blake carried out a mini-exercise of her own on her way into Esquimalt today.

Rear-Admiral R.R. Squires said today the Blake received a message that an able seaman aboard the Esquimalt-based destroyer HMCS Gatineau — 70 miles at sea — had to be brought to shore.

One of the Blake's four Sea Hawk helicopters was despatched, manned by an American crew on loan to the RN.

The Blake alone has a crew of 780 and officers and men aboard the other seven vessels accompanying her swell the total complement to 2,000.

Admiral Squires said today the Blake was originally built as a cruiser with gun turrets fore and aft but her role, is now anti-submarine warfare so turrets in her stern were removed to make way for a large helicopter hangar.

Because of her role, the Blake is always accompanied by a submarine, in this case the nucleur submarine HMS Conqueror. Unlike the United States Navy, which frowns on having the public go aboard nuclear-powered vessels, Squires said the submarine will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

While the First Flotilla's main commitment is to NATO, Squires said such deployments as this one — there have been seven in recent years — is to allow officers and men to travel and see the world.

Nudging into shore with protective tugs at her outer hull, the Blake was preceded by the New Zealand frigate HMNZS Otago. Behind her came the frigate HMS Hermione, a band aboard her belting out the tune Amazing Grace.

Also in the flotilla were the guided missile destroyer HMS Birmingham, the frigate HMS Leande and the Royal Navy Auxiliary vessels Stromness, Tidespring and Resurgent. The frigate HMS Juno made her way into the Inner Harbor where she will remain until Monday.

As soon as the lines were secured a phone was put aboard Blake. Another officer explained that this would be used for a Dial-A-Sailor program in which they hope Victorians will phone and offer to host the visiting sailors. The number is 388-1369.

The program will go into effect on the weekend.

Bridge Won't Fall . . .

Motorists shouldn't be afraid of the Johnson Street bridge falling down, according to the city engineering staff.

Pat Boulger, Victoria's senior assistant engineer, said today a consultant firm is undertaking a comprehensive study of the structure and a newspaper report of cracks appearing in the bridge shouldn't set off any alarms.

"There are no immediate problems there, if there were we'd do something about it," said Boulger.

He said that some restoration work will probably be needed on the old bridge next year, but the extent of repairs won't be known until the consultants' report is handed in at month's end.

Over the decades the bridge has undergone numerous and costly repairs to keep it in an operating condition.

Marshall, Hall Get Irish Back on Track

Special to the Times

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. — Victoria Shamrocks are back on track in the Mann cup finals for the Canadian men's lacrosse championship.

With substitute goalkeeper Scott Marshall and former professional Chris Hall in the starring roles, the Western Lacrosse Association champions spotted Peterborough Red Oaks a 10-8 second-period lead and then came from behind with six goals in the third period for a 14-11 decision in the second game of the best-of-seven final here Tuesday.

Victory tied the series 1-1, Peterborough having won the series opener Monday, 12-11.

Marshall replaced starting goalkeeper Larry Smeltzer of the Shamrocks at the beginning of the third period after Smeltzer, who had helped give the Rocks a 5-1 first period lead, let in nine goals in the second period as the Red Oaks came storming back.

Marshall plugged the gap in the final period allowing just one goal by Brian Jones of the Red Oaks.

Hall scored three goals in the game including the tying goal at 10-10 in the third period and then the clinching goal at 17:43.

After Hall's first goal of the period, the Red Oaks took the lead again when Jones scored, but the Rocks weren't to be denied.

Vetern Ivan Thompson scored his first goal of the series to tie the score 11-11 and Dan Green, who played two years of junior lacrosse at Peterborough, then put the Rocks ahead to stay eight seconds later.

Shamrocks took a 5-1 lead in the first period but the game was closer than the score indicated as the Red Oaks bounced three shots off the crossbar when in the clear.

In the second period, the Shamrocks led 7-2 before the Red Oaks started their resurgence. A smaller, but very quick team with stickhandling and smart individual effort their main weapons, the Red Oaks took over and outscored the Shamrocks 9-3 to take that 10-8 margin.

But with Marshall making some big saves, the Shamrocks tightened up defensively while assuming command offensively.

"They (his team-mates) seem to get out there and hustle more when I'm in net," Marshall said. "Larry (Smeltzer) is one of the best there is and they depend on him too much."

Marshall faced only 10 shots in the final period, while Smeltzer was peppered with 20 shots in the first period and 23 in the second.

Peterborough netminder Tim Barrie faced 26 shots in the first period, 13 in the second and 16 in the third.

The Shamrocks' power play scored once in four attempts, while Peterborough got three goals on seven power plays.

Victoria took 29 minutes in penalties, seven minors, a major and a game misconduct, while Peterborough was assessed six minors, a major and a game misconduct.

Ron MacNeil, the Shamrocks' leading scorer in the regular season, scored four goals, including a shorthanded tally while Dave Thomson was serving a penalty in the third period, to lead the attack.

Hall, who was named the game's outstanding player, had three, Joe McCrea two and Green, Thomson, Jerry McKenna, Larry Bell and Brian Evans singles.

Tom Parnell, younger brother of WLA scoring champion Paul Parnell, scored four goals for Peterborough. Jim Johnston, a former player with New Westminster Salmonbellies, had three with singles going to Brian Cowie, Steve Ferguson, Jim Wasson and Jones for the Red Oaks.

Gord Lyons of the Shamrocks and Paul Evans of the Red Oaks received game misconducts for a penalty-box fight. After the game both teams were fined $100 for the affair by Mann Cup convenor Bill Bennett.

Canada's TV Smasher A Gong-Show Rerun

Jim TAYLOR

In a marvelous melding of space age technology and stone age thinking, Toronto Argonauts were presented live to U.S. football fans Monday night. That'll teach them to send us Donnie and Marie.

Think about it:

At 5p.m. PDT Monday a television signal shoots skyward from Ivor Wynne Stadium in Hamilton. It bounces off a passing satellite to selected "earth station" receivers, where technicians hunched over Star Wars control panels relay it along vast microwave networks to television stations scattered all over America.

In each of those stations monitors light up. Relays are thrown. The signal is off again, beamed into the homes of thousands of innocent American football fans. The pooled intellect of hundreds of scientists and engineers, the genius that put men on the moon, all combined to showcase Canadian football on the North American stage.

And what does Canadian football give them? A Gong Show rerun. Hamilton Tiger-Cats vs Toronto Argonauts for the futility championship of the world.

The first game in a TV package it's taken a year of tough work to sell. The best-prepared attack the league has ever mounted on the American market—and they have the nerve to show the Argonauts.

In the first place, the Argos should never be shown on TV or movie screen without first flashing a warning:

The following program contains material that may be deemed offensive.

Beyond question they are the worst team in the CFL. Never before has one man paid so much for so little. In any other business owner Bill Hodgson would have his wallet confiscated at the next board meeting, lest he try to buy the Louisiana Superdome and have it shipped in. They are a team with a death wish. It may be the only objective they achieve all season.

This is the team the CFL chooses to display on the first televised game into the U.S. market. And against whom? The Ottawa Rough Riders, best team in the east? The Edmonton Eskimos, tops in the West? Hell, no! Put them in against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, a team already working on its second head coach, a team with one win in seven starts, a team that's gone through more players than a groupie convention.

Marvelous.

Maybe Jake Gaudaur had his reasons.

When the TV deal was signed he said one of the benefits would be that the U.S. audience—and U.S. college stars—would see that a lot of big-name players had come north and were doing well. Maybe the whole game was a ploy to show the Americans the marvelous Terry Metcalf.

If that was it, then the American football public must now be certain there's something wrong with the water up here. Because the marvelous Terry Metcalf played like a man punching a clock.

He can't be as disinterested as he looked, or he'd have fallen asleep in the first quarter. Except for two consecutive plays early in the second quarter—a 17-yard squirt with a screen pass and a marvelous nine-yard run that should have been a four-yard loss—he looked like a man whose one fervent desire was to escape with his life. With the line they put in front of him, who could blame him?

Metcalf, the man stolen from St. Louis Cardinals, the bona fide superstar who was going to do all the things Anthony Davis didn't, was the 1978 Argo grandstand play (not to be confused with the 1977 grandstand plays, the famous Georgia Connection Gambit and the celebrated Leo Cahill Heist, in which the Argos hired the man they'd previously fired, possibly on the theory that when they had to fire him again everyone would know the drill.)

Whatever the reasoning, it didn't work out.

The TV show was all windup and no delivery, Lady Godiva starring Grandma Walton. They saw better football in The Longest Yard. Not as funny, maybe, but better. If Jimmy Edwards hadn't been there they'd have given the game ball to the writers.

★ ★ ★

I can see them this morning, commuting to work and comparing notes:

"Y'see that Canadian football last night? Y'd didn't? I tell you, it was weird. Like, one team tries two field goals and the other tries one, they miss all three of 'em and get a point for each.

"This Ken Clarke guy they say was the top punter in the league last year, he hits one 14 yards. And the other punter, this Nick Jambrosic, he takes a perfect snap and drops it. Just drops it, with nobody near him.

"They've got this no-yards rule on punt returns which looks like Chinese fire drill and must be a new rule because nobody ever gets it right.

"With 2½ minutes left this Hamilton team is behind and runs an end-around with a guy named Laurie Skoolrood, who is 6'4", weighs 240 and runs the hundred in three weeks.

"Right then it's all over, because the Argos have the ball at their 45-yard line and a couple of first downs they've got it locked. So what happens? Their quarterback, this Chuck Ealey, he bootlegs left. Only he tucks the ball against his hip so tight that when his leg moves it knocks the ball out of his hand. It bounces around for a while until some Hamilton guy falls on it, and pretty soon their own quarterback is running in for the winning touchdown.

"Two guys have clean shots at him going around the corner, and they both miss. So the announcer says—you ain't gonna believe this—'Those are two of the surest open field tacklers in the league.'

"But you know the funniest part? These Argonaut turkeys play so bad you wouldn't believe it—just boot the game away—and they say they're gonna fire the coach!

"What? Nah, I'm not gonna watch next week. But the kids are. They said the Argonauts are funnier than Gilligan's Island."

Riders Escape With Win As Late Fumble Hurts Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders broke a jinx Tuesday night by winning their first game in six outings since September of 1976 at Olympic Stadium with a 23-18 victory over Montreal Alouettes in Canadian Football League play before 62,197 fans.

"It's a good feeling," said Ottawa coach George Brancato. "I hadn't won in this locker room since the thing (Olympic Stadium) opened. It's a great feeling but it took a break for us to win it."

The break Brancato mentioned was a fumble by Montreal quarterback Gerry Dattilio at the Ottawa 28-yard line in the last minute of play.

The Alouettes outscored the Rough Riders 14-9 in the last half of the Eastern Conference game but the contest was not as close as the score indicated. After a single by Montreal punter Wally Buono in the opening minutes of the first quarter, Ottawa controlled the play to the end of the half.

Condredge Holloway handed off to running back Art Green for a one-yard touchdown run in the first quarter and hit tight-end Tony Gabriel with a 29-yard TD strike before the half ended. Don Sweet added a field goal for the Alouettes in the second quarter as Ottawa led 14-4 at the half.

Green was the workhorse for Ottawa with 101 yards on five receptions.

"We saw they were doubling Tony and Green was kind of working on the backside as they were playing man-to-man," Brancato said. "He was just kind of beating his guys. That's all that happened. When they give you something like that you've got to take it."

Dattilio threw two touchdown passes in the second half, a 10-yard strike to Brock Aynsley in the third quarter and 59-yard bomb to back John O'Leary at 7:07 of the final quarter to move to within less than a touchdown of the Rough Riders.

But the game was close only because kicker John Hay missed three field-goal attempts and came away with a single point each time.

"He's hitting the ball pretty good but he's hooking it to the left," Brancato said of Hay. "You never know why a soccer kicker misses some nights. He had a bad night. We got three points where we should have had nine and the game would have been out of reach for Montreal."

The start was the first for Dattilio, a native Montrealer, who was replacing injured quarterbacks Sonny Wade and Joe Barnes.

"I'm kind of disappointed," Dattilio said. "I thought we should have won the game. We had a chance to win it."

Connors Proves Tough in Clutch

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Connors was one game away from being eliminated from the United States Open, the tennis tournament he says he likes best of all because "it's my country's championship."

Trailing 5-4 and receiving serve in the fifth set against Italian Adriano Panatta, Connors blasted a forehand winner and did a feisty little dance along the baseline; he scorched a backhander past Panatta and strutted back to the service line; Panatta netted a volley and Connors skipped another jig; Panatta mis-hit a forehand and Connors threw his head back, raised his arms in jubilation and let out a shriek.

Game to Connors.

Can there be any disputing that Connors desperately wants to win this major championship?

Maybe not, but there is much dispute as to whether Connors wants to win because he loves to win or because he's afraid to lose.

"For Jimmy this is a very important tournament," Panatta said after losing the fourth-round, heart-breaker 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 1-6, 7-5 Tuesday. "Today he was worried about the match. He's lost a couple of finals and he wants to prove again he's No. 1.

"In Italy we say he does not want to die."

Panatta is among the growing group that thinks Connors has to win because he can't face losing again and providing his skeptics with more ammunition. It is a fact that Connors has won only one major championship since 1974 when he so convincingly won Wimbledon and the U.S. Open.

Connors, of course, contends he still is on top of his game and shortly will be back on top of the tennis world.

"I'm not gonna lose, they're gonna have to win it from me," Connors said after the 3½-hour match. "I'm not gonna roll over and give it to them."

Today, Connors's former fiance, Chris Evert, takes centre stage against 15-year-old Tracy Austin in a quarter-final match. In men's quarter-final action, 15th-seeded John McEnroe of New York plays Butch Walts of Phoenix, Ariz., No. 3 seed Vitas Gerulaitis of New York faces Johan Kriek of South Africa.

Evert advanced into the quarter-finals Tuesday by beating Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 6-1 in the grandstand, while Austin was in the Louis Armstrong Stadium ousting Anne Smith of Dallas 6-4, 6-3.

While Connors was being severly tested by Panatta, Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg, the No. 1 seed, had it easy on the cement courts, beating baseline specialist Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md. 6-2, 6-2, 6-0.

Steady Brian Gottfried, the No. 6 seed from Florida, parried the rocket serves of fellow American Roscoe Tanner, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1. All the winners advanced into the quarter-finals.

"That's as good a match as I can play," Connors said, following an escorted trip to the locker room to get massage treatments for a muscle cramp in his leg.

His escorts included a cop, a personal bodyguard and a practice partner, all of whom endeavored to keep adoring female fans from their conquering hero.

Those who think Connors has stood still while players like Borg have swept past him contend that Jimmy refuses to adjust his game and adapt to changing conditions and circumstances. In the Panatta match, he threw up more lobs than usual in offsetting the charging Italian—a tactic suggested from the stands by his coach, Pancho Segura.

ONE WIN DOES IT FOR GRAYS HARBOR

EUGENE, Ore. — Grays Harbor Loggers are champions of the short-season Northwest Professional Baseball League with thanks, in part, to a short playoff series.

One game did it. Loggers, the Northern Division champions, defeated Eugene Emeralds 5-3 here Saturday. Rain Sunday and Monday delayed continuation of the best-of-three series and league president Al Richmond declared Grays Harbor as the champion.

Because of the great number of teachers and students on both teams, said Richmond, it was impossible to prolong the series past Labor Day.

Judge Denies Bid To Dismiss Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge denied Tuesday the Amateur Athletic Union's request that Dwight Stones' case against the sports body be dismissed.

A former world-record-holder in the high jump, Stones filed suit against the AAU on July 20 after the amateur sports governing group suspended him because of $33,400 he won on the televised Superstars competition.

The suit, which threatens the AAU's rules determining amateurism in the United States, asked that Stones be reinstated by the AAU and charged the group with violating California's anti-trust act.

Following Tuesdays ruling, Judge Robert Weil gave the AAU 30 days to reply to Stones's request that he should retain his amateur status.

Stones's lawyers claim he did not personally receive any of the money he won on the sports show, while the AAU said the earnings made him a professional.

Kenyan Stars Fall

FRANKFURT, West Germany (Reuter) — Kenyan athletes Henry Rono and Mike Boit were both beaten in an international track and field meet Tuesday.

Rono, the holder of four world distance records, finished third in the 3,000-metre event.

Markus Ryffel of Switzerland placed first in seven minutes 42.2 seconds, while Bronislav Maiinowski of Poland took second in 7:42.5 and Rono finished in 7:45.3.

Will Wuelbeck of West Germany finished first in a battle with Boit in the 800-metre race.

In the women's high jump, Debbie Brill of Aldergrove, B.C., wound up third with a leap of 1.85 metres. West Germans Brigitte Holzapfel and Ulrike Meyfarth finished in a first-place tie, both leaping 1.91 metres.

Spinks Jeered in Workout

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Leon Spinks boxed four rounds Tuesday and drew jeers from the crowd when one of his sparring partners scored heavily in a couple of brief exchanges.

Spinks is preparing for a heavyweight title defence against Muhammad Ali on Sept. 15. Tuesday's workout was the first time since Saturday, when he went three rounds, that Spinks has done any boxing.

Sparring partner Leroy Diggs slammed several quick, stiff lefts into Spinks head, and the heckling started.

"You'd better get the black bottle," shouted a man from the crowd of about 300.

It was a reference to a black bottle from which Spinks drank as he won the title from Ali last February. Ali maintains the bottle could have contained an illegal stimulant.

The heckler was rewarded with prolonged laughter from other spectators.

Later, Diggs again scored heavily, and the crowd again jeered.

Spinks ignored the heckling, but others in his camp were obviously disturbed.

"Why don't you all leave him alone," Diggs shouted angrily at the crowd.

Michael Spinks, the heavyweight champion's brother, let it be known that he was available to any spectator who wanted some "action" and the jeering stopped.

Ali worked earlier in the afternoon, hitting both the heavy and speed bags and shadow boxing. The crowd clapped vigorously when Ali sent volleys of punches into an imaginary opponent.

"He's the only cat in the world who could do that and have the crowd love it," said Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer.

"Take a look up the road and see if my boss is coming. A little ugly guy with a bald head."

Red Sox Detest September

Yankees Only Four Games Back

By Associated Press

For the last few seasons, New York Yankees have found September to their liking. Boston Red Sox loathe the month.

If a similar feeling is prevalent in the locker rooms of the two American League East baseball contenders, it is understandable.

The Yankees defeated Detroit Tigers 4-2 Tuesday while Boston was losing to Baltimore Orioles 4-1. Relentlessly, the Yankees have been chasing the Red Sox all summer. Now, they are four games behind, the closest the defending World Series champions have been to first place since June 9.

"I have a feeling we've been through this before, and that we can win," said reserve outfielder Paul Blair of the Yankees. "I wonder if Boston is thinking about that, wondering if they really can win."

Last season, the Yankees stormed through September to take charge of the division while Boston did not play nearly as well. The same thing seems to be happening again.

"We simply have to keep winning, we have no margin for error," said New York pitcher Jim (Catfish) Hunter, who will open a crucial four-game series in Boston on Thursday. "We have the feeling we're playing our best and they're on the way down."

The Red Sox aren't conceding anything, however, even though they're 1-4 this month and New York is 4-2.

"They've still got to beat us," said Boston coach Johnny Pesky. "I'm sure they'd like to trade places with us."

The Orioles would like to trade places with either club since they are fourth in the division, eight games out. (Milwaukee is third, 6½ back). But manager Earl Weaver still thinks his Orioles can win it.

"We're not out of it yet," said the ever-optimistic Weaver. "We're still distant but a lot of strange things have happened."

Noting that New York and Boston have seven games left with each other, Weaver added:

"When they play each other, somebody has to win, and it looks like the Yankees aren't going to lose to anybody else."

Elsewhere, Kansas City Royals blanked Oakland A's 3-0, Chicago White Sox nipped Minnesota Twins 4-3 and Cleveland Indians defeated Toronto Blue Jays 6-2. The Texas-California game was rained out.

Roy White slammed a three-run homer and Dick Tidrow threw eight shutout innings before Rich Gossage stopped a ninth-inning Detroit rally for his 22nd save.

Detroit's Ron LeFlore extended his hitting streak to 27 straight games with a ninth-inning single and Phil Mankowski had a two-run homer.

Jim Palmer won his 18th game, with Don Stanhouse relieving in the ninth to pick up his 21st save and eighth in relief of Palmer. Lee May homered, Carlos Lopez singled in the go-ahead run and Terry Crowley pinch-hit a two-run double to aid Palmer.

"We've not played well in the last 10 days," said Boston manager Don Zimmer. "I hope it's been good pitching and we're not going into a hitting slump."

In National League games, Pittsburgh Pirates blanked New York Mets 8-0; Houston Astros edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2; Atlanta Braves routed San Diego Padres 8-1 and Montreal Expos outscored Chicago Cubs 10-8.

JAPAN AND CUBA IN FINAL

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Cuba and Japan Tuesday advanced to the final of the women's world volleyball championship.

Japan downed South Korea 12-15, 15-8, 15-11, 15-11. Cuba defeated the Soviet Union 12-15, 16-14, 15-10, 15-12.

In a pool to decide 13th to 16th placings, Canada defeated Mexico 15-13, 15-10, 15-4.

VICTORIA ROWERS SELECTED

BROCKVILLE, Ont. — Five Victorians have been selected to Canada's national rowing team which will compete in the world championships at Auckland, N.Z. next month.

They are Ina Delure, Kelly Jacklin and Katie Burke in the women's division and Bruce Ford and Pat Walter in the men's division.

Other rowers from B.C. include Tricia Smith and Joy Fera of Vancouver, Cheryl Howard of Surrey, Kim Gordon of Burnaby, and David Orr and Robin Catherall of Vancouver.

In all, 29 men and women have been selected to the team which will enter its first international competition against the United States national team this weekend at Syracuse, N.Y.

Twenty-one of the group have competed in either the world competition or the Montreal Olympics.

While the coaches have decided on team personnel, the actual crews may be modified before the team breaks training camp here on Sept. 28.

Coach Al Roaf of Toronto said the women's team is set but crew selection among the men still is to be finalized.

Scholarships For Athletes

Victoria-based athletes have come up with a prominent share of $43,250 in athletic awards and scholarships awarded this week by the provincial government.

Gymnast Dave Bibby and field hockey standout Debbie Smith are among five British Columbia athletes to receive the Premier's Award, worth $1,000.

In addition to the Premier's Awards, winners of 25 B.C. awards and 26 Nancy Greene Scholarships, all valued at $750 each, were announced. All are funded with money from the B.C. Physical Fitness and Amateur Sports Fund and lotteries proceeds.

B.C. Awards have been won by Nancy Archbould, Chris Hebb, Ian Hyde-Lay, Alison McLorg, Cheryl and Janice Mason while Nancy Greene scholarships went out to Robbie Parris, Harold Willers, Michele Williams, Jennifer Bland and Gordon Campbell.

Other $750 awards went to Kevin Flynn of Campbell River, Gerald Kazanowski of Nanaimo, Laura Lynn Mottishaw of Ladysmith and Richard Olesen, also of Ladysmith.

Pair of Points All Oaks Need

Defence was the name of the game played under the banner of the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League between Oak Bay Farmer Construction and Juan de Fuca Dolphins at Royal Athletic Park Tuesday night.

Both offences were so effectively shut down that only two points were scored, both by Oak Bay, both in the first half and both by Paul Docherty on singles.

The result was a 2-0 Oak Bay victory, an unusual score for football.

There could be an understandable reason for the lack of scoring power since both clubs are short on experience.

Oak Bay got a late start this season and was beaten 48-0 by Saanich Hornets in its season's opener. It was the first game of the year for the Dolphins.

Oak Bay did cross the Juan de Fuca goal line twice, but on each occasion the play was called back for a rule infraction.

Victory moved Oak Bay into a tie with Saanich, which was upset 21-19 by Cowichan Timbermen Sunday.

Oak Bay will play Nanaimo Headhunters at Athletic Park, Sunday at 2 p.m. while the Dolphins play at Cowichan.

Midget Champs

CALGARY (CP) — Don Lundquist scored four goals Sunday to lead New Westminster Salmonbellies to a 13-11 win over Brampton, Ont., Excelsiors for the Tackaberry lacrosse title, emblematic of national midget supremacy.

Volleyball Meeting Scheduled Thursday

An organizational meeting of the Victoria and District Volleyball Association for the 1978-79 season will be held at Arbutus Junior Secondary School, Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Men and women interested in playing in the senior B league are invited. For further information contact Gary Garraway at 388-4991.

YES, FOLKS, THERE IS INDEED A GOOSE PIMPLE JUNCTION

GOOSE PIMPLE JUNCTION, Va. (AP) — Yes, folks, there is indeed a Goose Pimple Junction, and on Saturday its population will almost double, but only as long as it takes all the extra people to run away.

That's because this curiously-named Washington County community of 200, six miles from Bristol Va.-Tenn., will be the starting point for the 10,000-metre Mountain Empire Mini-Marathon.

More than 150 runners from Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and West Virginia already have entered, and sponsoring radio station WKYE says many more are expected by post time if the weather's good.

Trailed by rescue crews just in case someone requires help after falling by the wayside, the runners will leave Goose Pimple Junction at about 10 a.m. via the Old Jonesboro Road.

Then they'll wend their way down various highways and byways to their ultimate destination—State Street, which separates the two portions of Bristol, a bistate city of about 34,000.

The finishing line is under the State Street sign that says "Welcome to Bristol, Va.-Tenn. — A Good Place to Live."

Chiefs Fly High on Wing-T

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The wing-T, a relic from the stone age, has catapulted Kansas City Chiefs to the top of the National Football League's rushing charts.

The last time a professional football team attacked from the wing-T, coaches wore "I like Ike" buttons and wouldn't let their daughters watch Elvis Presley on the Ed Sullivan Show.

When it was announced several weeks ago that the Chiefs were going to the wing-T, people wondered if Marv Levy had driven up in a Model-T. But the low-key head coach, who directed Montreal Alouettes to the Canadian Football League's Grey Cup championship last year, came away from Cincinnati Sunday with a 24-23 upset victory and a whopping 267 yards rushing, best in the league.

The final score made it look close, but the Chiefs rolled up more than twice as many first downs as the heavily-favored Bengals and dominated every phase of the game except passing and kicking.

"But I sure don't think our team is going to be overconfident now," says the 50-year-old Levy who took over a team that was 2-12 last year. "I can't imagine that happening."

Levy last used the run-oriented wing-T when he coached at New Mexico two decades ago.

"We examined a lot of approaches with the Chiefs," he said. "The style of offence doesn't really mean much. It's how well you execute."

The wing-T, for the edification of everyone under 40, replaces the wide receiver with another running back, called a wingback. The wingback lines up just outside the tackle, about a yard off the line of scrimmage. It's a power offence meant to control the ball while minimizing the long pass.

"I liked the wing-T because I know it and I feel there's more deception to it," Levy said. "There are also disadvantages. You don't have a wide receiver, you don't spread the field and they say you can't come from behind with it."

The Chiefs threw six running backs at the Bengals, led by Mark Bailey and Ted McKnight. Bailey, a Larry Csonka type entering his second pro season, topped all rushers with 106 yards on 26 carries. Another standout was second-year man Tony Reed, who blocked like a bowling ball.

Cork Wins Again

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Cork won the all-Ireland hurling title for the third year in a row and a record 24th time Sunday with an 18-14 victory over Kilkenny before a crowd of 60,000 at Croke Park.

ANOTHER SOCCER SHOCKER

LONDON (Reuter) — First-Division Middlesbrough lost 1-0 to Third-Division Peterborough United on Tuesday in the latest of a long list of shocks in this year's English League Cup soccer.

Peterborough won the second-round replay with a goal from veteran winger Tommy Robson after 11 minutes of extra time.

Last week, European champion Liverpool and last year's Football Association Cup finalists, Arsenal and Ipswich, were all knocked out of the League Cup by teams from lower divisions. Already nine of the 22 First Division clubs have been eliminated.

In another upset Tuesday, Fourth Division Darlington beat Second Division Fulham 1-0 and will visit mighty Everton in the third round.

N.Z. Seeks Sports Fund To Aid Amateur Athletes

AUCKLAND (CP) — The Commonwealth Games at Edmonton still are affecting New Zealand.

One result is establishment of a sports foundation seeking to give top athletes more assistance similar to that given by some other countries.

New Zealand members of the Commonwealth Games team have questioned, since returning from the Games, whether competitors from some countries were in fact amateurs in the sense hitherto understood in New Zealand.

Examples have been quoted of athletes receiving so much support from sponsorship and promotions they were able to have full-time training most of the year.

Comment was made on a statement by Iona Campagnolo, Canadian minister of fitness and sport, that in its quest for sporting supremacy Canada did not in any way resemble East Europeans. But a dispatch from Edmonton published in several New Zealand papers said Canadian athletes could obtain up to $12,000 a year in expenses.

In a recent speech, Les Mills, a coach of the New Zealand track and field team at Edmonton and former leading New Zealand Olympic athlete, said the degree of support for athletes from wealthy nations probably means the end of amateurism in the form earlier understood.

"When you are virtually paid to train, you are at an immediate advantage," he said.

"Take Diane Jones-Konihowski of Canada, winner of the pentathlon, for example. She does not have to work, as she is supported by her country to the extent of several thousand dollars each year."

Mills also made a comparison between Daley Thompson, English winner of the decathlon, and New Zealander Robert Sadler. Sadler, he said, is a university student able to train only in his spare time, whereas Thompson is sponsored by a company in England and is able to train during the day.

Although critical of the advantages enjoyed by athletes of some countries, New Zealand seems to be adopting a policy of: "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

A sports foundation is to be set up by "concerned individuals" to give greater support to top athletes. It is said the foundation intends to provide assistance by providing: specialized training and coaching, special equipment, travel expenses, educational support, career assistance and specialized medical care.

It will also compensate athletes for loss of earnings and living expenses and try to establish exchange arrangements so athletes can compete elsewhere.

Until now New Zealand has said its athletes were true-blue amateurs, in that their sports activities were strictly leisure time and not subsidized by government or commercial grants.

But some top track athletes have been able to campaign for a large part of the year in meetings abroad and still retain their amateur status.

Experience at Edmonton, and information gained on the degree of support given by some countries to top competitors, seems to have convinced more sports organizations that gold medals can be won in international sport only if athletes have backing so they can prepare for events with full-time training.

Golf is relaxing — Waiting in crowds is infuriating.

Motorbike Victory

GRAND FORKS — Victoria riders played a prominent role in the victory as Canada defeated the United States in the annual Can-Am Motorcycle Challenge trial here Sunday.

Canada's top three riders picked up only 57 penalty points compared to the Americans' 142.

Ron Wilson of Victoria was the top individual performer with 18 points but was closely followed by brothers Mark (19) and Evan (20) Gray of Powell River.

Martin Spriggs of Victoria finished fifth with 32 points and clubmate Gary Nordstrom was sixth with 34.

China Dominates Volleyball Meet

BUCHAREST (AP) — Brazil scored 3-1 victories over Cuba (15-9, 11-15, 15-7, 15-8) and Bulgaria (15-9, 13-15, 15-7, 15-10) in the final rounds of the international men's volleyball tournament for the Tomis Cup in Constanta on the Black Sea.

The Romanian sports paper Sportul reported the eight-country tournament was dominated by China, first with six points. Brazil was second with five and Cuba third with four.

Warriors Decide to Take Lucas, Cash in Barry Deal

OAKLAND (AP) — Golden State Warriors, as expected, have decided to accept guard John Lucas and $100,000 as compensation for losing Rick Barry to Houston Rockets.

Larry O'Brien, the National Basketball Association commissioner, had given the Warriors the option of taking Lucas and cash or a future No. 1 draft choice and $350,000.

Al Attles, Warriors coach and general manager, talked to Lucas, one of the NBA's top playmaking guards, before making the decision.

Lucas, 24, is 10 years younger than Barry.

Surprise! We've Rowed to Alaska

SKAGWAY (AP) — Two Seattle women who rowed about 1,750 kilometres to Skagway from Seattle have taken this Alaska town both by surprise and by storm.

"We surprised everyone," said Ginger Cox, 23, said. "No one expected us so soon."

Cox and her rowing partner, Tish Davis, 21, arrived here Friday in their seven-metre boat, ending a 10-week rowing trip from Washington state up the coast of British Columbia and southeast Alaska.

The two had anticipated finishing the voyage about Sept. 10, but saved time with excellent weather.

Despite their unexpected arrival, they were greeted by seaplanes and small boats. They celebrated with a quick swim in 45-degree fahrenheit water before mooring the boat.

"We figured we'd better swim for the last time, and we hadn't had a shower in 10 days," said Davis.

The swim made quite an impression on local spectators.

"No one ever swims in there for recreation," said Jeff Brady, one of Skagway's 900 residents.

The swim was followed by a champagne celebration, including dinner with the mayor of Skagway and spontaneous gifts from people of the town.

"They gave us a tremendous welcome," said Cox.

The two were treated to free meals and lodging at a local hotel.

"We keep eating the way we do when we're rowing," said Davis. "We've got to stop or we'll blow up like blimps."

Cox and Davis shown on their June 22 departure from Seattle

The two are scheduled to take a three-day hike along the 53-kilometre Chilkoot Mountain Trail used by gold miners 80 years ago. They expect to return to Seattle by ferry on Sept. 14.

Cox figures the pair rowed about 1,750 kilometres and sailed another 100 during the trip. Their voyage lasted 72 days, although they spent 20 days resting, visiting fishing towns along the route or hiding out from bad weather.

They usually rowed 10 to 14 hours a day, making 2 to 4 knots.

They made friends along the way. Once a seaplane landed and served them coffee and sandwiches.

Cox dreamed up the trip nearly two years ago after the two met on Dartmouth College's women's crew.

Their $4,000, custom-built boat is being shipped back to Seattle to be displayed at a wooden-boat show in Port Townsend.

The two say they got along well and had only one fight in 10 weeks. "We'd do another trip together," said Davis.

Speck Making A Fresh Bid For Parole

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — Richard Speck, sentenced to a minimum of 300 years in prison for the stabbing and strangulation deaths of eight student nurses 12 years ago, will make another try for parole later this month.

Speck, 36, became eligible to apply for parole in 1976 after serving 10 years in prison. Because of an onslaught of public opposition, he was denied parole in 1976 and declined to apply last year — apparently realizing he had no chance for approval.

Under law, he is eligible to apply each September.

A former maritime drifter who now prepares vegetables in the Stateville penitentiary kitchen, Speck is scheduled to appear between Sept. 2 -28 when members of the Prisoner Review Board will hear appeals for freedom.

The eight student nurses were strangled and stabbed in a South Side townhouse near the hospital.

A massive manhunt was conducted to find the slayer, and Speck was captured several days later.

He had tried to commit suicide by slashing his wrists in a seedy West Side apartment and was recognized by a Cook County Hospital physician who noticed the tattoo on his arm with the inscription, Born to Raise Hell. One nurse who survived the ordeal told authorities of the tattoo on the killer's arm.

JULIANA CELEBRATES THIRTIETH

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Queen Juliana, 69, celebrated 30 years on the throne of the Netherlands today. At her request the nation made no fuss about it.

There were no clear signs when the queen, who is very popular with the large majority of her almost 14 million subjects, plans to abdicate in favor of the oldest of her four daughters, Princess Beatrix, 40.

Juliana assumed the throne Sept. 6, 1948 when her mother, the late Queen Wilhelmina, abdicated after a half-century of rule. Juliana was her only child.

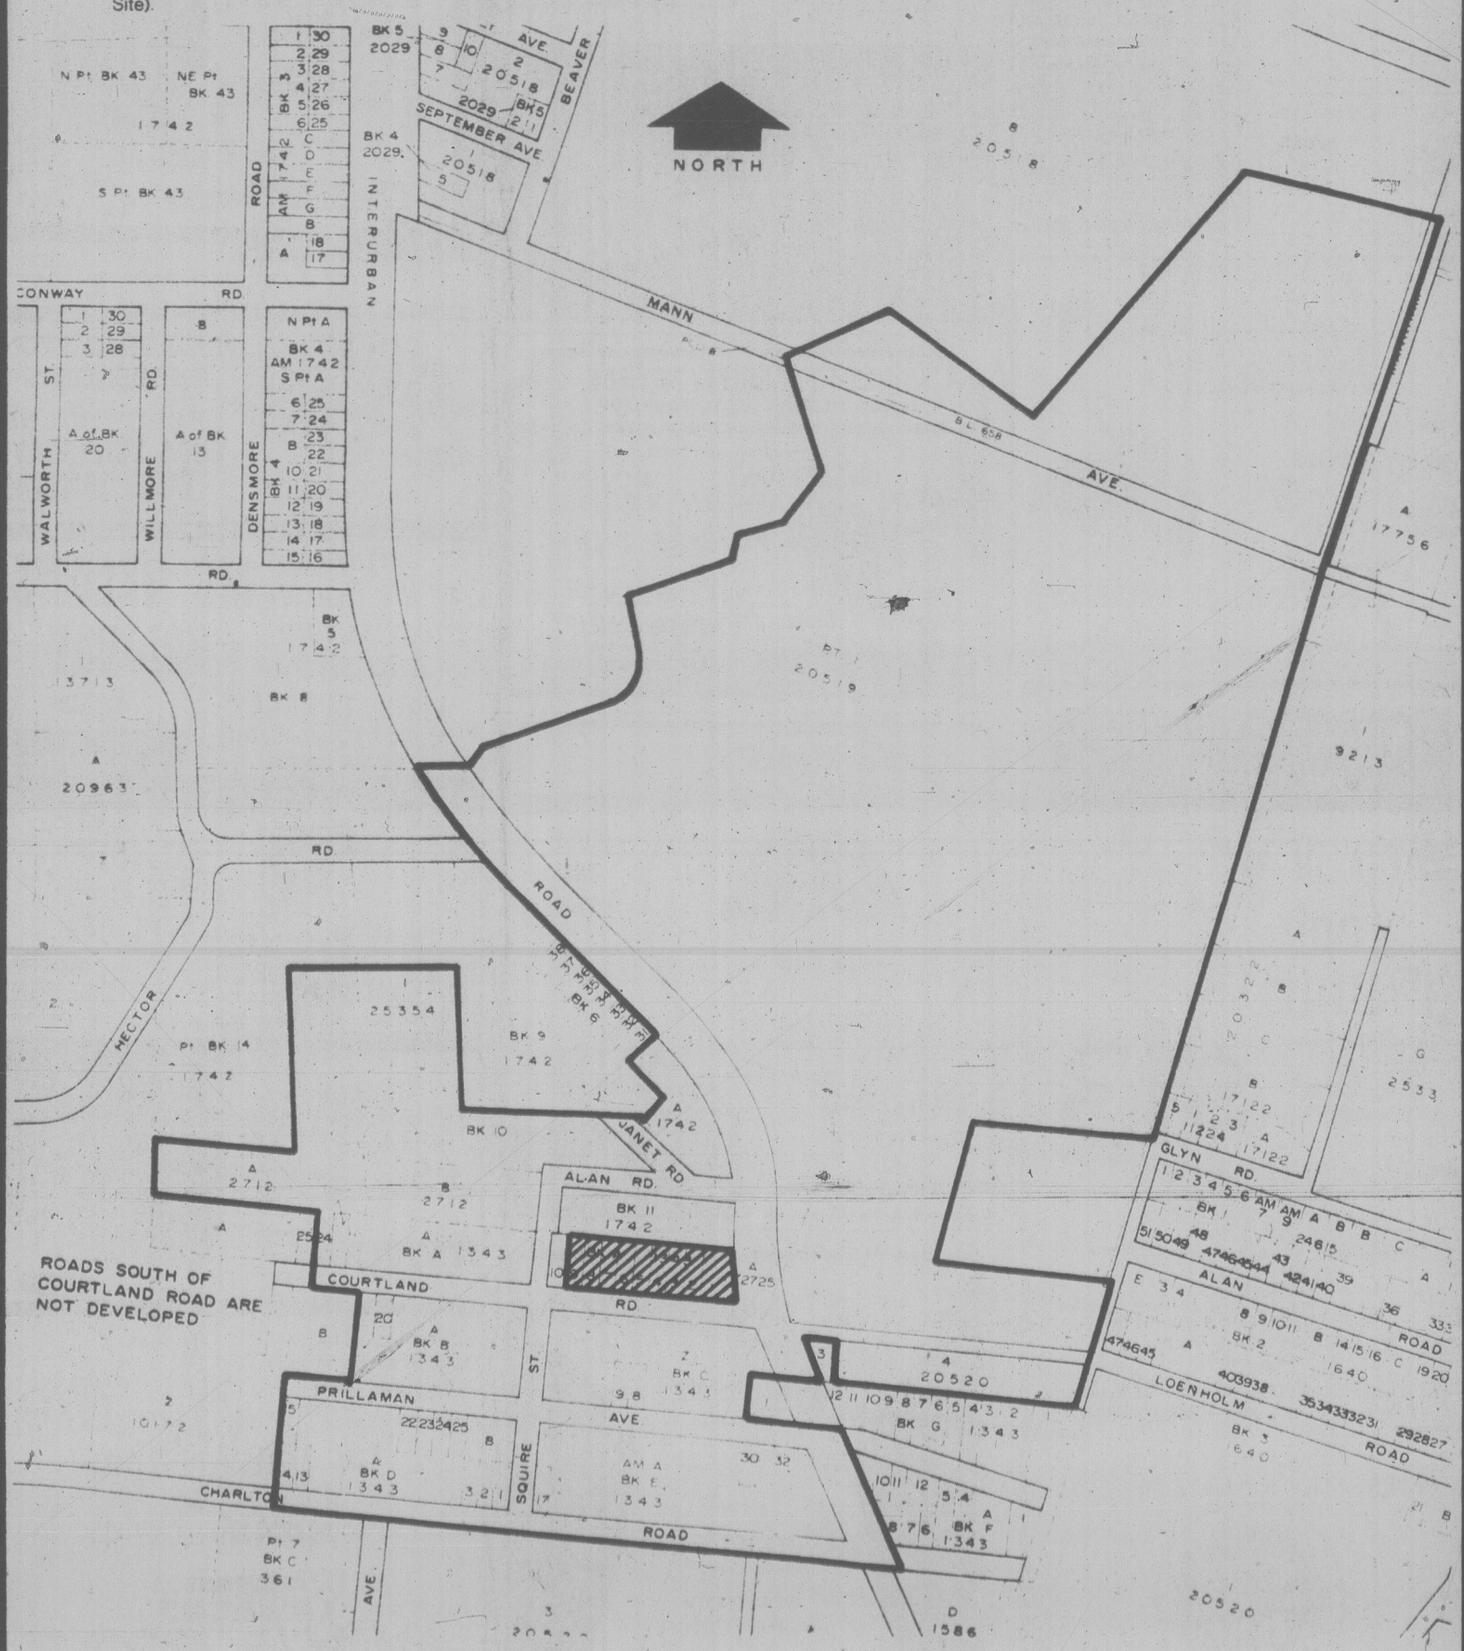
ZONING BY-LAWS

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons who deem their interest in property affected by the following proposed by-laws will be afforded an opportunity to be heard before the Municipal Council on the matters contained therein at a Public Hearing to be held in the Auditorium of the Garth Homer Achievement Centre, 813 Darwin Avenue, on Thursday, September 14th, 1978, commencing at 7:30 p.m.:

(a) "Zoning By-law, 1972, Amendment By-law, 1978, No. 4151". To rezone from Zone District A-1 (rural) and Zone District P-1 (civic institutional) to Zone District M-1 (general industrial) certain lands outlined in heavy black line, except that portion shown with hatched lines on the plan forming part of this notice. (Interurban Industrial Site).

(b) "Zoning By-law, 1972, Amendment By-law, 1978, No. 4152". The intent of the proposed by-law is to designate certain lands outlined in heavy black line, except that portion shown with hatched lines on the plan forming part of this notice as Development Permit Area No. 4 (Interurban Industrial Site).



A copy of the proposed By-laws may be inspected at the Municipal Hall, 770 Vernon Avenue, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday to Friday, except Statutory Holidays.

Swinging Tarzan Not Image

NEW YORK — The family of Tarzan's creator, Edgar Rice Burroughs, is suing the producers and distributor of an X-rated cartoon called Tarzoon, Shame of the Jungle" for $3 million for allegedly trying to destroy the "good, wholesome, attractive image of Tarzan."

Edgar Rice Burroughs Inc. said in a complaint filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Manhattan that the film depicts Tarzan not as Burroughs saw him — "handsome, strong, intelligent, courageous, honest" — but as "weak, stupid, physically unattractive, cowardly, lewd and sexually inadequate."

Jane, the complaint said, is not depicted as "beautiful, faithful and brave," but as "aggressive, sexually demanding, strident and nude for substantial portions of time."

"This is a grotesque, distasteful and vulgar film," the complaint said.

It seeks to enjoin International Harmony Products, Inc., from continued distribution of the film shown thus far in Kansas City, Mo., Washington and St. Louis.

The co-producers cited as defendants in the complaint were identified as Societe Valisa Films of Brussels and Societe SND of Saint Ouen, France.

DIVORCE FOR WOMAN WHO MADE ABORTION HISTORY

BIRKENHEAD, England — A woman who made British legal history when she won a battle to have an abortion against her husband's wishes was granted a divorce Tuesday.

Joan Paton, 29, was given the decree in Birkenhead county court on the grounds of unreasonable conduct by her husband, steelworker Bill Paton, 33.

Last May, Mrs. Paton left her husband when she was pregnant. A high court judge in London ruled against her husband's plea for an injunction to prevent her from getting an abortion, saying a husband has no rights over an unborn child.

Mrs. Paton had the abortion within hours of the judgment.

Tom Hatton, Mrs. Paton's lawyer, said she had discovered she was pregnant just after consulting solicitors about a divorce, and did not wish to bear her husband's child.

Kidnap Bid Foiled

MALIBU — A man armed with a steel pipe tried to kidnap the stepdaughter of actor Keir Dullea from a restaurant parking lot, but was halted and arrested by a passing sheriff's deputy, the sheriff's office said today.

Dullea, best known for his roles in 2001: A Space Odyssey and The Fox, did not know about the attempt until the girl had been rescued.

Officers said the alleged kidnapper apparently had no connection with the family and did not know the girl's identity.

Deputies said Sasha Coe, 11, and two friends finished dinner in an oceanside restaurant before Dullea and his wife and decided to wait for them in the car.

The girls said a man walked up, swung a pipe at the car window, grabbed Sasha and took her away, warning: "Don't call the police or I'll bash her head in."

But as he headed across the Pacific Coast Highway, Sheriff's Sgt. James Smith happened by in his patrol car and noticed the girl was struggling, trying to get away.

Smith arrested Robert White, 29, of Toronto, on suspicion of kidnapping.

Dullea, alerted by one of the other girls, rushed out of the restaurant, but the deputy had already rescued his stepdaughter.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A Saanich couple and a Vancouver man were charged in Victoria provincial court Tuesday with defranding the federal government of almost $28,000.

Jointly charged with fraud were 51-year-old Alexander and 52-year-old Marie Seivewright, 4124 Cabot Place, and 55-year-old Harry Lloyd Clarkson, of 8575 Heather in Vancouver.

Alexander Seivewright and Clarkson are also jointly charged with conspiracy to defraud the Department of Regional and Economic Expansion (DREE) of $27,900.

Seivewright is charged alone with two counts of accepting benefits for himself and his wife from Clarkson and Sunshine Coast Charters.

Clarkson is charged separately with two counts of giving benefits to the Seivewrights.

Mrs. Seivewright is charged alone with possession of $3,000 from the alleged transactions.

All offences except the one Mrs. Seivewright faces by herself are alleged to have taken place between May 1, 1975, and Oct. 31, 1977. Mrs. Seivewright is charged with having possession of the money between Oct. 1 and 31, 1977.

The Saanich couple was represented by lawyer Brian Smith, who elected trial by judge and jury. Clarkson was unrepresented by counsel but made the same election to Judge Harold Alder.

Crown counsel Len Doust of Vancouver told the court the preliminary hearing is expected to take five days and March 12 to 16 was set aside for the inquiry.

A 17-year-old who told Alder he has been in jails in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Ontario was jailed 18 months after pleading guilty to three break-ins and one purse theft.

William Clifford Scott, 1226 Rudlin, broke into the Medical Arts Building, 1105 Pandora, last Wednesday and admitted earlier break-ins at 1321 Rudlin and 3384 Whittier as well as stealing a purse from an acquaintance in July.

Crown counsel Richard Law said Scott and two other 17-year-olds who have pleaded guilty were caught inside the Medical Arts Building shortly after midnight by city police.

Law also told the court a stereo and watch taken from the Rudlin break-in were found in a locker at 1140 Pandora.

A coin collection valued at $250 was taken from the other house break-in, Law stated.

Law listed 11 convictions for the last two-year period and said the record was only for B.C.

Defence lawyer Barry Mah Ming said his client had a problem with LSD and barbiturates which was reaching an addiction stage and said Scott did not like his brief stay in Wilkinson Road and wanted to serve his sentence in Boulder Bay or New Haven, institutions for young offenders.

Before passing sentence, Alder noted that some inmates thought Wilkinson Road jail was a "rose garden" compared with some federal penitentiaries.

"You're running very close to the end," warned Alder, who said the dependency on drugs was no excuse.

He handed out a six-month term for the theft, 10 months for the Medical Arts Building break-in and 18 months each for the house break-ins, all sentences to be served concurrently.

After he was led away to the jail area, Scott slammed his fist into a fire extinguisher.

Two 18-year-old Richmond men charged with theft of a sailboat from Tsawwassen a week ago and possession of a stolen sailboat were released on their own recognizance.

Faith Barclay, also known as Evans and Pearce, and Steven James Swanson were charged with stealing the vessel from Delta.

Mah Ming, acting for Barclay, and Patrick Sweeney, acting for Swanson, asked for a remand until today for election of trial method and possible plea.

A 29-year-old man who pleaded guilty to four breaches of probation was given concurrent, 30-day sentences on all counts.

Ronald George McWilliams was given the jail terms after admitting he entered the Bastion Inn beer parlor on April 28 and May 1, 2, and 8 against a probation term imposed Sept. 29 by Judge E.J.C. Stewart in Victoria county court.

McWilliams was convicted of assault causing bodily harm and Stewart was told McWilliams shoved a broken beer glass into the head of Douglas Canning at the Colony Motor Inn beer parlor on July 4 during a fight over whose turn it was to use a pool table.

Stewart fined McWilliams $500 and imposed a two-year probation term which included a condition to remain outside any licensed premise except restaurants.

McWilliams was convicted of four breaches of that condition on Feb. 22, 1977, and received concurrent, 30-day sentences at that time.

Three Men Deny Steelhead Blast

DUNCAN (CP) — Three Cowichan Valley men have pleaded not guilty to using explosives while fishing in July for steelhead in the Chemainus River.

A fish and wildlife branch spokesman said Tuesday three men were seen lowering four sticks of stumping powder, tied to the end of a fishing rod, into water occupied by summer-run steelhead.

The spokesman said he visited the area on three consecutive days before seeing men using explosives.

He said blasting caps and fuses were seized at that time.

Peter Kempthorne, Geoffrey Heyd and James Compton are to appear for trial in provincial court on Dec. 15, charged with fishing without a licence.

Vic High Revamp

A $1.3 million renovation project for Victoria Secondary School is expected to start this fall after approval by the education ministry.

Working drawings for the project are being prepared by Victoria architect John Di Castri, a spokesman for the school district said Tuesday.

The project will include extensive upgrading to the 67-year-old building and other major repairs to bring the school up to fire standards.

Tenders will be called as soon as the education ministry approves the drawings.

Two-Year Wait . . . And More

A drug case more than two years in reaching trial no sooner came before the court Tuesday than the jury was excluded for a trial within a trial.

In such a case, a judge hears arguments without the jury present.

Co-accused James William Buckner and Russell Tschritter appeared in Victoria county court before Judge M.L.T. Drake charged with conspiring with others between July 15, 1975, and Jan. 6, 1976, to traffic in the narcotic cannabis resin.

Buckner, who entered a not guilty plea, also pleaded not guilty to a second count which he faces alone, that on Nov. 19, 1975, he possessed cannabis resin for the purpose of trafficking.

Counsel Douglas Christie, representing Tschritter, said his client could not plead to the conspiracy charge because it was ambiguous and named no co-conspirators except Buckner. He asked the court to enter a not guilty plea, and Drake agreed.

Crown counsel Gordon MacDonald asked for the jury to be excluded to determine admissibility of evidence and Drake spent the rest of the sitting on that issue.

★ ★ ★

Drake earlier refused an application by Buckner to adjourn the matter to permit him to hear the bulk of 104 reels of tape recordings in possession of the Crown.

Buckner said he had been given access to the tapes but had been able to listen to only 10 of them since August in preparing his defence.

MacDonald said Buckner failed to take up the Crown's offer during a preliminary hearing in January, but when an appointment was made in June for him to hear the recordings, Buckner failed to keep it.

A transcript of the Crown's evidence will be available to the accused, Drake said.

'SLAMMER FOR YOU' NEXT TIME SAYS JUDGE

Next time around will mean the slammer, Judge M.L.T. Drake told a young burglar given a suspended sentence in Victoria county court Tuesday.

Keith Edward Mack, 19, pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft between Aug. 24 and 30 last year at 1109 Laburnum in Saanich, while he was on probation for a previous offence.

Drake placed him on probation for a year but noted previous probation orders against Mack had not turned out well.

"I think it could be said if there's any more trouble, it's the slammer for you," said the judge.

Spot Rezoning Warning by Cass

Saanich council Tuesday night sent more spot rezoning proposals to public hearings and Ald. Ian Cass warned the municipality is heading for trouble.

"How much longer are we going to continue with this block by block rezoning?" he asked.

Cass urged council to spell out the areas in Saanich where medium and high density apartments will be permitted so development takes place in a planned and orderly way.

While the municipality is searching for land for industrial development, it had neglected to set aside areas for apartment expansion, he said.

Cass warned spot zoning creates pockets of trouble and puts pressure on traffic routes and water systems.

Aldermen will not be doing their job, he said, until the municipality has a plan for medium and high density development.

Cass made the comments after council voted to send to public hearing a proposal to rezone 1.25 acres of land at McCoy Road and McKenzie, east of Gordon Head Road, to permit construction of 32 townhouse units.

Cass was the only one voting against going to public hearing and said he objected because if approved, it would be yet another case of spot zoning.

"I'm having a tough time pressing the urgency of this matter on this year's council just as I did on last year's council. I'm going to keep trying."

Ald. Howard Sturrock said he fully agreed with Cass and added it is time council indicated what areas were suitable for apartment development.

Mayor Mel Couvelier said he is against a special study on apartment areas at this time because staff are too busy on the Saanich community plan.

The mayor added: "There are interesting arguments on both sides, which I am not going to take the time to go into now. There is no motion before us on this issue."

All efforts should centre on completing the community plan, Couvelier said.

Staff members have prepared a preliminary draft of apartment zoning proposals and this draft might soon be available to the council's planning commission, he added.

Besides the McCoy Road project, council voted for public hearings on a proposal by Marigold Housing to construct offices and a board room at the north end of Camellia Place and a proposal by Anolac Investments to rezone land at McKenzie and Saanich Road from detached housing to attached housing-high density.

However, council defeated a proposal for a public hearing on whether to allow 8.6 acres of land at 5699 West Saanich Road to be rezoned under a land use contract for a recreational vehicle campsite.

Voting against the public hearing on the campsite were Cameron, Sturrock, Cass, Mika and Mayor Couvlier. Voting in favor of the public hearing were Fred Severson, Geoff Vantreight and Mary Casilio.

Council also approved a four-point policy for development of panhandle lots in Saanich.

The policy:

—That panhandle lots are not a problem and should continue to be developed where they are necessary to make the best use of the land.

—That the siting of houses on panhandle lots be regulated by covenant where applicable to enable the best siting to be obtained.

—That the siting of houses in front and beside panhandle lots be regulated by covenant where applicable to enable the best siting to be obtained, if the lot is not already developed.

—That developers be encouraged to plant landscape screens along the access strip.

There was some discussion as to whether developers should be required rather than encouraged to plant landscape screens but the matter was dropped when it was pointed out that the screen was often to the advantage of the developer, who usually owned the rest of the property.

The policy passed without dissent.

Citric acid is added to canned tomatoes to prevent spoilage

Tomatoes Need Acid

Do you really have to use citric acid when canning tomatoes?

Michelle Marcotte, a food consultant at Agriculture Canada says yes. There have been some low-acid tomatoes on the market and citric acid should be used in tomato canning to give the required acidity needed to prevent spoilage.

Food consultants at Agriculture Canada have been recommending adding citric acid in the canning of tomatoes for the last few years. There have been conflicting reports however, about the existence of low acid tomatoes in Canada.

To determine the acidity of tomatoes, commercial processors and agricultural research stations across Cannada were asked for information on the acidity of the tomatoes from their area.

They reported that the acidity of tomato varieties vary considerably across Canada. Furthermore, tomatoes become even less acid as the season progresses or if the tomatoes become overripe. Therefore, there is the possibility that consumers may use tomatoes which are low in acid for canning.

"Home canners should make use of this information to guard against any spoilage of their tomatoes" says Ms Marcotte. "Do not use overripe or soft-ripe fruit. Add citric acid to the tomatoes chosen for canning (¼ teaspoon per pint or ½ teaspoon per quart), cold pack, then process in a boiling water bath, 55 minutes for pints, (small canning jars) or 60 minutes for quarts (medium canning jars.)."

When canning tomato juice add the same amount of citric acid and process in a boiling water bath for 40 minutes. If you find the flavor of canned tomatoes slightly tart, add a little sugar to taste (about 1 teaspoon per small container).

By adding citric acid and properly processing in a boiling water bath you can be sure of a safe product. For more complete canning instructions, write for the free booklet entitled "Canning Canadian Fruits and Vegetables". It's available from Information Services, Agriculture Canada, Ottawa, K1A 0C7.

60-MINUTE GOURMET

Chicken: Good n' Quick

By PIERRE FRANEY

Among the foods best suited to a hasty meal (with the exception of the egg, of course, which can make a super supper scrambled or turned into an omelet) are those that are skinless and boneless and tender besides.

Few foods fit that category better than skinless, boneless chicken breasts, which are readily available in supermarkets and, what's more, are generally sold at what could be called a relative bargain.

Chicken breasts take well to an endless variety of flavors, and there is almost no seasoning that won't complement them, from a pungent bit of garlic to something as delicately flavored as basil or tarragon.

I recently prepared a quickly cooked platter of chicken veronique, a dish adapted from my Burgundy childhood. Veronique is actually of Parisian origin and means a dish in which grapes — generally white and seedless — figure in the food's preparation. No one knows precisely when the name veronique was first applied to such dishes, and I doubt, as some propose that it has biblical connotations after St. Veronica.

Most dishes labelled veronique are quite bland by nature, and the quickly-cooked chicken dish I have in mind is highly complemented by a dish of curried rice.

As noted before, the cooking time for rice is only 17 minutes. The cooking time for the chicken is less than 10. Therefore, I would recommend first preparing all the ingredients for both these dishes; once the rice is put on to cook there will be ample time for cooking the chicken. The rice, incidentally, may be kept warm several minutes after cooking without damage to flavor or texture.

CHICKEN BREAST VERONIQUE

1¾ pounds skinless, boneless chicken breasts
½ cup fresh or canned seedless grapes
3 tablespoons butter
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
1½ tablespoons finely chopped shallots
½ cup dry white wine
1½ cups heavy cream

1. Trim off all traces of fat, white membranes and so on from the chicken breasts. Place the pieces on a flat surface, and using a flat mallet, pound them lightly. Using a sharp knife, cut the breasts into half-inch strips. There should be about three cups.

2. If canned grapes are used, drain them and set aside. If fresh grapes are used, remove the stems. Rinse and drain well. Set aside.

3. Heat the butter in a large, heavy skillet, and when very hot but not brown add the chicken breasts. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook over high heat, stirring constantly so that the pieces cook evenly. Cook just until pieces lose their raw look and are barely cooked through, about three to five minutes.

4. Using a slotted spoon, transfer the pieces to another skillet.

5. Add the shallots to the skillet. Cook briefly, stirring, and add the wine. Cook over high heat, shaking the skillet and stirring. As juices accumulate around the chicken pieces in the second skillet, drain them into the cooking liquid. When the wine has cooked down by half, add the cream. Cook over high heat.

6. If fresh grapes are available, add them to the sauce. Cook over high heat about four or five minutes or until the cream mixture takes on a saucelike consistency. Add salt and pepper to taste. If canned grapes are used, add them for the last minute of cooking, just to heat through.

7. Spoon the chicken into the sauce and heat through. If desired, pack the rice into a buttered round mold just large enough to hold it. Unmold onto a round platter. Spoon the chicken and grapes around and serve.

Yield: 4 servings.

CURRIED RICE

1 cup rice
1 small apple, peeled and cored
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1 tablespoon curry powder
½ bay leaf
1½ cups fresh or canned chicken broth.

1. Measure the rice and set aside.

2. Cut the apple into slices about one-quarter-inch thick. Stack the slices and cut them into strips about half an inch thick. Cut the strips into quarter-inch cubes. There should be one cup. Do not use more. Set aside.

3. Heat two tablespoons of the butter in a saucepan and add the onion and garlic. Cool until onion wilts.

4. Add the apple and curry powder and stir. Add the rice, bay leaf and chicken broth. Cover closely and cook exactly 17 minutes.

5. Add the remaining tablespoon butter and fluff it into the rice, using a two-pronged fork.

Yild: 4 servings.

ONE-DAY FAST NOT WISE

Nutrition Buyline

QUESTION:
Is fasting one day a week beneficial?

ANSWER:
No, your body requires a daily intake of vital nutrients. Some people use a one day fast as a method to cut down on their total caloric intake for the week.

QUESTION:
Are potatoes fattening?

ANSWER:
Potatoes mistakenly have the bad reputation of being fattening. They make a substantial contribution to the daily diet of niacin, thiamine, iron, phosphorous and vitamin C. One small potato contains approximately 75 calories, and when eaten with the skin on is nourishing food. The concentrated calories are in the butter and sour cream you put on the potato so avoid thse garnishes and enjoy your potato.

QUESTION:
Can storage cause loss of nutrients in canned foods?

ANSWER:
Most of the changes that take place in canned foods occur before and during the canning process itself. The losses during prolonged storage occur only in the more vulnerable vitamins. In our temperate climate where a storage temperature would average about 65 degrees, about only 5-15 per cent of vitamin C is lost when canned goods are stored for one year. If the storage temperature is increased to 80 degrees these losses rise to 15-30 per cent. Depending on the acidity of the food, thiamine losses are similar, while carotene, niacin, and riboflavin values decreases only slightly during storage.

QUESTION:
What is in the coffee whiteners they serve in restaurants and why don't they go sour?

ANSWER:
This is a type of non-dairy coffee whitener and does not contain milk solids so it will not sour. There are two types of non-dairy coffee whiteners presently available to the consumers, powdered and liquid. Both are made from vegetable oils and non-milk solids (corn syrup, sodium caseinate, vegetable protein). These products are popular because of their convenience. The coffee whiteners are not nutritionally equivalent substitutes for half and half or other dairy products which may be significant dietary sources of vitamin A., riboflavin, calcium and phosphorus.

ITALIAN BEAN SOUP

1 cup white (navy) beans
10 cups cold water (2 Imperial quarts)
½ lb. cooked ham or back bacon or bacon ends, chopped or a ham bone
1 onion chopped
1 cup chopped outer celery
1 clove garlic chopped (OR ½ tsp. garlic powder)
2½ or 3 tsp. salt
A few grindings of pepper (OR ⅛ tsp.)
1½ cup 1" pieces spaghetti or fine noodles
Parmesan cheese

Measure the beans and wash in sieve under running water. Turn into soup pot and add the water and bring to boil for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let beans soak in it 1 hour.

Then drain beans and save and measure the liquid and make it up to 2 quarts again. Return beans to it.

Add chopped ham or bacon and ham bone, onion, celery, garlic, salt and pepper. Bring to boil and cook 1½ hours. With slotted spoon remove 2½ cups of the solids from the soup and puree in blender (or force through sieve). Return to soup and add the spaghetti or noodles and simmer 20 minutes longer. Taste to see if it has enough salt to please you and your family.

If practical, to make it perfect, let cool overnight and skim fat from top.

Serve boiling hot in warmed soup bowls sprinkled generously with Parmesan. Serves 7 to 8 generously.

HOT TEMPER

My husband is an angry man. I can almost bet that he will have an automobile accident every time he leaves the house in a fury. I'm afraid that one day he'll kill himself or someone else. Many times when we're driving together he will lose his temper about something and plough right through stop lights. — Mrs. W.W.G.

Dear Mrs. G.:

You've got a problem. And one of the problems is that the "someone else" who might be killed could be you.

Anger and emotional stress have long been recognized by psychologists as a reason for the frequency and severity of accidents. Employers are so aware of this relationship that they suggest that workers using sensitive machines should keep away from their jobs when they are under severe tension. Dangers to themselves and to their co-workers can thus be eliminated.

The analogy to your own situation must be obvious. Before such life-threatening experiences continue, your husband and you, too, should seek help to find the reasons for these episodes of explosive anger. Sometimes, the reason can be readily determined and eliminated. Working in conjunction with a psychologist, you both must be taught the trigger areas that set off such behaviour patterns.

My husband had a mild heart attack and was kept in the hospital for only 10 days. A friend of ours was in the hospital for six weeks. Isn't it dangerous to discharge a patient so quickly? — Mrs. G.S.

Dear Mrs. S.:

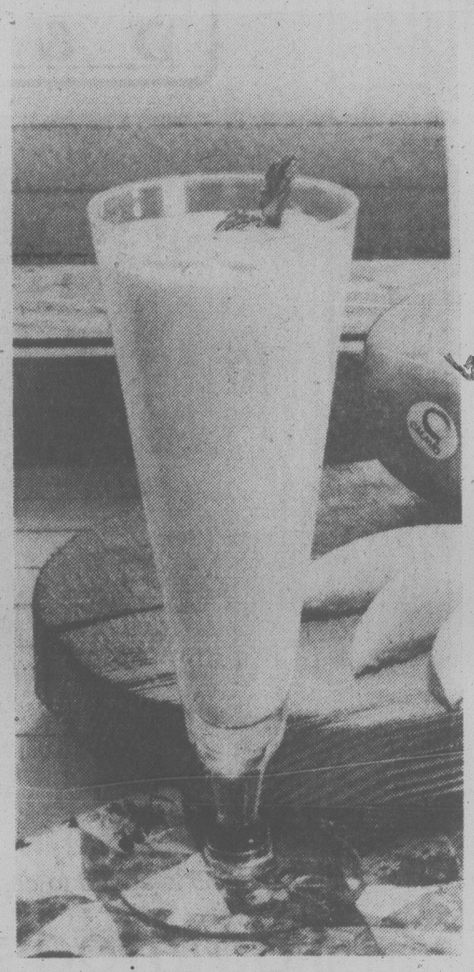
Of course, you cannot compare the severity of your husband's heart attack with that of your friend. Nevertheless, there seems to be a greater trend to discharging heart attack patients who have not had complications earlier than was formerly the custom.

A recent study at Duke University Medical Centre concentrated on this exact problem. They found that some patients could be safely discharged earlier if no unusual cardiac situation occurred.

Heart attacks are expensive "luxuries" that few people can afford. Sometimes, an attack with a long protracted stay in the hospital can completely imperil the family's financial resources. Hospital costs are so enormous that consideration is given to the amount of rest a patient can get at home.

Doctors who discharge their patients first ensure the continuity to good medical care at home. The psychological advantages of being treated at home are obvious.

Mangos, Yogurt Make Good Drink



It seems as if the whole country is into the yogurt craze these days, and with good reason.

It's cool, refreshing and reportedly good for you. Another concoction North Americans have had an affection for over the years is the milk shake. It's also cool and refreshing, but not terribly good for those on diets. One way to combine the refreshing quality of a milk shake (without the calories) and the wholesome goodness of yogurt is with the Mango Yogurt Drink.

Plain yogurt is blended with orange juice, honey, ice and juicy mango into a unique drink that you'll find just right as a breakfast alternative to plain juice. (You may want to add an egg for added protein and extra energy.)

Mangos may seem ultra-exotic to anyone unfamiliar with the fruits of paradise, however, historically they're said to be the most-widely consumed fruit in the world. They are just now becoming favorites of fruit fanciers in the United States and Canada, as consumers discover the inherent goodness of the fruit.

The taste of the mango is something to experience; it has a flavor similar to a peach and yet at the same time like a pineapple. Mango devotees insist it combines the best of both fruits.

In addition to the unique taste, the mango is also good for you. The bright yellow flesh is loaded with Vitamin A, more than the recommended daily allowance for that important nutrient. Mangos also contain nearly three-quarters of the RDA for Vitamin C and amounts of thiamine, reboflavin, calcium, phosphorus and iron. Half a medium-sized mango has only about 66 calories.

If you have the desire for a really exotic yogurt flavor in the refreshing form of a milk shake, try the Mango Yougurt Drink and satisfy both longings.

MANGO YOGURT DRINK

½ cup plain low-fat yogurt
1 soft mango, peeled, seeded and sliced
¼ cup fresh-squeezed orange juice
1 teaspoon honey
2 1-inch ice cubes

Place all ingredients in blender; blend until smooth. (Add additional milk if desired.) Garnish with fresh mint.

Makes 1 serving.

BULLETS DON'T HATCH

BANGOR, Me. (AP) — After she cracked an egg into her frying pan, Althea Lyshon found a .22-calibre bullet lodged in the egg white. A state department of agriculture spokesman told her the live bullet might have been injested by the hen when it got mixed up with grain. At any rate, Mrs. Lyshon said she's happy the shell-inside-the-shell story didn't end with a bang.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: DESPERATE complained because her relatively young husband has lost all interest in sex. You replied, "Your husband needs to see a physician. If it's not physical, it's mental," and there are cures for both."

Sorry, but it won't help. The problem described by this unfulfilled 40-year-old housewife probably goes back to the time when the institution of marriage began.

Even though I am a heart surgeon, I have known countless male patients (and friends) who strike out at home, but score like crazy at the office. This particular paradox is probably an allergic relation to the marriage certificate — regardless of whether it's printed on rice paper, papyrus, tapestry or whatever.

If that poor love-starved woman would dissolve her marriage, take up belly dancing, and then live in sin with the same guy she divorced, it would probably solve her problem. — SURGEON

DEAR SURGEON: You maintain that marriage destroys romance simply because it's legal.

Nonsense! Romance's mortal enemy is the rigor mortis that sets in when a relationship becomes boring, monotonous and stale.

Nurturing romance is a 50-50 proposition, or a joint effort.

DEAR ABBY: We are adopting a baby and plan to bring it home from the hospital when it is two days old.

Although the baby will not be ours legally for six months, we would like to let friends know that we have the baby.

Is it proper to send out announcements as soon as we get the baby home, or must we wait until the adoption is legal?—R.R.

DEAR R.: The consensus of those who have adopted babies is that it's proper to make the announcement as soon as the arrival is in your home.

DEAR ABBY: My husband will be a physician in private practice very soon. He has already hired an experienced bookkeeper-receptionist to work in his office. She will handle appointments, insurance forms, phone calls and accounts.

What should my role be? Should I stay completely away from all business aspects of his work and office, or as his wife should I be familiar with finances, accounts, etc.? And if so, how do I do this without appearing to be nosy or bossy?

I could easily spend a day a week at the office, helping out. How much do you think a wife needs to know about her husband's business? — DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I think every wife needs to know enough about her husband's business to make some intelligent decisions in the event of his illness or death. However, some wives choose to stay completely away from their husband's businesses — and their husbands prefer that they do.

Much depends on how you and your husband feel about it.

RICKETS UNCOMMON

NEW YORK (AP) — Rickets, a deficiency disease caused by a lack of vitamin D in infancy or childhood, is almost unknown in Arctic or tropical regions. These regions either are noted for fish oils being common in the diet or sunlight being abundant.

Cool For Flavor

All game and game birds should be refrigerated three or four days before roasting to bring out the full flavor.

Be A Smart Cookie

hilda beastall

Cookies are good food when made of controlled ingredients and are not used in place of vegetables and fruit at mealtime nor in quantity between meals. However homemade cookies do have a place as occasional snacks with fruit at a meal; and for small eaters and those on high caloric diets as a between-meal snack. Even with low sugar and fat content, and no artificial flavoring or coloring, the calorie count is useful for producing energy as it breaks down.

Controlled ingredients simply means cutting sugar, salt and fat to a minimum, and using a mixture of flours that are known to have more flavor and nutrition than the average white flour so freely advertized and listed in recipes for home baking.

As lunch box fillers one or two cookies from today's recipes will be a surprise treat to school youngsters who must take lunches or in an adult's lunch box. You save money by making them at home at the same time knowing what kind of food is being eaten by your family when away from home.

There is plenty of publicity on harmful effects of sugar-filled food and soft drinks but not nearly enough on more healthful alternates.

Raisin-filled Cookies are an old favorite of ours when needing a mid-morning snack after a seven o'clock breakfast and a few hours of active work.

Raisin Filled Cookies

¾ cup soft margarine
2 Tbsp sugar
3 small eggs OR
2 medium eggs
1½ cups wholewheat flour
1¼ cups unbleached flour
¼ cup wheat germ
½ tsp baking soda
¾ tsp salt
¼ cup skim milk powder
Raisin Filling (below)

Cream margarine, sugar, eggs together in mixing bowl and beat with wooden spoon until fluffy.

Sift flour, soda, salt and milk powder together into the creamed mixture and blend well, adding wheat germ at same time.

Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie tray a little distance apart. Put a small dab of Raisin Filling on top of each and then a small dab of the cookies dough on top of the filling.

Makes 3 to 4 dozen according to size.

Bake in moderate oven 177 deg. C for about 15 minutes or until lightly browned but do not scorch.

Remove carefully with broad knife to cool; cookies firm when cold.

Raisin Filling for Cookies

¼ cup sugar
1 Tbsp cornstarch
½ cup water
1 cup seedless raisins
2 tsp lemon juice
1 Tbsp margarine

In a small pan, mix sugar and cornstarch with water and raisins. Bring quickly to boiling point stirring constantly to keep smooth. Cook for a minute or two; remove from heat, add lemon juice and margarine.

Let cool before using. It helps to make this filling in a few spare minutes the day before making cookies.

A date filling can be used with the same cookie dough. Make both fillings ahead of time, store in glass jars with covers in refrigerator, two or three days only. Use some of each for the batch of cookies.

Date Filling

1 cup dates
¾ cup water
1 Tbsp margarine
1 tsp lemon juice

Break up the stoned dates to check for the odd stone; boil with water until thickening, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Add margarine and lemon juice, stir. Cool before using.

Raisin Filling and Date Filling are both good to use in tiny amount between cookies in the next recipe also. Rice polishings are the outer parts of the rice grains polished off to make a pure white rice.

This is a fine-textured flour available in some grocery departments of local stores, and together with soy flour, pea flour and barley flour makes a good substitute in baking for those who cannot eat wheat products because of allergy. It is tasty too with good and different flavor. Sold in one pound packages at around 51 cents.

Rice Polishings Cookies

2 cups rice polishings
3 Tbsp sugar
¾ tsp baking powder
¼ tsp salt
⅓ cup soft margarine
2 eggs
½ cup finely ground raw peanuts

Sift dry ingredients together into mixing bowl. Beat eggs with softened margarine in a cup. Add to dry ingredients, tossing in nuts. Makes a soft dough. If too soft to handle, dust hands with rice polishings. Make small balls of dough about an inch across. Space out on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Press with bottom of small drinking glass, dusted with rice polishings.

This method is a great labor saver in making flat cookies. You get perfect circles as thin as you wish. Lift with knife to sheet.

Bake in moderate oven 177 deg. C for 20 minutes. Makes about 50 cookies; some can be put together with either filling above.

The Rice Polishings Cookie recipe makes two perfect top crusts for two berry pies, and needs only about 15 minutes baking so that the berries still have a fresh flavor.

Easier than trying to roll out this tender crust is to make the round balls, space out on a sheet of waxed paper, flatten with bottom of a drinking glass dusted with rice polishings, then lift the thin circles with a wide knife blade or a spatula knife to place them closely together on top of the pies.

These labor-saving shortcuts help to make home baking more attractive to busy people; the results are delightful to enjoy and variety is achieved with a minimum of fuss.

Health Quacks A Hazard eating right

By RUTH FREMES and ZAK SABRY

We have, on many occasions, discussed in this column the health hazard of having self-proclaimed nutritionists and health quacks give advice on how to diagnose and treat various illnesses. We pointed out that the many books and articles by such authors as Adelle Davis, Dale Alexander, Gayelord Hauser, and Doctors Cheraskin, Carlton Fredericks, and Newman (to name a few) contain unreliable information. Anytime we wrote about this subject, we received angry letters from readers who accused us of being unfair and severe in our judgment. We also hear from readers who admit to having been misled by such authors.

Several months ago, we heard from a lawyer who told us the story of one of his clients whose baby suffered severe illness as a result of following advice given in a book by Adelle Davis, called Let's Have Healthy Children. In a section of that book, Ms. Davis wrote, with an air of authority, "Research indicates . . . that a loss of potassium from the body may be largely responsible for colic". She also referred to "a study of 653 sick babies, every infant with colic had low blood potassium. Improvement was dramatic and the colic disappeared immediately when physicians gave 500-1,000 milligrams of potasssium chloride intravenously or 1,000-2,000 milligrams by mouth. These doctors found that most babies needed 3,000 milligrams of potassium chloride (⅔ teaspoon) before colic was corrected." She proceeded to explain that potassium chloride is a salt substitute that is readily obtained from most drug stores and health food stores.

We are not aware of any study like this, nor of the need for massive amounts of potassium. The load such an amount can place on a baby's kidneys is enormous. Our reader told us of the baby becoming violently ill and being rushed to hospital in time for treatment and recovery.

There was a case of a baby in Florida who was given potassium chloride for colic on Adelle Davis' advice; and it cost him his life. His twin brother, refused stubbornly to take the heavily dosed formula. The publicity given this case in Florida caused the publisher to recall the book from all wholesale outlets and retail bookstores. A similar action was taken in Canada.

The question is: Should such books be allowed in the marketplace? Clearly, they constitute a serious health hazard to the unassuming and trusting consumer. A product that may be so described would be pulled off the shelf in no time at all; so why not a book? Must someone die first, before the publisher takes such recall action voluntarily? Do government health authorities have a responsibility in this matter?

In the Canadian case, the attending pediatrician asked the local medical health officer to take action in alerting the public to the dangerous information contained in the Adelle Davis book, but to no avail. Whose responsibility is it to take such action?

We feel strongly that the responsibility for informing the public on health matters is that of the government and the health professionals. Even if the government is reluctant with the freedom of publication, it could sponsor programs initiated by professional societies to provide valid health information service to the public.

Dear Ruth and Zak:

We have two children aged 3½ years and 11 months. Our 3½ year old son has shown some signs of allergy since he was 2 years old. These signs are: eczema, recurrent ear infections, proneness to croup, and a low resistance to colds. We are not entirely surprised by his allergic disposition since my husband and myself have allergies.

The reason for writing this letter to you was to inquire about the relationship between refined foods and allergies. Should I be drastically modifying my son's diet as outlined in Adelle Davis' book 'Let's Have Healthy Children' or just eliminating those foods which seem to elicit an allergic reaction? Also, is there some means by which I can raise my son's level of immunity to colds? I feel I should mention that his proneness to colds has significantly increased since he began nursery school last September. — K.F. — Willowdale, Ont.

Dear K.F.:

As far as we know there is no relationship between allergy and refined foods. Allergies could develop in response to certain foods, whether refined or not. They also develop in response to other irritants in the environment.

It would be unwise to modify your son's diet 'drastically' on the advice of Ms. Davis' book. Rather, you should seek medical help from an allergy specialist. Even the elimination of certain foods, which, you say, seem to elicit an allergic reaction in your son, will require the help of a qualified dietitian. Your doctor or the allergist could refer your son for dietitic counselling, which is an insured health service in Ontario.

It is very important to provide your son with a nutritionally balanced diet. Although it is not directly involved in the treatment of allergy, it will strengthen the body and complement the allergy treatment as well as help build a strong immune system.

Dear Ruth and Zak:

I wonder what happened to the good old ice cream. Just a few years ago, we could buy it in stores. But now, when I read the ingredients on ice cream packages or containers, I am struck with mystical words as: guar gum, locust bean gum, sodium carboxymethyl cellulose, carrageenan, mono and di-glycerides, polysorbate 80 and calcium sulphate.

Please explain these chemicals and what they are adding to pure milk, sugar, eggs and cream. — I.G.-R. — Mississauga, Ont.

Dear I.G.-R.:

These chemicals should not cause any alarm or concern. The gums are extracted from plant material. The scary-sounding sodium carboxymethyl cellulose, is not different chemically from the bran you include in your muffins and put on your cereals. Carrageenan is carbohydrate material extracted from seaweeds. Mono and di-glycerides are fats, chemically similar to the fat in milk and cream. Polysorbate 80 is a chemical preservative. Calcium sulphate is a simple salt made up of calcium and sulphur, two elments found in our bodies and in many foods.

All these chemicals are there to make the ice cream hold its texture and flavor, under a variety of transportation and storage conditions. Manufacturers and consumers alike like to hold the price of ice cream from sky rocketing. So, it has to be manufactured in large plants and shipped long distances. It costs a great deal to make it in small amounts in local dairies. It would cost a great deal more to make ice cream at home. It will have none of these chemicals and it will taste fresh and rich, and it will cost a lot in time and money.

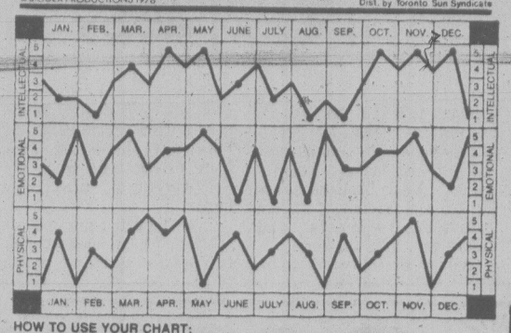
For the amount of ice cream it is advisable for us to include in our diets (which is very little, for it is higher in fat and sugar than the milk from which it is made), we would either buy it occasionally or make it at home rarely. In either case, it wouldn't be a matter of chemical additives. Rather, it will be a matter of taste.

Bio-dex

Sept. 7/78 By Ken J. Michaels

Your computerized biorhythm

©BIODEX PRODUCTIONS 1978 Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle- If you're faced with a new task that's very difficult, enlist the help of a friend. You'll need it.

6-10 Neutral Cycle- Don't allow harsh words to cause too much concern. The person speaking may be under heavy emotional pressure.

11-15 Positive Cycle- Your talents and ability to think quickly will be noticed. It's going to be your day.

We all like to look our best, and wearing clothes that suit us plays a big part. It's well worth remembering that choosing clothes and fabrics is an emotional decision, and that our feelings change from day to day. Next time you plan a shopping expedition, check your emotional Bio-dex. Your choice for a winter wardrobe may be a lot more suitable on a "high" day.

PWA Launches $12.1M Suit Over Cranbrook Crash

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines and Canadian Acceptance Corp. filed a $12.1 million suit Tuesday in the Federal Court of Canada for damages arising out of the crash last Feb. 11 of a PWA Boeing 737 at Cranbrook, killing 43 persons.

The writ names 43 defendants, including the Crown, Federal Transport Minister Otto Lang, the City of Cranbrook, Boeing Co. of Seattle, and Rohr Industries Inc. of California, makers of the aircraft's thrust reversers.

Also named in the 70-page brief are six "John Does" representing the possible involvement of other persons not yet identified.

Donald Brenner, counsel for Boeing, said Tuesday the company will contest the suit and will deny all liability. Defendants have 30 days to reply to the action.

The writ alleges the crash was due to negligence by Transport Canada officials and several Cranbrook Airport employees, including the operator of a snowplow said to be on the runway at the time of the crash.

It also alleges that Boeing and Rohr "should be held strictly liable . . . for all damages resulting from any and all defects in the design, adaptation, modification, manufacture, assembly, inspection and distribution of the Rohr thrust reverser systems, including the system installed on C-FPWC (the aircraft that crashed)."

The jury of the coroner's inquest that investigated the 43 deaths cited a faulty thrust reverser system as the immediate cause of the crash, but also blamed the crash situation on various failures in communication and control procedures immediately preceding the crash.

The PWA writ alleges there was no fault by aircraft crew members, and gives a capsule version of what happened after Flight 314 from Calgary attempted to land at Cranbrook Airport in a snowstorm.

The writ says "the pilot was forced to initiate an emergency overshoot when he became aware that snow-removal equipment had remained or was permitted to remain on the runway obstructing the landing roll."

"The emergency overshoot was initially successful and C-FPWC avoided the obstruction but during the overshoot takeoff, the thrust reversers were not completely retracted or closed," the writ says.

It says the combination of forward thrust from the starboard engine and aerodynamic drag from the port thrust reverser caused the plane to become uncontrollable and, "it crashed in a steep, nose-down attitude on the southeast corner of the airport."

The largest item in the $12.1-million damage claim is a total of $9.3 million for replacing the destroyed aircraft.

Other claims include the cost of a substitute aircraft — $1 million — plus a $1-million loss of revenue and $250,000 for rescue, evacuation and cleanup.

Pete Bush, a spokesman for Boeing in Seattle, said the company has been served with no papers that detail the claim, but "Boeing does not believe it has been negligent in any way."

A spokesman for Rohr declined comment until company lawyers had examined the suit.

Meanwhile, Cranbrook lawyer Don Waurynchuk said Tuesday that 17 estates of those killed in the crash have agreed to sue Boeing and Rohr in California, under that state's product liability laws.

Waurynchuk, representing 12 estates of the Cranbrook victims, said he expects the multi-million-dollar actions will be filed in San Francisco in mid-September by United States aviation lawyer Jerry Sterns.

Waurynchuk said the estates are being handled in California because of its liberal loss of society laws. Canadian law prohibits a plaintiff from suing for other than direct monetary loss due to the death of a wage-earner, but a plaintiff in California can sue for such things as loss of affection, love and companionship in addition to strict financial support.

BUS-IN PROTEST ON FARE HIKES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Evening rush hour bus traffic along Granville Mall in the city's downtown was halted for about 15 minutes Tuesday when about 20 opponents to bus fare increases boarded two British Columbia Hydro buses and refused to get off.

Hydro supervisors disengaged the trolleys on both buses and a short time later police removed the demonstrators without incident.

Tom Lalonde, spokesman for the Coalition Against Fare Increases, said those who boarded the buses carrying placards were not part of his organization.

The coalition had earlier issued about 10,000 promissory notes for bus riders to pay the higher fares, which rose to 50 cents from 35 cents Tuesday.

A Hydro spokesman said only a handful of Tuesday's 150,000 transit riders presented the notes to drivers and those operators who received them stopped their vehicles and called supervisors.

Kirk Day of Vancouver was arrested by RCMP in North Vancouver and charged with common assault after a man refused to leave a bus.

The Amalgamated Transit Union, which represents Hydro bus drivers, had earlier recommended that drivers accept the notes rather than get into any confrontation with those passengers presenting them.

Bill Boosts Child Welfare

Draft legislation designed to improve the care of children was released today by Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm.

The aim of the proposed Family and Child Services Act is to protect children from neglect and abuse and to provide for assistance to families when the normal development of children is at risk.

The proposed bill also places an obligation on the part of all citizens to report to the new director circur stances in which they suspe child abuse and neglect. Such information will remain confidential, Vander Zalm said.

It also places the emphasis on parental responsibility to take all reasonable measures to reduce the need for state intervention.

Superintendent of Child Welfare Vic Belknat has been charged with co-ordinsting all submissions from the public on the white paper and preparation of a report for Vander Zalm.

The report will be compiled by January and will be the basis for final legislation which is to be introduced in the legislature in the spring session.

The proposed bill creates the new position of director of children's services, and brings under one umbrella portions of six other statutes such as the Family Relations Act, the Adoption Act and the Juvenile Delinquents Act.

Vander Zalm said today the advantage of having a director of children's services is that his responsibilities are to ensure that the child and his family have all the available services available to them.

For example, a child's problem may be rooted in the family's financial situation, so the director can bring into play the imcome assistance plan to help out.

Spending Boom Likely

OTTAWA (UPI) — Consumers polled in July planned to spend more in the short term with the help of the sales tax break but felt generally pessimistic about unemployment and inflation, the Conference Board in Canada said today.

In its second quarterly Survey of Consumer Buying Intentions, the board noted consumer confidence was at its highest level since the first quarter of 1974 and represented a break in a six-year steady downward trend.

The Index of Consumer Attitudes — based on responses to four key consumer questions — rose to 104.0 from 83.8 in the March survey, the board said.

"Much of this increase, however, could be indicative of consumer intentions to purchase before the end of retail sales tax reductions scheduled for September in most provinces, rather than a more long-term shift in consumer buying intentions," the private analysis group said.

Respondents were more optimistic about their current and short-term financial situation and indicated greater willingness to make major purchases.

The proportion of respondents who felt their family was better off financially than six months ago jumped to 23.3 percent from 18.4 percent in the last survey.

Some 24.4 per cent felt their family would be better off six months hence, compared to 22.9 per cent previously.

A record 35.6 per cent thought the present a good time to make a major outlay, the highest proportion since the first quarter of 1973. But the board said this sharp about-face in consumer attitudes may once again be due to the tax cuts announced in the April budget.

Cut Charter Rules: Lang

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Otto Lang said Tuesday he has asked the Canadian transport commission to consider reducing regulations on international air charters.

In a press release Lang said the government has adopted "a broad new policy on the economic regulations of international charters."

"The main objective is to promote a mix of charter and scheduled air services that best meets the needs of all segments of the travelling public."

He said the new policy was approved by the government after detailed consultation with the air carrier industry, the provinces and other interested parties.

The transport commission has been told to report to Lang by Jan. 31 next year on any action it has taken to carry out the new policy.

Lang said less-restrictive regulations governing charter transportation would help to keep down their costs and prices.

"They can do so, for instance, by helping to reduce the number of empty seats on charter flights and to cut reservations and selling costs," he said.

The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board recently all but eliminated regulations on international charters. Lang said Canada elected instead to minimize its regulations "because we want to avoid undue detriment to the scheduled services available to the public and indeed to the charter services as well."

Lang said the policy "did not differ significantly from the approach already followed by the Canadian transport commission. But it did constitute "a first statement of government policy in the field."

Within its policy, Lang said the government wanted to ensure:

—That charter services did not do economic harm to regular services.

—That a demand for low-priced leisure air travel is adquately served.

—While interests of established carriers are respected, new ones would be welcome.

—That Canadian carriers capture as large a share of the Canadian charter market as possible.

LEGION LIABLE FOR DEATHS

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A lawyer for two children whose parents were killed in a car accident three years ago said Tuesday the Royal Canadian Legion branch in Woodstock may be liable for damages in the case.

Earl Cherniak said in opening remarks to an Ontario Supreme Court judge and jury that the legion is a defendant because evidence will show that Beverly Porter, 60, of Woodstock was drinking at the Royal Canadian Legion branch before his car was in a collision with that of the parents on Sept. 12, 1973.

Baby Powder Can be Killer

OTTAWA (CP) — A Montreal pediatrician says baby powder should be considered a potential danger because of the number of infant deaths associated with powder asphyxiation.

Dr. Michel Weber of the Sainte-Justine Hospital said today that babies over eight months and old enough to play with the powder containers, are especially at risk.

"Since it is not essential to the routine care of infants its use should be discouraged, or at least parents should be strongly advised not to leave containers within reach of children, and should be told about the serious and even fatal consequences of its inhalation," Dr. Weber also says in the latest edition of the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

He says at least 24 cases of baby powder inhalation have been described in several reports since 1954. Of those, three infants died.

"But certainly only a few of the cases are ever documented," he said in an interview. "Physicians have a tendency to report cases which have a favorable outcome."

Judge Cliche Dies, 58

JUDGE CLICHE
... practical approach

MONTREAL (CP) — Judge Robert Cliche, the associate chief justice of Quebec's provincial court who led a royal commission inquiry into corruption in the province's construction industry, died Tuesday of a heart attack.

The judge, who was 58, underwent open heart surgery in May.

Judge Cliche was Quebec leader of the federal New Democratic Party from 1961 to 1968, but was better known in the province as head of the construction inquiry which held public hearings in 1974 and 1975.

When appointed to direct the inquiry, formally called the Royal Commission into the Exercise of Union Freedoms, he said he was resolved to come up with "something practical, not theories."

The pragmatic approach which colored his public and private life contributed to the popular appeal of the construction inquiry as he uncovered evidence which shook the government of then premier Robert Bourassa.

Judge Cliche's main concern, repeated throughout his political career as well as at the inquiry, was to galvanize the public to press for the accountability of its leaders, whether in politics, business or labor.

Strongly attached to his native Beauce country south of Quebec City, he studied at the Seminaire de Quebec, a classical college from which he was expelled for lack of discipline, at St. Dunstan's College in Prince Edward Island.

MENINGITIS NOW TOTALS 13

HAMILTON (CP) — Another report of meningitis has brought the number of victims in the Hamilton-Wentworth area to 13 in the last six months, the regional medical health officer said Tuesday.

Dr. Ian Cunningham said confirmation of another meningitis case last month brings the total to 13 cases, five of them fatal.

The provincial average is 2.2 cases a year for any one area, he said. Last year the region had 15 meningitis cases, none of them fatal.

The latest victim is still alive, Dr. Cunningham said.

Last month, a senior medical consultant with the provincial health ministry said there is no epidemic of the disease. But the consultant warned the disease may be on an upward swing of its regular cycle.

So far this year, 70 meningitis cases have been reported in Ontario. There were 62 last year.

In addition to the five deaths reported in the Hamilton area, two have been reported in Ottawa, two in the Toronto area, two in southwestern Ontario and one in Northern Ontario.

The disease, an inflammation of the membranes of the brain or spinal cord, is caused by bacteria carried by a large segment of the population without any harm to the carriers. The carriers normally have an immunity to the disease.

Wealth Not Answer

OTTAWA (CP) — Just as a couple cannot cure a marriage breakdown by getting new jobs, Canada cannot overcome its problems by improving the economy, a British Columbia politician said Tuesday.

Gordon Gibson, Liberal leader and the only sitting member of his party in the B.C. legislature, told the Senate-Commons committee on the constitution that speedy action to change the constitution is urgent.

"There are those who say fix up the economy and things will be fine. The fact is constitutional problems are hurting the economy and must be cured first," he said.

Gibson said most Canadians do not realize how important it is to the country to work out better arrangements for living together.

The Vancouver MLA, who a decade ago served as Prime Minister Trudeau's executive assistant, was the first speaker during the committee's fourth week of hearings.

He called for a number of changes in the constitution proposed last June in Parliament by the prime minister.

—The new constitution should make a federal election mandatory every four years. "People want this," he said. "They are sick and tired of playing around with election dates."

—The new Upper House should become the representitive in Ottawa of what Gibson called "outer Canada— British Columbia, the Prairie provinces and the Maritimes.

"Ontario and Quebec control the Commons. Outer Canada wants to control the Upper House. That's the crunch, that's the nub for British Columbia."

—The power of the executive branch of government — that is the prime minister or provincial premier and his cabinet — should be reduced in the new constitution.

"At the moment we have, in times of majority government, what is in effect a four-year elected dictatorship."

Gibson said the public should have more say in the processes of government. The new constitution should give citizens the power to recall their MP or provincial representative and force a byelection if they were dissatisfied with his performance.

DACCA TO GET $60M

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian International Development Agency has announced a $60.5 million grant to help Bangladesh purchase essential industrial and agricultural goods from Canada.

Potash used in growing rice and jute will account for almost 10 per cent of the funds provided under the three-year agreement signed in Dacca, an agency news release said Tuesday. Sulphur used in the production of fertilizer in Bangladesh will also be provided.

Financing is through non-repayable grants because Bangladesh is among the world's poorest countries.

Police Tabulating SINs Immoral: Knowles

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Strong objection to police asking for social insurance numbers when taking information from Canadians was voiced here Tuesday by one of the advocates that the system of social insurance numbers be introduced.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) who spoke out firmly in support of the Pearson Liberal government when it was introducing the social insurance system of numbers expressed surprise and indignation that some police forces were now asking for the number.

"It was supposed to be used only for social welfare purposes — not as a number in the computer around which the government would accumulate all possible information it could about a Canadian. I don't like this at all and it should be stopped," he said in an interview.

Knowles said he had been advised that the Ottawa Police Department had a form which they filled out. They ask for the name, address and age which is legal for them to demand. But Knowles said he had been informed there is also a section in the form — which is not compulsory for a person to answer — which asks for the social insurance number. He said the problem arose because the police did not always advise the person they were questioned that he or she was not required to give that number.

The MP from Winnipeg said he recalled speaking out in favour of the adoption of the system of social insurance numbers and that the Progressive Conservatives were strongly against what they said was in effect a system of "national registration."

"I suppose today Mr. Diefenbaker will be telling me 'I told you so.'"

Changes in Senate Again Called Illegal

OTTAWA (CP) — A second constitutional lawyer in less than a month has told a joint Parliamentary committee the federal government does not have the legal right to make its proposed changes in the Senate and the monarchy without provincial agreement.

But Liberal committee members were quick to point out Tuesday that Ronald Atkey, the lawyer who submitted this opinion, is a declared Progressive Conservative candidate in the coming federal general election.

Atkey told the 35-member Senate-Commons committee on the constitution:

"This proposed violation of a basic convention of our constitution is so serious, in my opinion, that it will set back rather than enhance the process of effective consultation which is so necessary if this country is going to survive.

The 36-year old former law professor held the Toronto riding of St. Paul's from 1972 to 1974 for the Conservatives.

Atkey was repeating the legal opinion offered two weeks ago to the committee by Queen's University law professor William Lederman.

Both lawyers told the committee there are serious legal problems in the government's plan to make basic changes in fundamental institutions on its own.

Justice Minister Otto Lang has said the government faces no legal roadblocks in changing the Senate, the role of the monarch and governor-general and Supreme Court because these are areas of federal jurisdiction.

"The sheer lunacy of this threatened unilateralism, if it is allowed to proceed, may well swallow up and destroy many of the good ideas" in the government's reform package, Atkey said.

He added that such high-handed federal action would jeopardize the evolving relationships between Ottawa and the 10 provincial legislatures.

Atkey urged that the constitutionality of the government's approach be tested as soon as possible in the Supreme Court. He said he hoped this could be done before provincial first ministers meet in October to discuss constitutional reform.

His 29-page brief was greeted with undisguised pleasure by Conservative MPs and senators on the committee.

It would appear to provide further impetus to a Conservative attempt to have the committee suspend any talk of changing the Senate, Supreme Court and the role of the monarch until a Supreme Court ruling is made.

Vandals Hard To Beat

EDMONTON (CP) — The construction industry has no practical means of protecting itself from vandals, said the owner of a large crawler tractor which caused $150,000 damage Monday.

Ray Necula, owner of Double N Earthmovers, said in an interview Tuesday that he expects insurance rates will increase in the wake of the incident.

Four persons are believed to have started the 400-horsepower, 60-ton crawler tractor that left a kilometre of destruction in its wake before demolishing two condominium suites under constructon in the city's west end.

"If those four were ever caught, they could work the rest of their lives without ever repaying the damage," Necula said.

Most machines are protected with anti-vandalism panels and locks, he said.

But there is little that can be done to stop a determined vandal with knowledge of the machine, he said.

Parents Continue Sit-In

DALHOUSIE, N.B. (CP) — Two groups of parents and some of their children continued to occupy school board offices here today as they awaited word from Education Minister Charles Gallagher on whether their demands will be met.

A spokesman for the parents, Theresa Perry, estimated that between 80 and 100 people are participating in the occupation.

The parents from the lower Charlo area want the right to choose either unilingual or bilingual schools for their children and Dundee parents oppose plans to close their village school.

"We don't want money," Mrs. Perry said in a telephone interview. "We just want our rights."

She said the occupation will continue for "as long as it takes."

The occupation began at 9 a.m. Tuesday and about 100 people held two board officials virtually prisoner for more than 11 hours to try to force a meeting with Gallagher. The two were released unharmed.

Mrs. Perry estimated that 30 people spent the night in the offices in shifts. Some had sleeping bags. She said police patrolled the area Tuesday night but there has been "no violence of any kind."

"We just got the runaround (from Gallagher)," said Perry. "The same thing we've been getting for the last six months. Well, we're going to sit it out until we get some answers."

DREDGER BUCK PASSED?

TORONTO (CP) — A former dredging executive testified Tuesday he believes one of the main prosecution witnesses decided a long time ago that if police uncovered wrongdoing in the industry, he would save himself by implicating someone higher up in the company.

Harold McNamara, former president of McNamara Corp., was testifying at a trial in which he, 10 other men and nine companies are charged with conspiracy to defraud public agencies of $1.28 million by rigging dredging contracts.

McNamara, asked why Louis Quinlan, a former vice-president in charge of the company's dredging division, would say that McNamara participated in bid-rigging negotiations if it were not true, said:

. "The only explanation I can give is that he's out there and I'm here defending myself."

PWA Trying To Jump Gun

SASKATOON (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. (PWA) is looking into a way it can inaugurate service into Saskatchewan ahead of the scheduled date next spring, a senior PWA official said Tuesday.

The Alberta government-owned airline is due to begin service into the province next April. Dave Jaycocks, PWA vice-president, said if Nordair Ltd. takes over Winnipeg-Toronto air routes operated by PWA's subsidiary, Transair, it would free aircraft to fly into Saskatchewan.

Jaycocks said talks are going on with Air Ciada and Nordair concerning Transair's eastern route and a decision on the change should be made within a week.

Air Canada is currently the only carrier flying into major Canadian cities from Saskatoon and Regina.

Epileptic Won't Be Served

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP) — Both the town and its police department say they are unwilling to help Jim Parsons, a 38-year-old epileptic, in his battle to get service from two local restaurants.

Parsons, who says he was refused service at the Miss Ingersoll and Coffee Spot restaurants after having seizures in both places last March, enlisted the aid of the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

The commission has informed Parsons that it made verbal agreements with both restaurants for Parsons to be allowed take-out service. However, the restaurants would not allow him to sit in their dining rooms.

In an interview Tuesday, Police Chief Ronald James said the matter was not a police affair, adding that he agreed with the restaurateurs.

Chief James said that if he owned a restaurant, he would not want a patron "slobbering, burping and spilling his guts all over."

Drapeau Probe Sought On Cost Over-Runs

MONTREAL (CP) — The provincial government inquiry into cost over-runs in the 1976 Olympic Games should publicly examine the role of Mayor Jean Drapeau's administration before this fall's municipal election, says the Montreal Citizens Movement, a municipal opposition party.

In a brief submitted Tuesday to the inquiry headed by Judge Albert Malouf, the party said it would be "a true parody of justice as well as flagrant hypocrisy if the population of Montreal did not have the chance to hear the testimony of certain members of the administration of Mayor Drapeau before the Nov. 12 elections."

Judge Malouf opens public hearings here Thursday, after several months of closed-door investigation into the $1-billion deficit run up by the Games.

Drapeau's own role in the preparations for the Olympics should be considered a priority at the hearings, the brief said, along with those of the city's executive committee and architect Roger Taillibert, who designed the main stadium.

The party also wants the inquiry to examine publicly the planning, contract negotiations, and preparation of budgetary estimates before the Games.

The inquiry should also look at the legality of the city awarding construction contracts for Games installations without calling public tenders, the brief said.

Giguere Back in Court

MONTREAL (CP) — Liberal Senator Louis Giguere — acquitted in June on charges of conspiracy in the Sky Shops affair — is to appear in court again Nov. 6 for a preliminary hearing on a related charge.

The 66-year-old senator was acquitted by jury of having conspired to accept a benefit of $95,000 in return for the use of his influence in extending a lease for a duty-free shop operated by Sky Shops Export Ltd. at Dorval airport here.

This time he will appear on a charge of having accepted the money, rather than having conspired to accept it.

Testimony during the trial in June showed the senator sold 5,000 shares in Sky Shops for a $95,000 profit shortly after buying them.

Giguere testified he had been given a verbal option on the shares years before the question of a lease extension ever came up.

The Crown has appealed the acquittal.

Fish Truce Hopes Fading Out Fast

WASHINGTON (CP) — Hopes for resumption of reciprocal fishing this year are fading as the Canada-U.S. maritime boundaries dispute drags on.

Talks are continuing but sources close to the negotiations confirm that the two sides are still far apart on a variety of issues.

And it is becoming increasingly possible, they acknowledge, that special negotiators Lloyd Cutler for the United States and Marcel Cadieux of Canada, may need some help, perhaps third-party arbitration, to settle some issues of the boundary disputes.

Fisheries problems, simmering since the two countries adopted 200-mile limits in 1977, came to a boil in June when each accused the other of not living up to an interim reciprocal fishing agreement.

Canada ordered U.S. boats to leave its maritime waters and the United States retaliated with a similar ban a few hours later.

When the bans were ordered, U.S. officials urged that the interim agreement be reinstated as soon as possible so there would be a minimum of fishing disruption while Cutler and Cadieux worked on a long-term solution, including drawing boundry lines and managing fish and other undersea resources.

Canada, however, has taken a different approach to the interim agreement. Cadieux has said Canada is interested in restoring reciprocal fishing only within the context of a long-term settlement.

At a meeting of mid-level officials last week, an overall package covering the West Coast fishery was discussed.

However, if the package is not approved before the U.S. salmon season ends Sept. 15, there will be little prospect for resuming reciprocal fishing on the West Coast this year.

On the East Coast, the two sides still are far apart on such questions as management of herring and other fish stocks.

U.S. officials expressed concern Tuesday that if the dispute drags, it would become even more difficult to resolve. They said that U.S. fishermen whose work was stopped because of the fishing ban have had to adapt to fishing other stocks. Getting them to switch back and accept a fishing deal may be difficult, the officials said.

Further complicating the fish dispute are elections this fall in Nova Scotia and Alaska, both are deeply affected by the fishing dispute.

37,000 Leave Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — As many as 37,000 people left Quebec during the second half of 1977 — more than four times the number of non-Canadian immigrants to the province — estimates released by Statistics Canada indicate.

The estimates show that Quebec's population dropped to 6,281,000 from 6,285,000 during the six-month period. The net decline was recorded despite 45,000 births and an inflow of 9,000 new foreign immigrants.

Taking into account that 21,000 Quebecers died between July 1 and Dec. 31, 1977, the population of the province should have increased by 33,000. Instead, it dropped by 4,000, meaning that 37,000 people emigrated from the province.

Foreign immigrants excluded, the figures — which are contained in Statistics Canada's annual report on migration in Canada — show that the province experienced a net migratory loss of 28,000 people between July and December, 1977.

APES ON THE LOOSE

Al Oeming, owner of the Alberta Game Farm near Edmonton, conducted an experiment to see if apes want to be free. He placed a ladder in their paddock. Sure enough, the animals took off but their taste of freedom was short lived as they were soon rounded up by farm employees.

SLASHED PROF DIES AT 49

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuter) — A professor found with his throat cut after the laboratory he headed was linked to an outbreak of smallpox, died today in a hospital here, a spokesman said.

Friends said Henry Bedson, 49, a leading researcher on smallpox, blamed himself when a woman who worked near his lab caught the disease, which now is rare.

Bedson was admitted to hospital five days ago, but no details were given on the cause of his severe throat wound. His life-support machine was switched off today after his condition deteriorated, the spokesman said.

Bedson headed the department of medical microbiology at the University of Birmingham in central England.

Janet Parker, 40, a medical photographer, caught smallpox last month while working at an office near the professor's lab at the university medical school. She is still in hospital.

Bedson's research had played a significant part in making the once-dreaded disease so rare that Mrs. Parker was the world's first confirmed case since last October.

English Cities Need Facelift

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

MANCHESTER, England (CP) — The once-proud city of Manchester has some areas that are utterly derelict, as if blasted by bombs.

This is because many companies have either moved out of the city due to high taxation or have moved to newer buildings in other areas. And buildings near railway stations have degenerated with the slump in rail travel.

"We simply cannot afford to restore these buildings out of public funds," said a spokesman for Manchester City Council, "yet something must obviously be done to arrest the decay — it is really tragic."

Many British towns and cities are in a similar plight, with hundreds of empty buildings and acres of empty ground.

"Let's put the Great back in Great Britain," said Conservative candidate Arthur Willett recently.

"No," answered a Labor Party official, "let's make the best of Britain by restoring what needs to be restored. The term 'Great Britain' went out with The Empire."

Hundreds of small groups, inspired by the Jubilee Fund that was launched by Prince Charles in 1977, are working on improvement schemes throughout Britain.

In Edinburgh, several youth clubs combined to convert a disused army barracks into a training centre for unemployed would-be craftsmen. In the navy town of Portsmouth, a derelict church hall was converted into a community centre by university students.

In Bath, a party of schoolgirls has taken over a disused site and wants to convert it into a nature trail similar to one developed in Victoria, B.C., by naturalist Freeman King and his youth club.

The girls read about the Victoria trail in a magazine and decided to do something like it.

London's Covent Garden — the famous fruit, flower and vegetable market where Nell Gwynne sold oranges to King Charles II before becoming his mistress - was moved out of London several years ago because of overcrowding. The old site was abandoned and pessimists predicted it would become a slum. But enterprising tradesmen got together and converted the fruit and flower stalls and warehouses into shops and restaurants.

Today the old market centre is bustling with life once more, while the old market flourishes on a huge open site five miles out of London.

Said a spokesman for the London Chamber of Commerce:

"If only more people in Britain would roll up their sleeves and get busy, as so many small groups are doing, we could have a regeneration of our towns and cities and trade would surely follow."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	2 ♣	3 ◇	5 ♣
Dble.	Pass	6 ◇	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Dummy's ace of clubs won the opening lead, after which the diamond ace was cashed, East discarding a club. The fulfillment of the contract now depended on the avoidance of the loss of a spade trick.

To trick three a trump was led to South's king, leaving the high queen outstanding in the West hand. South's remaining club was then ruffed, eliminating clubs from both the North and South hands. Next came a spade to South's ace, after which the spade deuce was led towards dummy's queen. It would have done West no good to ruff this lead, for in this case a low spade would have been played from dummy, thereby avoiding the loss of a spade trick. On this spade lead, West discarded a heart, as dummy's queen won the trick.

Declarer now led a heart to his king, and followed up by playing a heart to dummy's ace, West's queen falling. Dummy's remaining heart was led next, South ruffing. Once again, it would not have helped West if he overruffed, for he would then be compelled to lead a club. And if he did this, South would simply ruff in dummy while simultaneously discarding the losing spade from the South hand. So West discarded a club on the third heart lead.

Declarer now led a trump, thrusting West into the lead. Poor West had no option but to lead a club, which South ruffed in dummy as he got rid of the losing spade from the South hand. The rest of the tricks belonged to declarer.

Admittedly, the five outstanding spades figured to be divided 3-2. If they were so divided, everybody would have fulfilled the slam contract by any line of play. But our declarer recognized that the missing spades might well be divided 4-1 (or even 5-0); and, as he played the hand, he gave himself a guarantee that he would fulfill the contract.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What was moribund shakes, rattles, rolls, is again alive-and-kicking. You break new ground. Another Leo challenges you with clash of ideas. Accent on security, property, older family member, savings, land investments, back taxes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on movement, messages, hunches, communication from one who has much to do with your security — or lack of it. Take special care in traffic. Relative who is unorthodox seeks attention. Give it in a loving manner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Highlight versatility, humor — reach beyond an apparent limitation. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons figure prominently. emphasis on money potential, knowing value of what you possess, determining what is to be developed, what discarded.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Check details, fine points, read between lines, take needed time to be thorough. Aquarius, Taurus, Leo persons figure prominently — so does the number 4. You break through, gain credit due, surprise many who made mistakes of dismissing or counting you out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What had been a source of concern could become a cause for celebration. Relative relays good news. Your "examination" shows positive results. You could be asked to appear before the media as spokesperson both for club, organization.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Unorthodox friend could show you way to make most of possessions, valuables. You are able now to fulfill request of family member. Cycle is such that you could strike pay dirt. Yes, there is good news tonight!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You're involved in "complicated" situation; over-simplifying would be an error. You are asked to fulfill claims. You can win by riding with tide. Pisces person figures prominently. Superior is with you — key is for you to understand twists, turns.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Good lunar aspect coincides now with opportunity to travel, plan ahead, engage in project which increases knowledge, spiritual awareness. Deal with Aquarius, Capricorn persons. Relationship is intensified.

IF SEPTEMBER 7 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a perfectionist, sensitive, spiritual, attracted to law, theatre, medicine. December will be one of your most significant months of this year. Pisces, Virgo persons play important roles in your life. You are learning to face issues as they exist and you'll benefit as result. You are perceptive, psychic, moody and the opposite sex is fascinated by you.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

We have 4699 for the game today. Two 9's one 4, and one 6. Using all four each time, but no other digits at all, you form expressions for the consecutive numbers from one up.

Any arithemetical signs may be used, but no summation or factorial symbols, and no words. Don't forget decimals, regular and repeater, also roots and powers. For example, 69 + 9 — 4 is a solution for 74.

The limit without a break in continuity in this rather easy game seems to be 122. I shall be glad to check any solutions.

Brown Sinks First Sign

By BILL RICHARDS
Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The first inkling that something had gone wrong in rural Hardeman County, Tenn., came last winter when the local kitchen sinks started turning brown.

Then came reports from puzzled residents of the southwestern Tennessee farming region that their well water had developed peculiar, insecticide-like odor. When a rash of unexplained cases of stomach cramps and dizzy spells hit the area, federal and state health investigators moved in.

Their discovery — some 350,000 leaky, 55-gallon drums of legally buried chemical waste on a nearby ridgetop owned by the Chicago-based Velsicol Chemical Co. — is likely to add another chapter to what is rapidly becoming a recurring chemical-age nightmare.

Velsicol admits that between 1965 and 1972 it dumped chemical waste at the site from its Memphis pesticide plant. But a company spokesman insists there is no concrete proof the 17 chemical contaminants identified thus far in the local well water came from its dump. Moreover, Velsicol says its dumping was perfectly legal under state laws at the time.

That leaves federal and state officials with a virtual sea of toxic chemcals — including some known carcinogens — apparently flowing into the local water supply and no clear villain on whom to place the blame.

If the Hardeman County problem seems Herculean, it is by no means unique. Across the nation, new stores of nearly forgotten, highly toxic chemical waste seem to be oozing into the headlines every week. Federal officials estimate there may be as many as 400 more suspicious hazardous waste sites around the country. And no one seems to know who will pay to clean them up.

Some recent examples:

—Authorities in Michigan, nervously keeping tabs on toxic chemicals leaking from a company dump in Montague into Lake Michigan, recently checked and were horrified to discover it could cost $10 million to clean up similar hazardous waste sites around the state. "There's no way we're going to ask the taxpayers to ante up for that," said a state official.

—In Massachusetts health officials got an emergency $1.3 million from the state legislature to remove 17,000 barrels of toxic chemicals leaking from an abandoned lot in Lowell into the Merrimac River, the water source for several downstream communities. State officials are pledged to try to recover the cleanup money from financial backers of the bankrupt disposal firm and those who originally shipped the waste to the site. But a state official concedes glumly, "We're not holding our breath waiting to get paid."

—In the widely publicized Love Canal situation in Niagara Falls, N.Y., officials have estimated that preliminary cleanup costs alone will run to $8 million. "And that," says an Enviornmental Protection Agency official "is just to make the area liveable. We're not even talking about relocation costs."

Nearly 200 families may eventually have to be permanently moved out of the area where thousands of drums of cancer-causing chemicals have leaked into backyards and basements.

Right now Michigan is closely watching another site owned by the Hooker Chemical and Plastics Corp. in Montague. There, quantities of C-56 — a chemical building block for several carcinogenic pesticides — is leaking into White Lake, an arm of Lake Michigan.

Hooker's disposal site, as well as others in the state, may be legal, said Stewart Freeman, an assistant state attorney general. "But even assuming it is legal we can still say: all right you contain it, or you pay for it," he said.

Hooker also operated the Love Canal site in Niagara Falls before deeding the site to a local school district under threat, according to the company, of condemnation proceedings against it.

Peony Planting Time

The period between September 15 and October 15 is the best for planting new peony roots, or for lifting and dividing, or simply moving those already in the garden. Moving is not to be done unless necessary due to poor flowering, need of space, or some other emergency.

Difficulties in flowering these splendid plants are due either to giving them too little exposure to sunshine all year or to neglecting the annual addition of some form of fertilizer. Although shallow planting for the tips of the crowns is advised, the depth may vary from one to three inches without affecting the health of the plant. More important is the type of soil.

Feeding is needed because the large root clumps can remain for 20 or 30 years in the same place if the soil is enriched. Give a tablespoon of a balanced fertilizer such as 6-8-6 around each plant, well watered before applying and again afterwards. Do this in June after blooming. In fall after the colorful leaves have faded, give a handful of bonemeal as a slow acting fertilizer for early spring use.

Prairie people remember the fine blooms raised with their cold winters and hot summers, an indication that shallow planting of peony roots is beneficial for cold treatment of the crowns in winter and their baking by the sun's heat in summer.

One condition peony tubers do not endure is that of a flooded clay soil in winter, or in fact flooding of any kind. The ground must be well drained.

See to this when making a new planting. Put in plenty of leafmould, rotted compost and vary old rotted cow manure or mushrooms compost which has been put through a mixed compost heap. This material will keep the soil open at the same time hold moisture in the fibrous material.

In later years a layer of screened compost laid around the crown of peonies after the stems come up in spring will serve two purposes. One to replace some of the fiber broken down in previous growing season, the other to prevent the rapid drying out of soil below as the sun's heat increases at the time of late spring flowering.

Weak stems on peony flowers may be a result of several conditions. Lack of food in the soil is one and at the opposite end of the scale — too much fertilizer, particularly nitrogen, resulting in rapid soft growth in spring. It is better to give two small feedings than one larger. As flower buds are well formed, give one handful of the suggested fertilizer and another when flowers drop.

This type of feeding also helps produce good foliage, which not only ensures the following year's growth will be good, but adds handsome green leaves to the summer garden and tones of red, bronze, purple and yellow as the days shorten in early September.

If you are buying peonies for the first time, look around for other kinds and colors than the familiar red and pink doubles. They are prolific in bloom and handsome in appearance but others are as easily grown which are white, pale pink, rich pink, single with many golden stamens for a centre, or semi-doubles. You will enjoy peonies even more with a plant or two of these in your garden. And the foliage of all is just as ornamental as are the flowers.

ANDERSON—Suddenly in Parksville, B.C., on August 29, 1978, Mr. William Ira Anderson, aged 72 years, of 203-1900 Mayfair Dr., Victoria. Born in Gary, Indiana and a resident of Penticton for 13 years and Victoria for 47 years. He is survived by his beloved wife Roxie, one son, Brock of Prince George, and Mark of Vancouver; and close relatives, Mr. and Mrs. K. Young and families of Kamloops; Mr. and Mrs. K. Wilson and families of Portland, Oregon; Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Whitley and family, Mr. and Mrs. K. Henderson and family, Mrs. R. Baker and family, Mr. J. Foracre and families and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Palm all of Victoria, and many close friends. He was a longstanding member of both St. Paul's United Church, Sidney and Metropolitan United Church, Victoria, and served for a time as secretary of the Musical Arts Society. HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale, start your ad with the location.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader—more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT SASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Abortion Illegal, Filed Suit Claims

REGINA (CP) — Former Manitoba highways minister Joe Borowski and his Alliance against Abortion group campaigned for about a year to raise the money to attack legalized abortion in Canada through the courts, Borowski said Tuesday.

Borowski, who resigned from the cabinet of former NDP premier Ed Schreyer in 1971 to protest legalized abortion, filed a statement of claim here Tuesday seeking to have therapeutic abortion committees declared illegal. He also wants a permanent injunction preventing federal Finance Minister Jean Chretien from providing public money for abortions.

Morris Shumiatcher, the Regina lawyer representing Borowski, said the case likely would end up in the Supreme Court of Canada and would force Canadians to "re-examine their attitude toward human life, all life . . . ."

In the statement of claim, Shumiatcher argued that a foetus is an individual and entitled to protection under the Canadian Bill of Rights.

He is expected to refer to the recent birth of an English test-tube baby, conceived outside her mother's body, in arguing that a foetus is "an individual, from the moment of his conception a living human being, unique and distinct from his father, mother and the body that is his host . . . ."

Borowski, 44, said in a telephone interview from Winnipeg the Alliance against Abortion, which he formed in 1973, has sought funds for about a year to pay the costs of the court challenge. He said about $28,000 has been raised and he expects he will need about $50,000 to cover all of the bills.

"Whatever the cost is, we will raise it," he said.

He said he started the campaign with $1,000 of his own money.

Borowski said his name appeared on the statement of claim, rather than the Alliance's, because that was what his lawyer advised.

Other anti-abortion groups are not expected to join the Alliance action formally because they fear they will lose their status as a charity for tax purposes, he said.

Borowski said he has twice gone to jail for withholding his income tax to protest the use of public money for abortions.

If his court challenge, not expected to go to trial before next summer, is successful, Canadians will have to accept it, even though the country has had liberalized abortion laws since the late 1960s, he said.

Equally, if the case is lost, those opposed to abortion will have to accept the verdict, he said.

Shumiatcher said his case can be defused if Parliament is prepared to declare that the Bill of Rights does not apply to the Criminal Code as it deals with abortion.

If Prime Minister Trudeau does not accept the verdict of the court, should it strike down legalized abortion, Borowski vowed he would "start disobeying every law in the country."

The anti-abortion case hinges on whether an unborn child is an individual, Shumiatcher said prior to filing the lawsuit.

With 1,000 certificates a week being issued by therapeutic abortion committees permitting abortions in Canada, Shumiatcher said he hoped to "bring home to the consciousness of people the enormity of what is happening."

SHUT SCHOOL RILES PARENTS

ANGUSVILLE, Man. (CP) — Parents in this farming village 240 kilometres northwest of Winnipeg performed Tuesday what they say will be a daily ritual: they took their children to the locked school, took roll-call and took the children home.

Officially the village school, a five-room structure in need of repairs, is closed for good.

But the parents say they do not recognized the closing of the school because that decision was made by Pelly Trail school division when the trustee who represents Angusville was not present.

Marian Kostiuk, one of the parents, said Tuesday's ritual will be repeated "tomorrow and the next day and the day after that" until the school is reopened.

"The distance isn't a factor. It's just 12 miles the children would be travelling and lots of children go further than that . . . but why kill a community?"

The school board closed the school in June after it was estimated that it would cost more than $40,000 to repair the school. However, an enginer hired by Angusville parents said the repairs could be made for $12,000.

Henry Ford Called In Suit against Pinto

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — An Indiana grand jury issued summonses today for Henry Ford and former Ford Motor Co. president Lee Iacocca to testify about the design of Pinto fuel tanks.

The grand jury is investigating an Aug. 10 Pinto crash that killed three teen-agers when the gas tank exploded upon impact near Goshen, Ind. The Pinto was hit from the rear by a pickup truck.

The 1973 Pinto sedan was one of 1.5 millon Pintos and Mercury Bobcats that Ford announced in June were being recalled after government complaints that the fuel tanks were susceptible to explosion in rear-end collisions.

The automaker has denied that the cars are unsafe, but said it was ordering the recalls because of public concern.

The National Highway Transportation Safety Board has said at least 59 people have been killed in Pinto-Bobcat fuel tank fires since 1975.

Elkhart County Prosecutor Michael Cosentino said he has forwarded the summonses to the Wayne County, Mich., prosecutor in Detroit to seek Ford and Iacocca's testimony when the grand jury reconvenes Sept. 12.

Although Ford and Iacocca were named in the summonses, Cosentino said the grand jury is willing to hear from anyone designated by the automaker.

"We would hope they will attend and give us Ford's side of the case," the prosecutor said. "I would hope to have some information as to why the Pinto was constructed as it was."

Vega Gas Tank Probe Demanded

OTTAWA (CP) — Allegations in the United States that Chevrolet Vegas made between 1971 and 1973 may have exploding gas tanks similar to those in the pre-1977 Ford Pintos should be investigated by the federal transport department, Liberal MP Herb Gray (Windsor West) said Tuesday.

In a letter to Transport Minister Otto Lang, Gray said the department should have the manufacturer, General Motors Corp., correct any defects found in the cars.

Although General Motors representatives here were unavailable for comment, a transport department spokesman said Vega fuel systems are being investigated.

"The road safety branch is looking not just at Vegas, but at all cars with potential fuel system problems," he said.

Gray, a former minister, said U.S. consumer safety advocate Ralph Nader has alleged that the Vegas have defective gas tanks that could explode if the cars were hit in the rear.

He said U.S. news services have reported that the U.S. national highway traffic safety administration is doing a preliminary investigation of the allegations.

'MISSING' CLIMBER FINED

HINTON, Alta. (CP) — Elmer Niehaus, 35, of Hinton, was fined $200 in provincial court here Tuesday for failing to return a voluntary registration form.

Court was told Niehaus had registered a hazardous trip with Jasper Park wardens prior to making a difficult climb on Mount Edith Cavell but failed to report that he had completed the climb safely, necessitating a costly ground search.

SOD TURNING by Marjorie Leeming marks the start of construction of a five-court indoor tennis complex at the Racquet Club of Victoria. Structure will be metal-sheathed, covering almost three-quarters of an acre.

McKinnon Backs PSAC Plea

The 180,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada has the support of Victoria Conservative MP Allan McKinnon in its opposition to a bill which would amend labor law for federal public service employees.

A union survey of MPs shows that McKinnon is among 38 of 83 who have responded to a poll who are backing the PSAC.

Esquimalt-Saanich MP Donald Munro hasn't made up his mind yet on the proposed amendments to the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

The PSAC is opposed to the proposed changes primarily because the union says they will limit the maximum salary a bargaining unit member can earn.

The union has vowed to campaign in the next federal election for the defeat of every candidate who supports the proposed amendments.

Of the 83 MPS who responded to the poll, 38 are backing the union, 25 are in favor of the legislation and 20 are undecided.

MURDERS TOTAL 624

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada had 624 murders in 1977, as violent crimes and crimes against property both registered declines from the previous year, Statistics Canada said Tuesday.

A total of 135,479 violent crimes — homicides, sexual offenses and assaults — were reported, a 1.8 percent decline. The 1,056,894 crimes against property were a 1.3 percent decline from the previous year.

First and second degree murders totalled 624, up slightly from the 615 recorded in 1976 but below the 1975 level of 633. The number of manslaughter cases in 1977 rose 50 percent to 78, mostly because of 21 persons dying in a deliberately set jail fire in Saint John, N.B.

The national rate of sexual offenses was almost unchanged in 1977 but regional rates showed large changes. The 13 rapes in New Brunswick represented a 57.8 percent drop but Ontario's 563 rapes were a 17.5 percent increase.

Nationally the number of rapes increased 2.5 percent, while the number of indecent assaults against women decreased 0.9 percent. Indecent assaults against men increased 20.8 percent.

IBM Challenged

TOKYO (AFP) — Japan's two major computer makers, Hitachi and Fujitsu, have announced joint development of what they say will be the world's largest and fastest computer system. Officials said the new system will be capable of processing data up to 1.7 times faster than IBM's 3033 computer system.

Architects Join Job Lines

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bad business is driving British Columbia architects out of the province and in some cases into bankruptcy.

"It is a pretty grim situation," Sheila Roache, executive secretary of the Architectural Institute of B.C., said Tuesday.

She said the Institute this year lost 42 of its 680 registered members "primarily through lack of money." Some went bankrupt, some moved to prosperous Alberta and some simply couldn't scrape up enough to pay their dues, she said.

"It is quite alarming, the number of unemployed architects" she said. "And it's all tied into the economy, of course."

Drivers Put Knock on Unleaded Gas

By MARTIN MERZER

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you spending extra money on premium unleaded gasoline for your new car because it doesn't seem to run properly on regular unleaded? You're not alone.

Consumers are complaining about engine knock in cars requiring unleaded gasoline, and auto makers, oil companies and government officials are responding in expected ways:

—The auto companies say nothing is wrong. In fact, they say, that knocking sound proves that the engine is at peak efficiency.

—Two oil companies—Amoco and Shell—are finding a new market: motorists who are so annoyed by the engine knock that they are spending as much as four cents a gallon extra for higher-octane "premium" grades of unleaded fuel. Other firms are quietly upgrading their regular unleaded fuel in an attempt to maintain sales.

"We had a number of complaints, not just at Gulf but industry-wide," said Tom Walker, spokesman for Gulf Oil Co., which raised its unleaded octane rating about 18 months ago. "You recognize it's a problem and you make the decision for good customer relations."

—Government officials are holding hearings and studying the problem.

Sharon Gist, Chicago's acting commissioner of consumer affairs, conducted a hearing on the problem after her office received several complaints.

"What we would like is for the auto manufacturers to design their engines so that 95 to 97 per cent of them run well on unleaded regular," she said. "Either that or they should say in their manuals that you are likely to be in the percentage of owners who can't use unleaded regular and must use unleaded premium."

Consumer groups, auto makers and government agencies estimate that the percentage of motorists who encounter disappointing performance with unleaded regular gasoline ranges from 10 to 40.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which in its anti-pollution role monitors octane ratings, is just becoming aware of the problem.

"We can't tell exactly how many people are spending how much more, but there are data that 91-octane unleaded gasoline (which is recommended by all U.S. auto makers) will not satisfy new cars," said Ben Jackson, an EPA gasoline expert.

The EPA said that although auto makers have mainaained their 91-ctane recommendation since 1975, the actual requirement of the cars has been increasing, due in part to imprecise production-line standards.

To reduce air pollution, virtually every new car made in the United States now requires use of unleaded gasoline. In the last 18 months, sales of unleaded gasoline have increased from 19.5 per cent of the total to more than 26 per cent, according to market studies.

Oil-industry officials expect almost every car on the road to require use of unleaded fuel within 10 years.

The major problem is engine knock, heard most often when the car is accelerating or under other strain. For years, oil firms have pushed their "special no-knock formulas"—gasoline with lead as an additive—as a way to avoid the noise.

Cattle Studied for Antibiotics

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — A study of bacteria which cling tenaciously to the digestive tracts of cattle may eventually lead to the discovery of disease-fighting antibiotics.

Dr. Bill Costerton of University of Calgary is one of several Canadians involved in research on sticky bacteria.

Costerton is working on development of an antibiotic to combat the cystic fibrosis bacterium which builds a suffocating slime in the lungs of young victims.

The research might also result in savings of millions of dollars annually for livestock producers.

Proceeding on the basis of research done a decade ago, Canadian scientists have identified several types of bacteria which cling to the surfaces in the digestive tracts of cattle and in human lungs and bladders where they can feed on a stream of passing nutrients.

Scientists have used portholes opening into the cattles' stomachs to facilitate sampling of bacteria.

Antibiotics can wipe out bacteria with indiscriminate blasts, but the latest research indicates it might be easier and safer to break the bacteria's grip than to kill them.

Costerton, Dr. Kuo-joan Cheng at the Lethbridge federal agriculture research station and Dr. Gill Geesey at University of Victoria, have spent two years discovering which germs cling inside human and animal hosts.

Their studies have indicated that the stickiness of the bacteria is essential to the germs' success.

"We've known where the bacteria were in general, such as in stomach fluids," said Costerton. "But we didn't know they were stuck on the surface by means of tangled fibres that don't let antibiotics through."

"We've discovered where they are, and that they're more numerous than floating populations of bacteria."

In the cattle research at Lethbridge, Cheng and fellow-researchers Dr. Peter Bailey and Dr. Bob Hironaka have isolated about 300 types of bacteria which cling to cattle stomachs.

Cheng said they have discovered that the bacteria in cattle come from the surface of the rumen — a stomach. "This is a fairly big discovery."

Chronic Pain Sufferers Usually Unable to Relax

MONTREAL (CP) — People who suffer from chronic pain generally have trouble communicating their true feelings.

They tend to be hard workers who rarely miss a day of work or who keep the house spanking clean. But they can't relax.

This is the profile of an average chronic pain sufferer painted by three doctors who run separate pain treatment clinics in the United States and Canada.

In interviews during the recent Second World Congress of Pain here, Dr. Richard Catchlove of Montreal, Dr. James Kwako of Wisconsin and Dr. Lorenz Ng of Washington D.C. agreed that nearly all of their pain patients have psychological as well as physical roots to their problem.

"Five years ago, most doctors thought emotional problems were a reaction to the pain patients felt," said Catchlove. "We used to say, 'Well, you'd be depressed if you were in pain too.'

"But now some of us recognize when patients complain of pain there is usually something else besides pain bothering them."

Temporary pain is necessary and normal as a natural warning device to alert people to disease or physical damage, the doctors said.

But pain that persists year after year in spite of medical treatment may mean that the patient is unconsciously "abusing his body's warning system," said Ng.

Chronic pain sufferers, he said, seem to be "addicted" to the "sick role" because it offers them an excuse to escape unpleasant responsibilities, like a demanding job or an unsatisfactory marriage.

Catchlove said a recent study of 45 patients at Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital clinic revealed that only 10 per cent had purely physical causes for the pain, 20 per cent had mental reasons for it and 70 per cent had a mixture of both.

"Pain often serves as a way of expressing the inner difficulties that the patients have trouble expressing (verbally)," said Catchlove.

Chronic pain patients tend to be the type of people who hold in their anger, irritation or sadness, he said.

"They aren't demanding types. On the contrary, they are rather self-effacing and self-denying.

"Many have a perfect work history—they have worked for 20 years without missing a day's work," said Catchlove.

Suddenly they come down with an ailment that incapacitates them with pain, causing them to miss work regularly. "They seem to need a very good reason to be absent. Then they miss 100 per cent—it has to be one way or the other with these people."

The housewife who suffers constantly from pain tends to work hard at keeping the house clean, helps others a lot and accepts self-sacrifice without complaint, Catchlove said.

They often have long-lasting marriages which they claim to be happy until, when doctors scratch below the surface, they admit unspoken, but deep marital misunderstandings.

They are locked into a pattern of behavior and they figure "maybe if I get sick, it will make things change," he said.

The three pain specialists had slightly different approaches to curing the problem but all emphasized changing the patient's lifestyle.

The 12-day out-patient program offered in a clinic in La Crosse, Wisconsin, teaches people how to relax their bodies through biofeedback methods and counsels them on how to resolve social conflicts without seeking refuge or attention in illness.

WELCOME OVERSTAYED

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Nancy Thompson recently discovered an uninvited guest had moved into her attic when she opened the door and saw a "huge nest about four feet tall and three feet wide at the base." A spokesman for the Richmond Audubon Society said he was 99-per-cent sure it was a starling. Starlings like to fill in holes "and it seems this one tried to fill up the whole attic."

BARN RAISING EVENT took place in St. Clair, Mich. where the building's owner decided to provide a new foundation for the collapsing structure. A 110-ton crane picked the barn up and moved it 100 yards.

GOV'T STUFFY OVER BEAST

TORONTO (CP) — A stuffed lion sold by a Toronto art dealer to a collector in New York State has languished in bureaucratic captivity in Buffalo for nearly two months.

Jack Markle, co-owner of the Electric Gallery in Toronto, says the lion, electronically equipped to hum and heave like a living cat, was impounded by United States customs officials when it arrived at the Canada-U.S. border without a Canadian export permit July 5.

Although a permit was sent two days later, Rodney Hanlon, special agent for the U.S. Fish and Wild Life Service, says he cannot release the stuffed beast.

Hanlon says he does not have papers verifying that the animal lived and died in a Dutch zoo and that its hide was legally exported from Holland. A German artist stuffed the hide and sold it to the Electric Gallery.

Last June, Markle agreed to sell the stuffed lion for $6,500 to David Bermant, of Rye, N.Y.

Bermant said in an interview from Rye that he feels Markle must bear much of the blame for the customs problems. He said if he had sent an export permit with the animal in the first place the endangered species issue would not have arisen.

Hunted Hughes Aide Skips Tonga Haven

WELLINGTON (UPI) — A former Howard Hughes aide wanted in the United States for fraud and tax evasion has been expelled from the South Pacific Kingdom of Tonga and is probably hiding in Canada, sources said today.

Like fugitive financier Robert Vesco, John Meier, a former resident of the Vancouver area, is wanted in the United States on a variety of charges and has been avoiding extradition through an international game of hide-and-seek.

He disappeared from his island haven after the King of Tonga, Taufa'ahau Tupou IV, informed him recently he was no longer welcome there.

Meier is a Canadian citizen and the sources in New Zealand said he had probably returned there to join his family.

He is wanted in Utah on federal charges of obstruction of justice involving more than $8 million in worthless mining claims and for evasion of $7.9 million of back taxes in Nevada.

Meier recently used a Tongan diplomatic passport given him by the king to flee Sydney, Australia, where he faced extradition to the United States.

Once in Tonga — a group of about 200 small South Pacific islands that is still part of the British Commonwealth — he was granted a charter to open a bank.

But the charter was revoked after Meier failed to live up to a pledge to assist in the development of an airport on Tonga, a longtime ambition of Tupou IV.

Meier worked for the Howard Hughes organization from 1959 to 1970, and when the late tycoon moved to Las Vegas in 1967, Meier was listed as a "scientific adviser."

However, Meier had no college degree and once told a Las Vegas court he never finished college.

The U.S. government declared Meier a fugitive on Jan. 3, 1975, when he jumped bail on the Nevada income tax charges.

According to sources in the Hughes organization, Meier has a fortune in Swiss bank accounts.

HUMAN DRUG FOR TREES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government said today that fruit growers in Michigan and New York can use a drug, normally prescribed for humans to help control "X disease" infection of peach and cherry trees.

Emergency permission to use Terramycin was granted by the Environmental Protection Agency in 30 counties of the two states. Up to 27,000 trees could be injected with the antibiotic, the agency said.

Terramycin is a drug often prescribed for people to clear up bacterial infections.

UVF BOMBER GETS LIFE

BELFAST (Reuter) — A senior member of a Protestant guerrilla group was sentenced to life in prison today after admitting responsibility for the 1971 bombing of a tavern which killed 15 people.

Robert Campbell, 43, said: "It was such a small parcel and such a big bang. The next day I read that all those people were dead. I am glad I am going to jail."

Campbell, a self-styled company commander in the outlawed Ulster Volunteer Force, was sentenced on 15 separate murder charges arising from the bombing.

Rail Link to China Snapped by Hanoi

HONG KONG (UPI) — Hanoi has shut off its train link with China and may be preparing public opinion for a worsening of the Sino-Vietnamese border conflict, Peking said Tuesday.

A report by the official New China News Agency, monitored in Hong Kong, called "preposterous" a Hanoi charge that Peking had arranged thousands of rafts to return thousands of ethnic Chinese refugees to Vietnam illegally.

"Their foreign ministry spokesman created rumors and repeatedly hurled groundless charges against China," NCNA said. "What is their real purpose? This is something worth pondering and paying close attention to."

"Does the statement indicate that the Hanoi authorities are playing the same trick of preparing public opinion for new and more serious steps of escalation against China?" the report asked.

"People are on the alert as to what they are up to."

The Peking protest coincided with the arrival in Hanoi of Chinese Vice-Foreign Minister Chung Hsi-tung to resume stalemated talks on the exodus of ethnic Chinese from Vietnam.

The talks began Aug. 8 and broke up after four sessions, each resulting in strident charges flung back and forth.

More than 100,000 Chinese who lived in Vietnam have streamed across the border to their ethnic homeland in the past few months. China charges Hanoi drove them out and Hanoi says they left because of a scare stirred up by Peking agents in Vietnam.

The NCNA broadcast said Chinese Foreign Minister Shen Ping had met a Vietnamese embassy official in Peking to protest Hanoi's Aug. 30 closing of the Hokuo (friendship) bridge connecting Vietnam and China.

Hanoi officials had rolled a covered wagon across the train tracks on the Vietnamese side and surrounded it with barbed wire, saying the line had been shut down for repairs until Sept. 30.

"This arrogant behavior of the Vietnamese side is obviously not for repair or maintenance of the railway, but is deliberately intended to worsen relations between the two countries."

12 Quakes Hit Taiwan

TAIPEI (AP) — Twelve earthquakes have shaken Taiwan since last Friday, cracking walls on some buildings and cutting some telephone and power lines.

Although no casualties or severe damage has been reported, Taiwan's weather bureau has warned residents that a severe quake could take place.

Li Pia-hua, chief of the National Weaterh Bureau's geophysical section, said major 43 earthquakes had been felt in Taiwan so far this year.

The worst quake came Saturday in northern and eastern Taiwan, registering a magnitude of 6.6 on the Richter scale.

A quake of 6.1 magnitude hit Tuesday and its eighth aftershock was felt early Wednesday, measuring 5.1.

Since 1900, Li said, an average of 1,500 earthquakes hit Taiwan each year but were too small to be felt.

On the Richter scale, in populated areas, a quake of 4 can cause moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 can be severe and 7 is considered a major earthquake, capable of heavy damage.

147 JOBS AFFECTED

Major Shakeup Of Gov't Buses

The provincial government Tuesday merged its two money-losing bus systems and said it will sell off its charter and sightseeing wings.

Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Hugh Curtis said 147 jobs will be affected although he said most will be found other work.

About 77 employees, mostly with PSL will, in Curtis' words, become redundant, but the minister said Hydro promised they will all be absorbed into other Hydro operations.

In the special sevices — charters and sightseeing areas — about 70 will lose their jobs.

Curtis said the Public Service Commission will endeavor to find other work for them.

He said the number who will lose their jobs altogether will be minimal.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines and Pacific Stage Lines becomes Pacific Coach Lines with headquarters in Victoria effective immediately.

Jack Thomas, current general manager of VICL was named general manager of the new operation.

Curtis said VICL, the B.C. Hydro-operated PSL and their sightseeing, tour and charter services are losing in excess of $8 million a year.

The merger of the bus services will end a duplication of

The Sokalskis...since bombing they live in deadly fear for lives

'Terror' Attack On Old Couple

An elderly Victoria couple said today they fear for their lives in the wake of a firebomb attack on their home over the weekend.

Artem Sokalski, 77, and his wife Mary, 71, her nose and chin bearing scars of a terrorist-style attack in which a home-made Molotov cocktail was hurled through their bedroom window early Sunday, said other neighbors are also fearful.

The firebomb, which burned Mrs. Sokalski's face and caused about $2,000 damage to the couple's duplex at 1136 Empress, was tossed through their window at about 5 a.m.

"It was an attempt to murder us," Sokalski said. "There's no question about that."

Sokalski said he believes the bomb, a gasoline-filled pop bottle with a rag attached, was a reprisal for numerous calls the couple has made to police over the past six months about noisy parties.

"Everyone in the neighborhood . . . they get no sleep either, and phone police. But they (the noisemakers) put all the blame on me."

Sokalski said he has lost count of the number of times he has complained. One night he called police four times because of loud noise and shouting.

"I've written to city council, talked to the chief of police, pleaded for help," he said.

"The police come and the noise stops for a time. But everyone fears retaliation."

He said that three weeks ago an unidentified caller warned him if he called police again the caller would "fix" him.

The following week there was another party and Sokalski contacted police. Twelve officers in five cars arrived and quelled the disturbance.

Early last Sunday, Sokalski said, he and his wife were in bed when they heard noise.

"My wife — she was still awake — woke me and said they were starting a party again. But a few minutes later the noise stopped. I looked out the window but couldn't see anyone. The light was on in the veranda."

He said he returned to bed. Suddenly there was a loud explosion and the room filled with flame.

Mrs. Sokalski face was burned when she grabbed window drapes and tried to smother the flames.

"If we'd hesitated just one second we'd have been dead," he said. "The flames, they were all over."

A team of city police detectives and arson investigators are continuing their investigation. As yet no charges have been laid.

But until they are and the culprits are caught, the Sokalskis will live in fear.

Summit Talks Begin

Times News Services

CAMP DAVID — President Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, secluded in an idyllic mountain setting, today began efforts to mediate peace in the Middle East.

Carter met with Sadat early today following an initial meeting with Begin Tuesday night. The first meeting of all three men is expected later today in talks that could last 10 days.

Hard-line Arab leaders, meanwhile, reacted to the summit today with gloom, predicting it would mean the end of Sadat's peace initiative and possibly point the Middle East toward war.

Syrian President Hafez Assad and Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat both suggested Sadat would get nothing at Camp David.

Sithole's Offices Bombed

SALISBURY (Reuter) — A hand grenade was thrown at the headquarters of black nationalist leader Ndabaningi Sithole's party in central Salisbury Monday night, military headquarters said today.

There were no casualties and only slight damage, a communique said.

The offices were empty at the time.

Meanwhile, Rhodesian troops, many of them off-duty volunteers, scoured black guerrilla strongholds today for a gang said to have killed plane-crash survivors in one of the worst episodes in the Rhodesian war.

Judge Jaunt: $45,000

VANCOUVER — The cost of giving 29 senior Quebec judges a two-week English language training course at the Bayshore Inn in Vancouver — with teachers brought in from Ottawa — was around $45,000.

But almost twice as much tax money was spent during the same two-week period ending Sept. 1 for 50 senior federal judges from English Canada (including B.C.) to learn French while staying at the Chateau Bonne Entente in Quebec City.

English and French judges got the same deal: Economy-class airline tickets, two weeks' accommodation at a first-class hotel and a $25 daily stipend for expenses.

Sol Samuels, commissioner for federal judicial affairs, said in a telephone interview from Ottawa Tuesday that a language immersion program for judges — with a budget this year of $170,000 — has been operating several years.

Samuels said the decision to hold this year's English language training for Quebec judges in Vancouver — 3,125 miles (5,073 kilometres) from Quebec City — followed a suggestion from the Quebec judges that the program be held someplace "interesting."

When the program was offered at a resort in Northern Ontario, he said, only five applications had been received from francophone judges.

Samuels said he felt the $6,500 extra in air fares to hold the training in Vancouver rather than a place like Toronto was "money well invested in the over-all picture because the response was really great."

Insulin Bred In Bacteria

DUARTE, Calif. (UPI) — In a major genetic engineering feat, scientists at the City of Hope Medical Centre today announced the first production of human insulin in bacteria "tricked" by the insertion of artificial genes.

Laboratory manufacture of the hormone means that human insulin can soon be made available for the first time to diabetics whose lives depend on daily injections.

The insulin now being used is extracted from the pancreas of slaughtered cattle and pigs, and the supply is diminishing each year, the researchers said.

They said they produced only a few grams of insulin from bacteria in the laboratory, more than enough to prove the validity of the experiment.

About 300 units, or 3 cubic centimetres of insulin, are produced from a slaughtered cow or pig, a spokesman said. The average diabetic insulin user requires about 40 units or four-tenths of a cubic centimetre, each day.

The development, combining some of the most advanced techniques in the rapidly expanding field of genetic manipulation, was announced by the 10 collaborating scientists from the City of Hope and Genentech Inc., a research and development laboratory in South San Francisco which funded the work.

"We've managed to trick E. coli bacteria into making human insulin," Dr. Arthur Riggs of the City of Hope said in an interview.

"It took a year, beginning last September until the final product. That was on Aug. 9."

The work on insulin began shortly after the same team of researchers chemically synthesized the hormone somatostatin in the first demonstrated practical benefit from recombinant DNA technology in which scientists are able to combine segments of hereditary material from organisms of different species to create life forms with new chacteristics.

Dr. Keiichi Itakura, one of the City of Hope researchers, said about 10 to 20 per cent of all diabetics are allergic to animal insulin and while the human population is increasing rapidly with an associated increase in diabetics of about 6 per cent per year, the animal population is decreasing.

"The insulin shortage becomes more severe every year," he said. "There are about 6 million known diabetics in the United States alone and about 1 million are insulin users."

Posties Waiting

OTTAWA (CP) — Letter carriers are in a legal strike position today.

But whether the 18,000 members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada will withdraw services will not be known until later in the week when results of a strike vote are in, union spokesmen said.

Union president Robert McGarry says if members authorize a strike, the union will be ready to walk out at the end of the month.

Main disagreement with the post office is over a cost-of-living formula. A mediation panel recommended an 18-month contract with a 40-cents-an-hour wage increase retroactive to July 1 and a further 30-cents-an-hour increase effective July 1, 1978. The last contract expired June 30.

Air Woes Sept. 20?

MONTREAL (CP) — Another Air Canada shutdown could come as early as Sept. 20 if members of the Canadian Air Line Flight Attendants Association agree this week to give their union a strike mandate.

The airline's 2,700 flight attendants belonging to the union are currently taking a strike vote by mail and the vote results should be known by Sept. 15.

Liberals Widening Lead In Gallup Poll

TORONTO (CP) — The federal Liberals in the first week of August widened their lead over the Progressive Conservatives and were supported by 45 per cent of the decided voters, according to a Gallup poll released today.

Thirty-three per cent of those questioned were undecided.

The poll shows the Conservatives were supported by 35 per cent of the decided voters and the New Democratic Party by 15 per cent. The remainder of the decided voters supported other parties.

Poll results are based on 1,015 personal interviews with eligible voters, 18 years and over, across Canada.

The question asked was: "If a federal election were held today, which party's candidate do you think you would favor?"

The poll was taken four days after Prime Minister Trudeau made a speech on television in which he pledged to reduce government spending by $2 billion, reduce the size of the public service and convert the post office to a Crown corporation.

In July, the Liberals had 42 per cent of the decided voters, the Conservatives 34 per cent, the NDP 19 per cent and other parties had five per cent.

Opposition Leader Joe Clark said in Vancouver today that he hoped the latest Gallup poll results would give Prime Minister Trudeau the courage to call an election.

Clark said he would be delighted if an election was called and said he was confident he could win.

The results indicated the Conservatives were ahead in nine provinces and behind in

CANADIAN DOLLAR TOUCHES LOWEST

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian dollar set another 45-year low on New York money markets Tuesday after the Bank of Canada released figures showing it intervened heavily in August to support the sagging currency.

The dollar closed at 86.77 U.S. cents on the inter-bank wholesale market, down 11-50 of a cent from Friday's closing of 86.99 cents.

By noon today, it was down even further at 86.66 U.S. cents.

The last 45-year low was recorded only last Wednesday, with the dollar slipping to 86.86 cents before recovering slightly by week's end. Currency markets were closed Monday for the Labor Day holiday.

One trader said continued negative market reaction to the figures, released in Ottawa Tuesday, could push the dollar further down for the rest of the week.

In the last two months, Ottawa has spent nearly $1.1 billion of its U.S. dollar holdings to support the dollar, which has been losing confidence among market participants because of Canada's economic situation.

Port Pickets Idle Shipping

VANCOUVER (CP) — Container facilities at the Port of Vancouver were idled Tuesday as 136 striking National Harbors Board employees increased picket action.

The clerical and maintenance workers, represented by the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, local 517, went on strike 10 days ago in a contract dispute.

They had been picketing harbors board offices and maintenance sheds, but Tuesday they set up outside three other NHB facilities—Vanterm, Centennial Pier and Lynnterm. About 750 longshoremen refused to cross the picket lines.

Bulk exports such as coal, wheat and lumber, were still being handled by private terminals.

Fred Spoke, port general manager, said in a news release that several vessels were being directed to other terminals in port, while Canadian container cargo is being off-loaded in Seattle.

A spokesman for Casco Terminals Ltd., the stevedoring operation at Centennial Pier, said the company is losing several thousand dollars a day.

Union spokesmen said the picketing would continue 24 hours a day in an effort to get the NHB back to the bargaining table. The workers are seeking an 80-cent-an-hour wage increase to reach parity with dockworkers employed by private companies. The current base rate is $8.33 an hour.

Spoke said the harbors board offered to meet with the union if it would be flexible in its demands.

"The union, however, is apparently not prepared to depart from their position, which has not changed on the basic issues since the negotiations were started several months ago," he said.

City CBC Station Chopped

It's official — the CBC has indefinitely suspended plans for its new Victoria station originally scheduled to start broadcasting Nov. 30.

CBC president Al Johnson said station CBUVT on Channel 10 will be delayed as a result of a $71 million budget cutback ordered by the federal government.

But CBC regional director Len Lauk said today construction will continue on the Blanshard Street site and the $2 million building will be finished on schedule.

Broadcasting equipment worth about $5 million will not be installed for at least a couple of years, Lauk said.

He said CBC executives plan to meet with Victoria council to discuss proposals for use of the building.

Johnson said CBC expects CHEK-TV to remain an affiliate and continue providing national service to Victoria and surrounding areas.

CHEK planned to join CTV after CBC Victoria opened. The Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission has already approved the move.

CHEK-TV news director Tony Cox said station heads are discussing the effects of the CBC decision.

A spokesman for Victoria Cablevision said today he is sad the new station will not be operating this year.

"I'm sad about it, because Victoria had a lot to gain," said Len Charlish. "The station would have provided about 55 jobs."

As a result of the decision, Charlish said Victoria Cablevision will continue broadcasting on Channel 10.

Victoria viewers would not have lost KING-TV, Seattle, Channel 5, if CBC had constructed its local transmitter and started broadcasting, Charlish said.

The cablevision service planned to put community programming on Channel 11 and move 11 to midband.

In Vancouver, the CBC's announcement was immediately applauded by Garth Pither, chairman of the Association of Lower Mainland Cablevision Operators.

"We're definitely enthused because we had written to the CRTC suggesting it would be a good plan to shelf Channel 10 until such time that it develops substantially-different programming than Channel 2, Vancouver," said Pither in an interview.

'Gets Under the Gut When You Meet Bad Moments'

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Looking at her in the lobby of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, you'd never dream she's probably the best-known woman pilot in the world.

Sheila Scott, an unassuming and soft-spoken Londoner, was here for a quick view of Victoria after being the guest speaker at the Abbotsford Air Show's banquet.

Scott has toppled records in Europe and North Africa. She first began flying in 1959 and entered her first air race that year in an old modified Tiger Moth.

She broke her first record in 1965, going on to topple 15 records in 36 hours.

In 1966 she made her first around-the-world flight in a single-engine Piper Commanche, this time setting 96 records.

She made another trip around the world in 1968.

In 1971 she became the first man or woman to fly over the North Pole in a light plane, this time a Piper Aztec. She's careful to point out she wasn't the first to fly over the North Pole. That honor goes to Charlie Blair, who did it in a Mustang in 1948.

For her flying achievements she was awarded the Order of the British Empire.

She admits to having had moments of terror as well as elation.

"There are good moments and terrible moments," she says. "It does get under the gut when you meet the bad ones. Then there's sometimes the political thing when you land in countries to refuel. It's all part of the adventure."

★

Famed Pilot Has Been Breaking Records Since 1965

★

A bad car accident 2½ years ago forced Scott to sell her last plane in order to pay her heavy medical expenses but the plane is still flying. Scott says she sold the Piper Aztec to Contact Airways of Alberta and it is now being used in the Arctic.

"I left all three of my planes flying alive. They've done every thing in the world for me and it was important to leave them flying," she says.

While grounded, Scott has turned to writing and lecturing. She already has three books published — Barefoot in the Sky, I Must Fly and On Top of the World — and has four more in the making. One is a children's book, one is on aviation pioneers which she considers have been overlooked, another is a novel and the fourth, called Sheila's Notebook, is a collection of age-old tips.

During her years of flying, Scott became a firm believer in ESP (extra sensory perception) and she still is.

She says that when she first experienced evidence of ESP while flying she put it down to being a woman and overtired.

"But it happened so often — it became almost a daily experience — that I became convinced," she recalls.

With one more bout of surgery to go, Scott is restless to be flying again.

She says when the next around-the-world race begins she will be there.

Parade Open to All

The excitement starts and ends in Gorge Park on Sunday.

In the morning a spontaneous parade will be organized and it will get under way promptly at noon, proceeding along Tillicum to Gorge Road and down to Craigflower Bridge on Admirals.

From there, at 1 p.m. the first of three Great Inner Tube races starts at 1 p.m. Women's doubles is first, followed 15 minutes later by mixed doubles and then men's doubles 15 minutes after that.

The racers keep to the left of four buoys in the Gorge giving spectators on the shore a close look at the action.

Best viewing spot for both the parade and the race is in the picnic area along Gorge Road.

Hot dogs, soft drinks and other refreshments will be available during the day's events.

No advance registration is required to join the parade. Anyone with a decorated vehicle may enter. In addition, the Victoria Vintage Car Club will put its vehicles on display in the parade.

Police departments are co-operating by blocking off traffic along the parade route of Tillicum and Gorge Road between noon and 1 p.m. Buses will be temporarily re-routed during those hours.

After the parade and race, the excitement will centre at Kinsmen's Gorge Park where trophies will be awarded.

Advance registration is required to enter the race — and there's still time. But bring the official entry form into the Times office or leave it at any participating sporting goods store. It's too late to mail them.

The eight locations where the forms can be left are: Ray's Sports Centre at 1692 Douglas and at 1918 Sooke in Colwood, LaPointe's Sporting Goods at 24 — 1153 Esquimalt and 3617 Douglas, Alexander's Sporting Goods at 2244 Sooke, Premier Sports and Cycle at 2965 Tillicum, Oak Bay Sporting Goods at 2077 Cadboro Bay and Kinney's World of Sports at 4450 West Saanich.

Hampton Park Hustlers will draw up the official list of competitors after picking up the forms from the Times and the sporting good goods stores at noon Friday.

Contestants already entered are reminded that nothing is to be added to the inner tube. They are to be propelled by paddling only — no sails or motors.

Costumes are welcome.

City's Economy In Good Shape To Face Winter

Victoria's economy is stronger now than at any time during the past three years, local Canada Employment Centre manager Stan Purdy said today.

"We are going into the winter in a better position than in the last two years," he said.

Winter will be tough but there are some bright prospects. He said a Victoria survey conducted by local information director Dan Bowes showed:

— The forest industry continues to prosper and employment should be at high levels during the winter.

— The tourist season has been exceptionally good and the city's second season, from mid-September to mid-October, is about to begin.

— Retail sales are strongly higher than at the same time last year, with the surge of back-to-school clothing sales yet to come.

— The construction industry improves month by month and real estate sales are higher.

Purdy said tourist revenues were up at least 11 per cent and could go higher. High-spending tourists without children are expected to arrive in numbers, starting next week. This late-summer boom normally runs to Thanksgiving Day (Oct. 9) at least.

Purdy said he hoped local tourist officials have something in mind to keep the industry going beyond that date.

He said stores are reporting a brisk sale of fall fashions, cosmetics and jewelry — especially B.C. jade items — and school supplies sold well at the end of August.

School clothing sales, however, normally do not get under way in earnest until mid-September.

"Students look around and see what other people are wearing and then they go out and buy."

The Canada Employment Centre held recruiting drives in August for both Eaton's and The Bay in anticipation of the fall season.

Jobs normally open up at this time of year to replace students heading back to school or university.

There will be a flurry of hiring until about mid-month when it will stop dramatically, he said.

Yarrows shipyard employed a peak of 480 during August, up from 450 in July, and employment will be stable this month due to a repair contract for the Taiwan Phoenix. Prospects are uncertain beyond that date.

The Oakland Industries cannery reported it maintained a dayshift of 175 during August but nightshift people were called in only when needed. Activity is expected to drop further this month as trolling activity declines and fall chum salmon have not yet appeared.

Real estate sales in August totalled $18.5 million on 288 units, up from $16.9 million on 262 units the previous August. There were 656 properties listed during the month, down from 800 in the same month one year ago.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Are there any statistics showing how many Canadians speak English and how many speak French? L.G.

A. According to the 1971 census 60 per cent of the population spoke English while 28.9 per cent were primarily French-speaking.

Prime Time Awarded Another $99,622

The federal government has renewed a $99,622 grant to Prime Time, a Victoria research group developing programs for women in their middle years.

The three-year project, sponsored by the B.C. Association of Social Workers and the YM—YWCA, started in 1977.

Some of the programs already developed for middle-aged women are being put to use by the Y and Camosun College.

The federal grant is one of 77, totalling $3.5 million, for organizations across Canada.

The grants are designed to promote improvements and innovation in welfare services by providing financial assistance, consultation, information and advice to welfare agencies for short-term research.

Enough U.S. Beer To Last a Month

Some government liquor outlets in the city have enough American beer stockpiled to keep Canadian brands off the shelves for another month, store managers said Tuesday.

The American beer was brought in during the three-month strike-lockout at B.C. breweries that ended last Thursday.

Provincial consumer and corporate affairs officials have warned outlets not to order Canadian beer until the stock of U.S. brew is reduced.

Tex Enemark, deputy minister of consumer and corporate affairs, refused to say exactly how much American beer remains, but he did say that half a million cases is not unreasonable.

★ ★ ★

Ten city liquor store operators contacted Tuesday reported they had enough American stock to last for several weeks, and some said they had a month's supply

"There's an awful lot of American beer in the warehouse," said a spokesman at one store. "We've heard word that we're not to order any Canadian beer until its gone."

Enemark said: "It depends how quickly it sells. All kinds of licensees bought as much as they could when it was available. Now they are finding themselves all jammed up with American stock. Others were able to time it pretty well."

★ ★ ★

John Langley, spokesman for the 1,000-member brewery workers union, accused government officials of over-stocking the American beer.

Langley said the breweries have been forced to lay off about 30 workers.

"We're jammed full of Canadian beer ready to roll," he said.

Enemark denied there's any pile-up of Canadian beer. Brewery officials assured him it would take up to three weeks to get back to capacity, he said.

"Had we cut our (American) orders close we'd be without any beer," Enemark said, adding that cool temperatures have caused sales to wind down.

Cruiser Jumps Gun on Exercise

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

A multi-nation exercise begins Monday but the Royal Navy's helicopter cruiser HMS Blake carried out a mini-exercise of her own on her way into Esquimalt today.

Rear-Admiral R.R. Squires said today the Blake received a message that an able seaman aboard the Esquimalt-based destroyer HMCS Gatineau — 70 miles at sea — had to be brought to shore.

One of the Blake's four Sea Hawk helicopters was despatched, manned by an American crew on loan to the RN.

The Blake alone has a crew of 780 and officers and men aboard the other seven vessels accompanying her swell the total complement to 2,000.

Admiral Squires said today the Blake was originally built as a cruiser with gun turrets fore and aft but her role is now anti-submarine warfare so turrets in her stern were removed to make way for a large helicopter hangar.

Because of her role, the Blake is always accompanied by a submarine, in this case the nucleur submarine HMS Conqueror. Unlike the United States Navy, which frowns on having the public go aboard nuclear-powered vessels, Squires said the submarine will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

While the First Flotilla's main commitment is to NATO, Squires said such deployments as this one — there have been seven in recent years — is to allow officers and men to travel and see the world.

Nudging into shore with protective tugs at her outer hull, the Blake was preceded by the New Zealand frigate HMNZS Otago. Behind her came the frigate HMS Hermione, a band aboard her belting out the tune Amazing Grace.

Also in the flotilla were the guided missile destroyer HMS Birmingham, the frigate HMS Leande and the Royal Navy Auxiliary vessels Stromness, Tidespring and Resurgent. The frigate HMS Juno made her way into the Inner Harbor where she will remain until Monday.

As soon as the lines were secured a phone was put aboard Blake. Another officer explained that this would be used for a Dial-A-Sailor program in which they hope Victorians will phone and offer to host the visiting sailors. The number is 388-1369.

The program will go into effect on the weekend.

Bridge Won't Fall . . .

Motorists shouldn't be afraid of the Johnson Street bridge falling down, according to the city engineering staff.

Pat Boulger, Victoria's senior assistant engineer, said today a consultant firm is undertaking a comprehensive study of the structure and a newspaper report of cracks appearing in the bridge shouldn't set off any alarms.

"There are no immediate problems there, if there were we'd do something about it," said Boulger.

He said that some restoration work will probably be needed on the old bridge next year, but the extent of repairs won't be known until the consultants' report is handed in at month's end.

Over the decades the bridge has undergone numerous and costly repairs to keep it in an operating condition.

Law Has Yet to Cope with Computer Errors

By MICHAEL SCHRAGE
Washington Post

NEW YORK — An air traffic controller, relying on information from his computer console, directs two Boeing 747s on to intersecting paths. The jets collide, burst into flame and all aboard perish.

—A hospital minicomputer, monitoring a patient recovering from surgery, fails to alert hospital staff that the patient is having a stroke. The patient dies.

—A company discovers that its computer has mangled valuable and sensitive information beyond recovery. The loss gravely weakens the company's market position.

In each instance, investigators trace the fault to errors in the computer programs that directed the operations.

"Those examples aren't fanciful," says Susan Nycum, a San Francisco attorney who serves as vice-chairman of the American Bar Association's computer law section and is a co-director of the Computer Law Association. "They illustrate the problem."

What Recourse?

The problem is whether people harmed as a result of computer error can recover damages.

By virtue of their increasing strength and sophistication, computers now touch nearly every facet of society. Computers regulate automated machinery, help coordinate railroad transportation and manipulate billions of dollars worth of information each day. Programming errors in these computers can cause significant personal injury, property damage, and financial loss.

"The computer is now so pervasive in both business and governmemt that it increasingly has a direct impact on people's lives. There is now greater exposure for personal harm and economic loss caused by computer," says Nycum.

Grey Areas

However, the legal framework to remedy such harms is uncertain. Questions of computer negligence and liability fall into the shadowy grey areas of the law and the judicial system has yet to come to grips with them.

"Determining the proper judicial course will be extremely difficult," asserts Nycum. "No fact patterns have emerged, no precedents have been set and the whole area is very complex.

"We really don't know the extent to which a software company can be held liable for harms their computer programs create."

Part of the difficulty arises from the cloudy status of computer programs and software in the eyes of the law. For tax purposes, computer programs are considered to be services. Yet many lawyers and computer industry people believe that computer programs should be considered products.

"It's difficult and unwise to classify software with one word (products) that's normally used in another context and put it into a common law pigeonhole," says Milton Wessel, a law professor at New York University.

Office of the future: Who pays if those computers are poorly programmed?

The courts have not yet decided whether computer programs are goods or services. The distinction has a number of legal ramifications.

In the area of tort law, the question hinges on negligence.

Did the software company do or fail to do something that contributed to the resulting harm? If this can be established, the next question is whether the action or omission violated a standard of care owed to the customer using the computer program.

Nycum and others argue that computer programmers and software development companies should be held to professional standards. So far no professional standards exist for programmers and software companies — although computer industry people are trying to establish professional certification standards.

Furthermore, this problem is exacerbated by the fact that it is next to impossible to establish the correctness of a given computer program.

Nycum and Wessel, among others, agree that it would be extraordinarily difficult to establish legal standards of care for computer programs because of their inherent complexity and their comparative newness. However, Nycum feels that many types of computer programs have been around long enough so that certain standards of care should be legally established.

Perhaps the critical aspects of liability arise in the case of third parties harmed by erroneously programmed computers.

Take the hypothetical example of an air traffic controller, who, solely because of computer error, mistakenly causes two planes to collide and their occupants to perish.

Would the families of the passengers and crew be entitled to sue the developers of the defective computer program?

Legal observers feel that the courts might accord computer programmers the same legal protection as accountants and thus effectively absolve them from negligence.

Trend of Law

Yet the trend of the law to protect the ultimate consumer is accelerating.

Clearly, the answer to the hypothetical question is shrouded in uncertainty.

But Professor Wessel does not see the question as so obscure. "I don't believe there's a difference between the liability for software and any other product," he says.

In fact, legal observers feel that if computer programs are held to be services then the protections provided by product liability would be analyzed into the service area.

But a spokesman for IBM says, "As with all our products, should an error occur, we are not responsible for consequential damage." IBM declined to comment whether it had ever settled out of court on a situation of this nature.

A major fear of the computer industry is, if the courts should hold software developers liable for harms caused by defective programs, program development in the U.S. would be seriously crippled.

One computer lawyer points to the time when he advised an Illinois software developer not to design an intensive-care-unit monitoring program because of the potential liability involved.

Another consideration is the possible effect on electronic funds transfer (EFT). Recent congressional action has limited bank customer losses to $50 in case of computer error.

However, it is left up to the bank and the systems designer to determine who bears the cost of the misplaced funds. If the software developer is held liable for the loss, this would discourage development of EFT technology as the risk of loss might be too great.

Richard Bernacchi, a Los Angeles lawyer who is the West Coast vice-president of the Computer Law association, asserts that "most software houses couldn't afford financially to put themselves in the position to assume liability."

Bernacchi feels that policy questions will enter into any decision handed down on the liability of computer programmers.

Courts Wary

"In cases such as these, the courts often look to who is best able to assume responsibility," says Bernacchi. "The courts will look very hard at the question before coming out with a negative opinion against software developers."

Already, computer software houses are taking out insurance to cover possible damages that their programs might cause and both Bernacchi and Nycam detect a greater awareness of the problems conjured up by liability when they negotiate contracts for computer companies.

Anti-Vietnamese Feelings Create Strange Bedfellows

By WARREN BROWN

NEW ORLEANS — The Vietnamese refugees who fled here from a falling country three years ago have been caught in the middle of a different war.

The conflict in this semi-tropical city and its nearby communities is not between Communist and non-Communist. It is the long-running battle between black and white Americans; but many of the combatants in both racial camps have come to regard the South Vietnamese as enemies.

It is a peculiar struggle in which groups that should be allies are seemingly cast as opponents, and those that have been historical opponents are seen in many quarters as allies.

For example, there is the Urban league of Greater New Orleans, long the local champion of equal rights. The mostly black league has caused a major controversy here by suggesting that the new minority of South Vietnamese is growing far too rapidly and without due regard to the economic impact it is having on the city's predominantly poor population of blacks.

The immediate target of the league's criticism is the Associated Catholic Charities (ACC), an influential, predominantly white organization dedicated to helping the poor and which directed a portion of the resettlement of Vietnamese refugees in the area. ACC, in the past, has been loyal to the ideals of the Urban League.

Then there is Chalin O. Perez, a powerful white official of nearby Plaquemines Parish (county), the scion of a wealthy family whose opposition to integration and "outsiders" is legend.

Perez, for once, agreed with blacks on something in accusing the federal government and the ACC of "dumping" South Vietnamese refugees into the area, with its French-Catholic culture and its fishing heritage.

Perez announced last month that he will take steps that could lead to the departure of Vietnamese fishermen from his parish.

But the conflict swirling around the Vietnamese, about 8,000 of whom are living here and in adjacent towns, involves more than a listing of major players. It is a highly emotional thing, one that is largely a matter of perceptions, of long-held frustrations, and of what local Vietnamese leader Vu Huu Chuong called "dangerous misunderstandings."

Since, May 1975, South Vietnamese refugees have flocked to the New Orleans area. An ACC official said his organization was directly responsible for bringing 2,100 refugees and that 5,400 other refugees came to the area on their own.

Many blacks here, like Dyan-French Cole, a community activist, complained that the Vietnamese are being used by the whites to frustrate black ambitions for a better place in the local economic and social order.

"Every time you look around, somebody is coming here and being put ahead of the blacks who were born here," Cole said. "We were treated as property from the beginning, never as human beings. Now we are being told to step back and make room for the Vietnamese, just as we were told to step back and make room for the Cubans and everybody else the whites wanted to put head of us."

On the other hand, many whites complain that they have already "given in too much" to black demands. It is enough to have one minority group always knocking at your door without having to put up with another — in this case, the South Vietnamese refugees — doing the same thing, disgruntled whites say.

The problems here, real and imagined, are plentiful; and they tend to obscure the voices of those people, black and white, who say they welcome the Vietnamese to this area with no strings attached.

New Orleans, for instance, has what urban planners call a "distressed economy." Indeed, New Orleans is said by its mayor, Ernest N. Morial, and other urban planners to have "the most distressed economy" of any city its size in the United States.

There are an estimated 586,000 persons residing here, about 51 per cent of them black. More than half the blacks, 56 per cent, live at or below the poverty level. The city has a 7.6 per cent overall unemployment rate. Unemployment in the black community is put at 22 per cent for all adults, and at 45 per cent for black teenagers.

It is this competition for scarce resources, against a historical background of black-white friction, that is generating much of the discontent about the movement of Vietnamese to this area.

Rev. Michael Haddad, executive director of the Associated Catholic Charities, which is considered the major force behind the South Vietnamese resettlement program here, said:

"The decision to admit more refugees is one that will affect only the poor in this country, and it won't affect the rich or the middle class. I know that's a problem, but the problem was here long before the Vietnamese came.

But there is a difference says Daniel C. Thompson, a local university vice-president and sociologist who also serves as president of the city's Co-Ordinating Council of Black Leadership:

"We have never seen blacks in this city so frustrated and mad as they are now about their economic position. There is a kind of reckless anger out there that wasn't there even in the 1960s, when, at least, there was some kind of hope."

Modern Cobbetts Needed?

By WILLIAM SAFIRE
New York Times

FARNHAM, England — A famous old inn, located about 90 minutes west of London, used to be called The Jolly Farmer. Now it is named The William Cobbett, after the angry and vituperative journalist born here in 1763.

I've been collecting Cobbett's works for years. One of journalism's first investigative commentators, his unpopular eruptions in print made him the only man to be chased first out of England and then out of America for printing what he saw to be the truth.

He began as a soldier in the service of George III, but after charging his officers with corruption in regimental accounts, Cobbett was forced to flee France and go to America. In the U.S., taking the prickly name of Peter Porcupine, he proceeded to infuriate most of his new neighbors by extolling the virtues of England, lacerating their founding fathers and even presuming to disagree with Noah Webster's English grammar.

When a Philadelphia judge fined Cobbett $5,000 (then an enormous sum) for libel, it broke the back of the Porcupine's Gazette and drove its editor back to England and a warm welcome from the Tory government.

That romance did not last long. By 1804, Cobbett's new paper, The Political Registar, turned on England's establishment and became the foremost radical organ of opinion. Essayist William Hazlitt coined the term "fourth estate" to describe Cobbett's influence. Soon the Tories had had enough of him, and a libel conviction landed the grammarian-farmer-editor in Newgate Prison for two years.

GEORGE III: Is press freedom ebbing 200 years later?

After serving his sentence, Cobbett continued his attacks, but when the government threatened to jail him again, he hurried back to America and pioneered in the study of agriculture.

The tumultuous life of this combative, good-natured, ill-tempered, often bigoted and unabashedly inconsistent man had a happy ending. But the government tried to jail him again, this time for sedition. Cobbett had a following the judges could not safely ignore. Instead of being imprisoned again, he was elected to Parliament, where he put some of his reformist ideas into effect.

Following the path of Cobbett's rural rides to the tavern bearing his name in Farnham, a visitor is struck by the similarity of the harassment, now as then, of the press by the state. Particularly by the judges.

No longer are libel and sedition the means by which judges nibble away at the very first protection against tyranny demanded by the men who signed the U.S. constitution. Under the banner of fair trial rights, the law is putting itself above the law.

Recently, judges in Washington decided that it serves justice best for police officers to have the right to rummage through newsmen's private notes. In New Jersey, a judge has decided that it serves justice best for a defendant to be able to try to force a reporter to reveal his confidential sources.

The reason the judges can get away with repealing the First Amendment is that the press has done nothing to stop the rise of judicial hubris. Who passed the social legislation of the Fifties and Sixties? Not the Congress, but the courts. Who struck down a president? Not Congress or the press, but primarily the courts. And who was leading the cheering as an unrestrained judiciary became the most powerful of once-equal branches of government? Most of the press, now paying for that poor judgment with its freedom.

At the very root of the U.S. system of law is the idea that no man shall be his own judge. Yet in the decisions about the extent of judicial power, the judges are their own judges.

A New York Times reporter sits in jail today for not telling who helped him expose an admitted failure of our law enforcers. How different is his case from the persecution, nearly two centuries ago, of William Cobbett?

Vandals Hard To Beat

EDMONTON (CP) — The construction industry has no practical means of protecting itself from vandals, said the owner of a large crawler tractor which caused $150,000 damage Monday.

Ray Necula, owner of Double N Earthmovers, said in an interview Tuesday that he expects insurance rates will increase in the wake of the incident.

Four persons are believed to have started the 400-horsepower, 60-ton crawler tractor that left a kilometre of destruction in its wake before demolishing two condominium suites under constructon in the city's west end.

"If those four were ever caught, they could work the rest of their lives without ever repaying the damage," Necula said.

Most machines are protected with anti-vandalism panels and locks, he said.

But there is little that can be done to stop a determined vandal with knowledge of the machine, he said.

Parents Continue Sit-In

DALHOUSIE, N.B. (CP) — Two groups of parents and some of their children continued to occupy school board offices here today as they awaited word from Education Minister Charles Gallagher on whether their demands will be met.

A spokesman for the parents, Theresa Perry, estimated that between 80 and 100 people are participating in the occupation.

The parents from the lower Charlo area want the right to choose either unilingual or bilingual schools for their children and Dundee parents oppose plans to close their village school.

"We don't want money," Mrs. Perry said in a telephone interview. "We just want our rights."

She said the occupation will continue for "as long as it takes."

The occupation began at 9 a.m. Tuesday and about 100 people held two board officials virtually prisoner for more than 11 hours to try to force a meeting with Gallagher. The two were released unharmed.

Mrs. Perry estimated that 30 people spent the night in the offices in shifts. Some had sleeping bags. She said police patrolled the area Tuesday night but there has been "no violence of any kind."

"We just got the runaround (from Gallagher)," said Perry. "The same thing we've been getting for the last six months. Well, we're going to sit it out until we get some answers."

DREDGER BUCK PASSED?

TORONTO (CP) — A former dredging executive testified Tuesday he believes one of the main prosecution witnesses decided a long time ago that if police uncovered wrongdoing in the industry, he would save himself by implicating someone higher up in the company.

Harold McNamara, former president of McNamara Corp., was testifying at a trial in which he, 10 other men and nine companies are charged with conspiracy to defraud public agencies of $1.28 million by rigging dredging contracts.

McNamara, asked why Louis Quinlan, a former vice-president in charge of the company's dredging division, would say that McNamara participated in bid-rigging negotiations if it were not true, said:

"The only explanation I can give is that he's out there and I'm here defending myself."

PWA Trying To Jump Gun

SASKATOON (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. (PWA) is looking into a way it can inaugurate service into Saskatchewan ahead of the scheduled date next spring, a senior PWA official said Tuesday.

The Alberta government-owned airline is due to begin service into the province next April. Dave Jaycocks, PWA vice-president, said if Nordair Ltd. takes over Winnipeg-Toronto air routes operated by PWA's subsidiary, Transair, it would free aircraft to fly into Saskatchewan.

Jaycocks said talks are going on with Air Ciada and Nordair concerning Transair's eastern route and a decision on the change should be made within a week.

Air Canada is currently the only carrier flying into major Canadian cities from Saskatoon and Regina.

Epileptic Won't Be Served

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP) — Both the town and its police department say they are unwilling to help Jim Parsons, a 38-year-old epileptic, in his battle to get service from two local restaurants.

Parsons, who says he was refused service at the Miss Ingersoll and Coffee Spot restaurants after having seizures in both places last March, enlisted the aid of the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

The commission has informed Parsons that it made verbal agreements with both restaurants for Parsons to be allowed take-out service. However, the restaurants would not allow him to sit in their dining rooms.

In an interview Tuesday, Police Chief Ronald James said the matter was not a police affair, adding that he agreed with the restaurateurs.

Chief James said that if he owned a restaurant, he would not want a patron "slobbering, burping and spilling his guts all over."

Drapeau Probe Sought On Cost Over-Runs

MONTREAL (CP) — The provincial government inquiry into cost over-runs in the 1976 Olympic Games should publicly examine the role of Mayor Jean Drapeau's administration before this fall's municipal election, says the Montreal Citizens Movement, a municipal opposition party.

In a brief submitted Tuesday to the inquiry headed by Judge Albert Malouf, the party said it would be "a true parody of justice as well as flagrant hypocrisy if the population of Montreal did not have the chance to hear the testimony of certain members of the administration of Mayor Drapeau before the Nov. 12 elections."

Judge Malouf opens public hearings here Thursday, after several months of closed-door investigation into the $1-billion deficit run up by the Games.

Drapeau's own role in the preparations for the Olympics should be considered a priority at the hearings, the brief said.

The inquiry should also look at the legality of the city awarding construction contracts for Games installations without calling public tenders, the brief said, along with those of the city's executive committee and architect Roger Taillibert, who designed the main stadium.

The party also wants the inquiry to examine publicly the planning, contract negotiations, and preparation of budgetary estimates before the Games.

The inquiry should also look at the legality of the city awarding construction contracts for Games installations without calling public tenders, the brief said.

Giguere Back in Court

MONTREAL (CP) — Liberal Senator Louis Giguere — acquitted in June on charges of conspiracy in the Sky Shops affair — is to appear in court again Nov. 6 for a preliminary hearing on a related charge.

The 66-year-old senator was acquitted by jury of having conspired to accept a benefit of $95,000 in return for the use of his influence in extending a lease for a duty-free shop operated by Sky Shops Export Ltd. at Dorval airport here.

This time he will appear on a charge of having accepted the money, rather than having conspired to accept it.

Testimony during the trial in June showed the senator sold 5,000 shares in Sky Shops for a $95,000 profit shortly after buying them.

Giguere testified he had been given a verbal option on the shares years before the question of a lease extension ever came up.

The Crown has appealed the acquittal.
